Redistricting Up For Action

Winchester's representative district remains intact under a plan now awaiting adoption in the Senate.

Despite attempts by representatives from surrounding towns to carve up the Winchester district, the plan before the Senate keeps the town under a single member, Rep. Harrison Chadwick, Republican from Winchester. No other town has any area attached to the Winchester district.

Representatives from Arlington, Woburn and Burlington had sought to carve up Winchester, according to Chadwick, who said the job of defending the intact "Winchester district will be easier because of the favorable committee report.

He said had the Winchester district been split by the committee "an amendment to put it back together would have been uphill all the way." He added that "the burden of proof" (to divide Winchester) is now on the representatives from Burlington, Woburn and Arlington.

"The fact that the committee reports the bill this way means the leadership will probably support it," Winchester's representatives for 26 years said. "But we are never out of the woods until the governor signs the bill."

Following Senate action, which could be this week, the bill goes to the House, where attempts will be made to amend the redistricting bill, according to Chadwick.

He thinks amendments will be proposed in the House to take Winchester precincts and add them to the representatives from Woburn or Medford.

It will be at least a couple of weeks before a Senate-passed bill gets to the House, Chadwick felt.

Chadwick said Winchester has remained intact because he has worked closely to keep it that way and because it's logical to leave the town whole. "It's virtually a perfect sized single district." The town's population of about 23,000 closely meets the representative-sized district norm of 22,800.

'Parade Of Civilization' -- Beer Cans, Bottles Bikes, Lawn Mowers -- Taken From River

Thirty-three truckloads of debris were removed from a four-mile stretch of the Aberjona River and its banks last Saturday by Winchester and Woburn Boy Scouts. Some 235 boys and men took part in the fourth annual river cleanup, working in teams of two from canoes on the river and on foot along the banks.

At seven dump points along the route, points were awarded for trash collected. Trucks provided by the Woburn Highway Department and the Winchester Park Department hauled the debris away.

Although observers found the weather cold and damp, the participants appeared to enjoy themselves. Portages and canoe upsets were all part of the day's work, and massive quantities of hamburgers sizzled at the chuckwagon at the journey's end.

Paul Nadeauk and Tom Shirley, Troop 507, winners in the canoe trash collecting category, were awarded pack frames. Second prize winners were Bill Babineau and Mike Preckoll, Troop 504, who received optimus camp stoves. Additional prizes, including flashlights, knives and gift certificates, were awarded to 16 runner-up teams of canoeists.

In the bank beaver category, winners were Dennis Peary and Dean Jackomino, Troop 541, who received sleeping pads; and Jack Irwin and Jeff Morrow, Troop 504, whose prizes were gerry stoves. Fourteen runner-up bank beaver teams also won prizes.

Trash collected included truckloads of beer cans and bottles, plastic containers, tires, bikes, lumber, baby carriages, lawn mowers, 55-gallon drums, and other assorted debris - "the parade of civilization," Jack Farrell, organizer of the event, said sadly.

So many shopping cars, worth $65 each were retrieved from the river that ingenious bank beavers made use of them to push loads of debris from one dump point to the next.

Dead wildlife, including a raccoon, turtle, dog, duck, rabbit, crayfish, and pigeon, was also collected.

A total of 90 canoeists in 45 canoes and 60 bank beavers accomplished the cleanup. They were assisted by 35 older boy scouts and 50 men. Troops participating in the event included Winchester Troops 503, 506, 507, 508, 525 and 526 and Woburn Troops 500, 504, 510 and 541.

Further assistance was provided by the Winchester Auxiliary Fire Department, which helped clean canoes at the finish line, the Winchester Park Department, which supplied three trucks and assisted in moving the chuckwagon, and the Woburn Highway Department, which sent three trucks and a loader. In addition, both Winchester and Woburn provided police assistance, and the Registry of Motor Vehicles Department of marine and recreational vehicles sent two jeeps.

Financial contributions were made by Aberjona Auto Parts, New England Plastics Corp., Diamond Antenna, J.H. Winn Company, the Winchester National Bank and the EnKa Society. Swanton Street Delicatessen provided food at cost, and Purity SaveMor gave a 10 percent discount on supplies. Jaquith and Company, Woburn, provided 250 burlap bags for bank beavers. Many private citizens made canoes available.

Winchester and Woburn businesses and civic organizations donated the prizes awarded to the 64 canoeist and bank beaver runners-up.

Hospital, Schools, Markets Acting In Meat Boycott Here

As meat sales lessen or remain stable, Winchester merchants pretty well agree that residents are participating in the nationwide boycott against meat, in varying degrees, and that consumption of fish, cheese and other high protein foods has increased during last weekend and early this week.

However, other merchants say they and their customers are paying little attention to the boycott or that their meat sales are so slight anyway that the boycott is not affecting them.

On Tuesday, the Star conducted a telephone interview and talked with personnel at Purity, Save-Mor, Renton's Market, the First National Store, Lynch's Market, the Main Street Food Shop, Neno's Market, the Dairy Barn Drive-In Corp. and 1 or 2 Things for reaction. The White Hen Pantry did not answer its phone and Sam D'Agostino of D'Agostino's Delicatessen was not available for comment.

Jim O'Rourke, manager of Purity-Save-Mor, reports customers in general are in favor of the meat boycott and are pleased that Purity did not offer meat on Monday, lending support to the price demonstration.

"We carried sardines, cheeses and other high protein foods in our meat case," O'Rourke said, adding that people were asking for meatless recipes before he had them in stock.

On Tuesday Purity filled about 60 percent of its meat case with meat products while 40 percent of alternative foods were in the remaining section. O'Rourke feels if customers continue to buy less meat, their action can reduce prices. "We have to stick together," he adds.

On the other hand Lou Snow of Renton's Market feels boycotts "create more problems. They drive small stores out of business," he says noting a few independent grocers he knows were forced out of business previous to the boycott.

Monday's business at Renton's was pretty much like any other Monday insofar as meat sales were concerned, Snow says. If meat sales decreased it was less than 10 percent, he adds, saying there was "a definite increase in fish sales" on Monday.

Bill Lynch of Lynch's Market feels "it is really too early to tell." His meat sales were about the same as usual, and because fish is too high and too scarce, his supply has been small recently.

Henry Sarno of the Main Street Food Shop agrees "it is difficult to evaluate" the affect of the meat boycott. He pointed out that the foul weather on Monday probably affected the number of people out shopping and since business involves a restaurant he wonders if people will go to "that extent in boycotting meat." He figures the chain stores will be feeling the influence of the boycott. "I will be watching closely," however, he says.

Neno Marchesi of Neno's Market found that meat buying increased last week and the past weekened. He considers people were preparing for the upcoming boycott. Though he has sympatny with the boycott, he points out that prices in general have skyrocketed, particularly vegetables. "Why just boycott meat?" he asks.

Clinton DeCecca, filling in for vacationing A Karlberg, manager of the First National Stores, says, "It is hard to tell what is happening." At Finast recently sales of meat have been below average. On last Monday he would guess that meat sales were 70 percent less than usual. "We underordered meat but wanted to have it available for customers who want it." Some of his customers reported that plan eating out a lot during the boycott.

Personally speaking DeCecca says he is in favor of the boycott because it is "drawing attention" to a problem that is "putting profit margins off."

At 1 or 2 Things a spokesman said they do not expect to be affected by the boycott because "we sell very little meat in this store."

Paul Gallant of the Dairy Barn-In Corp. notes that Monday was a pretty usual day. Sales of cold cuts were about the same but there has been a definite increase recently in fish and other food products, probably a 2-1 ratio, with other foods ahead of meat.

One of the above eight merchants who asked to be nameless was adamantly against the boycott feeling that "the farmer has got to get money to buy feed for cattle" (soy beans are three times as high as they used to be, he says) if he is going to buy more cattle for beef and ultimately alleviate the worldwide beef shortage. If more beef were available, the price would come down, he felt "It's the old law of supply and demand."

Looking at the world situation he spoke of Russian and Japanese money buying more than American dollars and cited an instance where Japan pay $1 for beef that is sold to American beef wholesalers at 85 cents per pound. He feels the problem is too complex to expect a meat boycott to be the answer. "Why not boycott other products too?" The reason people are so upset about food is they buy meat every week, whereas they only buy a pair of shoes occasionally, he points out.

Lawrence Braverman, Winchester Hospital's director of food service, reports the hospital has joined the meat boycott. For the weeklong boycott period, hospital employes will be eating meatless meals in the hospital cafeteria while patients will be offered a choice of meatless meals within the limits of their dietary restrictions.

Included in the meatless menus are baked fish varieites, maraconi and salads.

Braverman says, "The immediate effect of this meatless week may not be visible in an immediate reduction in meat prices" but the hospital believes that its action will be "a demonstration to those who control the market place that the publication act in a disciplined and responsible manner."

William Clark, assistant superintendent of schools, reports that alternative meatless meals are being offered in Winchester high school and the two junior highs in support of the meat boycott.

Town meeting meets Mondays and Thursdays at 7:45 p.m. in the new high school. Public may attend.

Courtemanches Win Trip To Bermuda

Mr. and Mrs. John Courtemanche of 111 Loring ave. will be flying to Bermuda for four days and three nights some time before June. They are winners of the trip for two in the recent shopping promotion sponsored by the Winchester Business Association. The trip, valued at $350, includes air fare, hotel and meals.

Courtemanche, an auditor with the federal government in the Department of Housing and Urban Development, and his wife were "fantastically surprised" on learning they are winners. Mrs. Courtemanche says she planned to visit all of the participating merchants' stores to complete entry blanks, but "I never got around to doing it."

Her husband completed three blanks at McCormack's Apothecary, with little thought to the outcome, and became the winner. William Keogh of Kenwin rd. drew the winning stub Saturday afternoon from a barrel containing 5,000 entries.

Mrs. Courtemanche says they don't know when they will be taking the trip because her husband has to arrange for time off from work and they need to consider baby-sitting for their nine-month-old baby. They plan to take their 2½-year-old son with them.

According to Mrs. Nancy Dressler, president of the WBA, the purpose of the promotion was "to generate interest in shopping in Winchester" by giving residents an opportunity to become better acquainted with merchandise offered locally and to realize that Winchester "is a good place to shop."

Gateway Travel, Thompson terr., is handling travel arrangements.

Time Change

Doug Griffin, Red Sox outfielder, will be in Winchester Center Saturday from 9-10 a.m., not during the hours as stated in today's "Play Ball" supplement to The Star.

Main street will be closed to traffic Saturday during Griffin's appearance, when he will sign autographs in the area of Main and Thompson streets.

Red Sox announcer Dave Martin will appear with a surprise guest during the morning festivities.

Education Budget Survives Cut Move In Narrow Rollcall

Attempts to slash $200,000 from the $10.5 million education budget failed last Thursday after town meeting members on a roll call vote refused to return the budget to the School Committee.

The 86-94 roll call against returning the budget came after standing votes of 85-87 and 87-85. Town Moderator Raymond J. Kenney Jr. called for the roll call -- the second in five years -- while members hustled other members in from corridors.

Arguments in favor of returning the budget centered on attempts to cut money for recommended personnel, representing $215,600 in the school budget.

As preface to his motion to cut $200,000, TMM Richard L. Sampson of Prec. 5 recalled the increases in the town budget which have taken place in a decade, pointing out that salaries for school personnel were 2½ times greater than in 1965. The $200,000 drop would have reduced the rate of increase in the town's expenditures from 15 percent to 11 or 12 percent during the 18-month period, he said.

Finance Committee Chairman Lawrence T. Smith stated that his group did not favor the motion based upon a knowledge of the "previous scrutiny" with which the Finance Committee had gone over this budget. He said that each recommended new personnel item had been "challenged." The Board of Selectmen's comment on the motion was less enthusiastic. Chairman Paul F. Amico advised TMMs: "The bullet's there, bite it."

Members then challenged the recommended new personnel. Time was spent debating the need to add 9 ¾ custodians to maintain the two existing custodians which were first added to the staff last year under a federal program.

Parkhurst told his audience that the contractual cleaning with which the School Department had experimented this year was unsatisfactory. He also said that the men were necessary at the three institutions in order to complement the custodial staff at each, and that even if federal funds had not been available through the Emergency Employment Act the two custodial positions would have had to be created.

When one town meeting member noted that the work of the proposed clerk-aide for McCall was presently done by students at no cost to the town, Parkhurst stated that part of the junior high level improvement project would be to take students out of study halls and such activities as office work to tighten up their schedule with more academics.

Prec. 2 TMM Sally W. Kincaid, favoring cuts in the new personnel and elsewhere in the school budget, felt the quality of the school system was "built in" and the town could "live with a contained budget" for 18 months. Most members recognized that the town was committed to the salaries negotiated last fall "with the teacher's union."

Commiteemen Stephen Parkhurst maintained the school budget was "not excessive, but a sound program" and suggested that the time to attempt a reduction in this budget was not on the town meeting floor but earlier when towns belonging to the Massachusetts Association of School Committees could band together to bargain with the teachers' organization collectively.

Composing the $10.5 million are personal services, $9,048,421; other expenses, $1,367,300, and capital outlay, $51,647. This

Comptroller vs. Treasurer vs. TMM Hewis

The town comptroller Monday night blamed the treasurer's office for delays in town reports as town meeting failed to defer action on a budget a member said was affected by the delay.

Town Comptroller James J. Costello said: "It's a sad state of affairs when a municipality of this reputation still doesn't have reports four months after due by law."

He blamed the treasurer's office for failing to process receipts in time. "The receipts of the Treasury Department for December were not recorded until March." Receipts first go to the treasurer to be processed and then to the comptroller.

Treasurer Marguerite H. Troop, on vacation, several weeks ago blamed a heavy case load in her office, confusion over the 18-month budget and state delays for the dilatory processing.

TMM Arthur J. Hewis failed in an attempt to amend passage of the athletic budget by laying it on the table. He had sought to pay for the athletic budget from the surplus account rather than from taxation, thereby reducing the $3.47 tax hike.

Because of the late reports, there is no exact figure on surplus money. "We cannot conduct a fair active citizen cooperation town meeting as long as we don't have the financial figures necessary," Hewis said. "And guesses don't mean a damn."

Finance Chairman Lawrence T. Smith had estimated there is now about $1.4 million in the surplus account. Smith spoke against use of the surplus account for athletics on the grounds the town may need the money soon for a new town yard, rebuilding the incinerator or building a new police station.

He also told the meeting: "We do have important business to attend to. If we can reasonably assume we have adequate information it seems somewhat wrong to defer and delay."

Planning Board Chairman Otto Schaefer said the town meeting from now on will have to work with estimated budget figures because of the 18-month fiscal year.

There was nearly no support for the Hewis motion and the Prec. 1 member, who had been successful in delaying the start of the annual meeting because of incompleted reports, walked out of the meeting hall. The athletic budget was then routinely passed.

Amendment Of $3,000 Means Town Can Use School's Gym

An amendment to the school budget to open the new high school athletic facilities to the public survived a heated debate and a close standing vote at town meeting Monday.

The amendment -- to add $5,000 to hire an athletic supervisor -- finally passed on an 87-76 vote. It lacked any firm backing by the School Committee and was opposed by the Finance Committee. But several impassioned speeches by town meeting members that the town should have use of the facilities apparently convinced the members to approve the money.

TMM Kenneth P. Trevett said: "School buildings are one of the most under utilized in the state. The $5,000 is an important step to take." He said other school facilities should be used by the public too, thus saving "the cost of a general recreation center."

Finance Chairman Lawrence T. Smith said the $5,000 more properly belonged in the Recreation budget and he opposed the amendment because "there is no organized program" for use of the $5,000.

While the School Committee wasn't approving the amendment, committeeman Stephen Parkhurst said the committee wouldn't oppose it. He thought it was "good there isn't an organized program" for the $5,000. "There are organized programs now."

The high school field house would be open nights and weekends for residents to play basketball, work out, run track and play other sports.

Town meeting opposition centered on the argument, as stated by TMM Michael D. Saraco, that enough money could be found in the Recreation and school budgets to run an unorganized program.

"If we're going to create another position we should put it in Recreation," said TMM Robert P. Joyce.

The meeting Monday also approved an amendment to the athletics budget giving coaches raises of 12.8 percent. The added $3,100 will, for example, increase the basketball coach's salary from $1,680 to $1,896 and the football coach from $2,800 to $3,160.

Finance was favorable to the amendment, but chairman Smith said the School Committee should encourage teachers to take on extra duties without pay "as in years past. We have reached the limits of our endurance."

Parkhurst said the new salaries will place Winchester coaches about in the middle of salary scale for the area.

Personnel Board Chairman Ronald H. Kessel outlined the lengthy budget article dealing with wages and salaries.

Wage settlements were reached with all town employees. Most get a 5 percent increase in 27-month contracts. Kessel said last year's average 3.5 increase was lower than most towns.

Finance Chairman Smith: "We question many aspects of these agreements, particularly in respect to fringe benefits. But in perspective, they are a credit to the town." He noted the "hard work" put in by the Personnel Board and Board of Selectmen in reaching agreements over a long period of time.

Selectman Chairman Paul F. Amico said the town "negotiated really tough" without having to bring in outside negotiators. "We can communicate with them." (town workers).

But TMM William Ryerson criticized the $14,200 salary of the Recreation Direction, Donald Spinney, whom he called a "fun and games man," and asked for an explanation for the "whopping difference" between the nearly $20,000 salary of the police chief and

Edw. Duffy Speaks On Two Bills

Edward J. Duffy, Jr., chairman of the board for Suburban National Bank of Arlington and President of the Mass. Independent Bankers Association, recently spoke before a joint legislative committee on Banks and Banking at the State House.

Duffy is a resident of Winchester.

Rep. John F. Cusack of Arlington and Duffy have filed two bills--House 5231 and 5232--which would regulate certain banking practices in Massachusetts.

H-5231 would declare a moratorium on the formation of new holding companies or additional acquisitions by present holding companies of other banks within the Commonwealth. H-5232 would make NOW (Negotiable Order Withdrawals) illegal.

In speaking before the committee Duffy said that continued growth of the holding companies is a serious problem and a "threat to the continued existence of free enterprise, healthy competition and independent banking."

According to Duffy, there are six multibanks holding companies or "super banks" in Massachusetts. These banks control almost 90 percent of all commercial bank deposits in the state. That leaves the other 75 percent of the banks to control 10 percent of the deposits.

He believes it is only a matter of time before the other 100 or more banks are controlled by these "banking goliaths." He said these banks are not in the consumers interest. It is an advantage to only a handful of banks because control is merely shifted to the center oganization.

Since independent banks are usually owned and operated by people of the community, Duffy feels they are able to do more for their communities, their depositers, their borrowers, and the consumer than large banks controlled by an organization far away.

On Bill 5232 which would make the N.O.W. accounts illegal. Duffy said these accounts are in direct competition with commercial banks, causing deterioration and imbalance within the industry.

Duffy reported that the Savings Banks of Massachusetts are continuing to "feed the public the old propaganda line" that what is good for the consumer is good for the public. "...what might appear to be good for the consuming public is so disruptive of our financial system that it could lead to chaos, run away competition and possible collapse of banking institutions."

Duffy noted that the matter has become so serious that the federal government has intervened and legislation has been filed to become effective June 1. This legislation would result in a roll back of interest rates by ¼ percent for Massachusetts Savings Banks and cost the consumer $50 million in lost interest dividends on savings accounts every year.

The N.O.W accounts have come under sharp criticism by the Feeral Reserve Bank, the Massachusetts Commissioner of Banks, the American Bankers Association, and the Federal Savings and Loan Association. Duffy said the mutual savings banks twisted the intent of a Supreme Court decision and embarked on a campaign to steal away commercial bank customers.

Duffy says that if the N.O.W. accounts are permitted to exist even without interest it will leave the savings banks with personal checking account privileges. This will harm a majority of smaller banks which rely on personal checking accounts for 60-90 percent of their deposits.

Spring Clean-Up Main Target Is Household Trash

Household rubbish is the main target for spring clean-up in Winchester.

And while most people don't think of the many useless things they've got stored away around the house as rubbish — that's what it is and it's a major fire hazard, Fire Chief I. Francis Amico warned recently.

He explained that rubbish itself does not cause fire, except in some infrequent cases of spontaneous ignition.

There are many different kinds of household rubbish, but these fast-burning items are among the most dangerous: old bedding, cast-off clothing, mattresses, old furniture, curtains, draperies, lampshades, magazines, papers, linoleum and rags.

The chief advised everyone to check for quick-burning rubbish in closets, attics and basements — these are among the likeliest places for home fires to start, according to the records of the National Fire Protection Association.

Twenty-five alumnae were invited by the college to participate in the program, initiated in 1966 to refresh and strengthen graduate identification with Simmons on a personal basis.

A tour of the college's new science center, discussions with students and professors about "modes of learning" and a Simmons College Glee club concert highlighted the weekend.

★ Budget

represents an 18-month period with $3,277,908 for the six months in 1973 and $5,770,513 for the 12 months in 1973-74 in personal services; $449,643 for the six months and $917,657 for the 12 months in other expenses; and no monies for the six months and $51,647 for the 12 months in capital outlay.

The 18-month budget shows an increase in all accounts over the 12-month budget for 1972. The increases are $4,026,814 in personal services, $457,274 in other expenses and $16,387 in capital outlay.

Claiming the bulk of the School Department's total was personnel, a category dominated by the professional staff which commands a 169 per cent increase in its payroll for the 18 months over 1972' total. Committeeman Parkhurst stated that the budget contained no new programs with the exception of a course in Italian. The thrust was toward improving the junior high level curriculum by reducing class sizes, bettering the quality of classroom experiences and reducing the amount of non-academic time currently found in these grades. Based upon a pupil-teacher ratio policy of 25:1, the Committee intends to lower the 1972-73 ratio at the junior highs from 25.9:1.

Included in the recommended new personnel was the elimination of 2½ teachers at the elementary level due to a decline in the student population at this level. This means a savings of $25,150.

All new personnel which was advised by the Committee, totaling $215,600 was okayed. This consisted of a music specialist ($9,162); ½ speech therapist ($5,350); ½ elementary counselor ($5,450); high school counselor ($10,900); 7 3-5 teachers at McCall Junior High ($70,186); 2-2-5 teachers at Lynch Junior High ($22,164); clerk aide at McCall ($4,850); 9¾ custodians (2½ McCall; 2½ old high school; 5 senior high school) ($63,748); maintenance mechanic ($12,038); and lunchroom supervisors ($36,902).

Weather Produces Several Accidents

The weekend's wind and rain brought several motor vehicle accidents on Winchester's streets. No serious injuries were reported in any incident.

Friday afternoon the intersection of Washington st. and Mystic Valley pkwy. caught two motorists. Joseph C. Figucia of 43 Chester st. was traveling north on Washington st. when a collision occurred with a car driven by Edwin Lord of Everett moving easterly on the parkway. Damage was to the left front and rear doors of the Figucia vehicle and to the right front of the Lord car.

Shortly after 2 a.m. Saturday an automobile operated by Valda J. Winsloe of West Medford hit a stone wall at 45 Grove st. She told Sgt. Thomas E. Kennedy Jr. and Officer Richard J. Anselmo that another car forced her off the road. She was treated at Winchester Hospital for a bump on the head and shock and released. Her vehicle was towed.

That evening at about 7 the left side of a car driven by Albert H. Mooradian of 5 Priscilla la. came into contact with the right front of an automobile operated by Lea S. McCready of Medford. Mooradian was making a left turn from Highland ave. into Madison ave. on which McCready was traveling. The second car was towed. A curb stone had been pulled out of line.

A skidding accident at Forest st. and Highland ave. in which a vehicle driven by Scott Lindberg of Woburn struck a sign post at 12:45 a.m. Monday produced a small dent in the bumper.

Selectmen Hear Plan To Light Tennis Courts

The Board of Selectmen Monday heard from Geoffrey Wyler of the Winchester Tennis Association's lighting committee on a proposal to spend about $11,000 to ignite the Palmer street tennis courts.

Wyler said use of the courts could double by installing night lighting, which he figures could pay for itself in less than seven years by charging admission to the courts of $2 an hour per court.

The lighting would be 15 feet from the ground, flourescent and vandal proof. Wyler said tennis courts are one place where Winchester residents can get together to meet other Winchester people and the slightly higher cost of fluorescent lighting initially will be offset by lower power bills.

Wyler noted the long wait patrons must go through now before getting a court and said the cost of constructing additional courts is prohibitive. He said the Tennis Association would contribute $600 toward the lighting.

A town employee stationed at the courts could collect the fees and handle the lighting.

Cable television was also on the agenda of the board this week. Executive secretary Edward Donnelly said he has received more inquiries into cablevision from distributors than from potential users.

The board agreed to appoint a committee to come up with approaches the board might follow on the matter.

The board met with the town History Committee on the committee's request for money to publish a second editor of Chapman's "History of Winchester" and to publish another history from where Chapman left off to the present.

Problems Remain With Stolen Cars

Complaints of larceny, vandalism and stolen cars were reported to Winchester police during the past week.

Cars taken in Winchester included a 1972 model from the Shore rd. parking lot of Purity Supreme, a truck, owned by a Billerica man which was stolen from the Swanton st. lot of the Parkview Apartments, later found in Somerville completely striped, and a 1964 foreign car recovered by Medford police after being taken from Washington st. earlier that night. Police discovered an automobile missing from Somerville in the lot of the First National Store on Main st.

A bicycle was taken from a North Gateway garage, two from a garage on Thornberry rd. and one from a Lakeview garage.

Shattered windows included seven at Mystic School, one on a Canterbury rd. house, five at the Amborse School, front door of the USA Rink on Conant rd., telephone booth on Washington st. and three panes in a cellar window of the Citgo Service Station, 611 Main st.

Panels were ripped from a shed at the First Congregational Church, a window and screen were broken on a Water department cabin in Middlesex Fells, and two supporting timbers on the porch - of the Girl Scout cabin were damaged. The master door to the letter boxs at the Parkview Apartments and the ignition on an automobile parked on Highland ave. were tampered with. An automobile in the Parkview lot had a vent window broken, paint on the door scratched and the ignition damaged.

A traffic signal at Swanton and Washington streets was hit by a truck and a sign post in front of 84 Woodside rd. was struck by an automobile.

The School Budget

The town meeting last Thursday wisely defeated an ill considered motion intended to lop $200,000 off the top of the School Department's $10.5 million budget.

The motion to amend the school budget by sending it back to the School Committee was the subject of a roll call vote, the first in five years and apparently only the second in more than 25 years. The closeness of two standing votes prompted Town Meeting Moderator Raymond J. Kenney Jr. to have the roll call, a move that resulted in a wider, though still close, vote difference in favor of an intact school budget.

Perhaps the thought of having their names go down in black and white was enough to change the minds of some members from irresponsibly cutting an already trimmed school budget.

Those who spoke in favor of the cut offered no place where the $200,000 could have been cut. Salaries of teachers and others are determined by many painful hours of negotiations; there have been no new programs added this year; new staff has been kept to minimum; and the committee's $215,600 "new personnel" figure is not all for new personnel.

The figure calls for new custodians but these aren't really new since their work is now done by contractual services. The high school will change over from outside janitorial work to in-system. Much of the increase in personnel is due to the committee's attempts to improve the quality of junior high school education.

The addition of new junior high school teachers is intended to reduce class size from 25.9 to 23.4. A new clerk at McCall Junior High School would allow students who now do the work to spend more time for academic pursuits.

The committee has found student lunchroom supervisors an unsatisfactory arrangement after a six-month test. The state-required lunch program will mean the addition of 46 part-time workers at $37,000.

The Finance Committee and the School Committee scrutinized every item on the education budget and reduced the original figures in many areas. The School Committee worked over 1,000 pages of facts and figures for the last year. If the town meeting really wanted to cut the budget it should have spelled out where those cuts should take place. Should they eliminate the music specialist? At one teacher per 1,000 pupils, if anything this could be increased. Would they wish to eliminate half a speech therapist?

There has as yet been no motion to reconsider cutting the school budget. If there is before completion of town meeting, the mover and his supporters should be well prepared to take the responsibility by giving the School Committee some direction in where any cuts should be made.

Perhaps the School Committee could have eased the town meeting's ire by submitting to the members its budget fact sheet at the minimum of a week before the session which took up the matter.

The members really don't have time to digest 10 pages of complex figures and charts in the short time before they have to vote on it. Naturally they get suspicious and feel something is being shoved down their throats. Some of the grief committee members went through this year is no doubt due to this last-minute handing of figures to the meeting.

Approaching the Swanton street bridge Saturday during Aberjona River cleanup day, these youths are tire-ed from a long day of junk collecting. (Letter From The Editor comments.)

Winchester's Past

Legend Says Squaw Sachem Fell, Drowned In Her Brook

By Marie Began
Winchester Historical Society
This is the conclusion of an article from last week's Star on Squaw Sachem.

When the Puritans arrived in 1629, Squaw Sachem's sons were young men and she was back in her own territory. She was brought to Charlestown by her son, Sagamore John, to see the white people he had allowed to settle on his land. Both mother and son were fascinated by all the goods the Puritans owned. Iron kettles and iron knives and hoes were much better than anything owned by the Indians. Evidently she was still proud and regal even though half her tribe was dead and the rest were scattered bands of frightened nomads. An early writer wrote that she was surrounded by a group of warriors as she followed engineer Thomas Graves as he measured lots of land and laid out the roads of Winchester. The writer said she was like a queen surrounded by her court. Without a doubt the warriors were there as bodyguards.

The next blow was not from the Tarratines or the strangers from the sea. It was another sickness. Smallpox broke out among the Indians in 1633 and was especially severe among the Massachuset Indians. Two of Squaw Sachem's sons died along with most of her people.

The next year she participated in the first sale of land to settlers. Concord was sold for a few hoes, hatchets, knives and cloth for tribal members. Each of the three signers received special gifts. Whether this was because she was the only woman signer or because she was the most important, her husband, Webcowet, was outfitted with a complete set of English clothes including hat, shoes and stockings.

In 1636 she made legal arrangements to leave on her death her private land along the western shore of the Mystic Lakes together with the weir above it to a four year old boy, Jothom Gibbons, son of Major Gibbons, because she was grateful for the kindness the major and his family had shown her. The Indians by custom and habit were a very generous people, giving gifts to friends, relatives, visitors or to those kind to them. Perhaps this explains why she left this land to a white boy instead of to her only remaining son. Or perhaps she simply believed there was plenty of land still available and few of her people left to need it.

In 1639 she sold the land encompassing Winchester to the Town of Charlestown for 21 coats, 19 fathoms of wampum and three bushels of corn. Looking back today we wonder why she would sell the land for so little. But the Indians were destitute.

Food was scarce among them. They had sold much of their farm land to the Puritans. Few had jobs to help sustain themselves because of a law against hiring Indians without permission from the court. Hunting wasn't as easy for the Indians as it had been in former years—the numerous settlers homesteading had driven the large game away.

Besides, their arrows were no match against the settlers' guns and Indians were not allowed to own guns. So she sold the land to provide for herself. The sale is the one depicted in the mural in the main room of the Winchester Library, made "at the wigwam of Squaw Sachem" here in Winchester. The 21 coats were probably 21 pieces of trucking cloth—a coarse wool 1½ yards wide used in making English blankets.

Two yards of it made an excellent mantle or Indian coat by simply draping it around the body. Squaw Sachem undoubtedly passed out many of these coats among her people. A year or so later the court granted her a coat a year while she lived as added payment for the land. This was arranged by her good friend Major Gibbons.

Mentioned also in this deed was the statement that she was reserving from this sale a parcel of land belonging to her along the western shores of the Mystic Lakes. It was the one she was leaving to Jothom Gibbons. She stated she wanted this land for herself and her Indians to fish and plant upon while she lived and promised they would leave the area when she died.

For many years this land was known as the Squaw Sachem Reservation. It was undoubtedly the first Indian reservation in the country. It ran a little south of Everett ave. over to Myopia Hill, the Winchester Country Club and into Arlington as far as Summer st.

As each year went by the Indian sachems found it harder to lead their people or to care for them. They had little food and clothing for themselves and less or none at all to pass out. Some settlers urged the Indians to turn to the white man's God and to his court for governing. Others simply wanted the Indians out of the way. Finally in 1644 five leading Sachems submitted and signed a statement agreeing to be governed and protected by the Massaghusetts Bay Colony and to allow their people to be instructed in the worship of God.

Squaw Sachem was one of these five sachems and the only woman.

For the next few years it is believed Squaw Sachem spent most of her time on her Indian reservation along the Mystic Lakes she loved so much. No one knows exactly when she died but it must have been shortly after 1659 as Jothom Gibbons mortgaged the land she had left him in 1655. Books say she was alone, forsaken, at the time of her death. But this is doubtful. After carefully protecting her all those years, the Indians wouldn't abandon her in old age, not when she still owned good farm land and received a new coat a year. Also she still had one son alive and several grandchildren.

Even if no one knows how or when she died, we have an interesting legend that says she was old and blind and died by accidentally falling and drowning in a brook which ran through the reservation not far from where she pitched her tent.

The Indians are now gone; there are no longer any Massachuset Indians. Their reservation is gone. But the brook is still there, fed by an ever running spring. It runs through the Winchester Country Club, under Cambridge st. and then rambles along private property until it flows into the Mystic Lake. It's known as the Squaw Sachem Brook. And if you stand quietly by the brook and concentrate maybe you'll feel her presence hovering nearby.

SQUAW SACHEM "reconstruction" depicts her shortly after she became a widow. She wears plain strapped jumper of fine skin common to her nation. Her arms and shoulders are covered with a separate "yoke" garment. Wampum "belt" of beads, indicative of wealth, is around her neck. Trade jewelry, including bracelets and earrings, are her adornments. Bead and quill band, indicating tribal station, is on her head. She holds her cloak or "cape" of great beauty. Leftover Signs

EDITOR OF THE STAR:

On one map I've seen Winchester listed as "Winchester the Beautiful." Well, strike that, and substitute "Slobsville, U.S.A."

Take a ride along Gasoline Alley. Take a look at the signs. One free-standing grotesque tilts away. "Olson Used Cars" advertises a company no longer with us. The sign is a piece of junk. Why did the owner leave it with us?

Winchester Cycle Shop and Joe's Submarines are advertised on that building across from Myron Berlow's. The owners have gone, yet months later we get to look at their signs.

In the Town of Burlington, a sign by-law was passed two years ago, evidence that they care about their town.

In that by-law, free-standing signs are outlawed. Yes, even at gas stations. Think what they would mean on Main street.

Another provision of their by-law is that signs on buildings are limited to advertising only the occupant.

I hope that we can incorporate these Burlington laws into ours, as they certainly would improve Winchester.

Meanwhile, I would like to register considerable disgust at all business owners whose pride in Winchester is so low, or their need and greed for the buck so high, that they cannot monitor their own property.

Homefronters Won't Seek Aid This Year

EDITOR OF THE STAR:

As chairman of the Winchester Homefronters, I would like to use this column to inform the clubs, churches, and interested private citizens of the status of our organization at this time. This is the time of year when we have usually sent out our requests for financial aid to the clubs and church groups as they prepare to make up their budgets for next year. The response has always been prompt and generous. Later in the year we have had a bake sale and tag day to which the townspeople and merchants have generously contributed. Because of past generosity and decreased numbers of men and women in the service, we now have in the bank enough funds to see us through the Christmas project for 1973.

Since our money is raised for only one purpose, to send a Christmas box to every Winchester man or woman in the service, we feel that we should not request more money until we have used that on hand.

This letter seeks to express our deep appreciation for past help and to explain why we shall be requesting no financial aid this year. We also wish to inform our fellow townsmen that we shall continue to send our Christmas boxes as long as there is one person from town serving our country.

Past experience assures us that you will respond when we once again need you.

Edna Bentley
Chairman of Homefronters

Mrs. Winn Thanks Star For Interest

EDITOR OF THE STAR:

I wish to take this opportunity to thank The Star for the lovely story they did about me. My particular thanks to Pauline Dishmon for her interest and insight into the problems of the handicapped. Our needs relating to accessibility and benefits are just being noticed by the media and a few compassionate politicians. Coverage from the human interest angle, such as your article, is worth more than any thank you could ever express to inform the public about problems that most people are unaware of.

Please accept my thanks again for suggesting that an article like this would interest your readers. I am very happy with the response and pleased to find you were right.

Dog Would Live

EDITOR OF THE STAR:

The members of the Marks family would like to express their thanks and appreciation to the dog officer, Nick Molea, the Winchester Police Department and the two young ladies who offered comfort and assistance to our Afghan hound on Tuesday evening. He was struck by a car on Mystic Valley Parkway, and unfortunately the best efforts of the veterinarian were not able to pull him through.

Dog owners, it's just not worth the risk to allow your dogs to run free. Although the accident occurred after 7 o'clock in the evening, if I had kept our dog in his pen, he would be alive today.

Call For Voices On Nixon's Veto

EDITOR OF THE STAR:

Last week President Nixon saw fit to veto the Vocational Rehabilitation Act (Senate 7) for the second year in a row over overwhelming votes in both the Senate and House. This bill would provide funds for such vital items as spinal cord injury centers, an architectural compliance board to see that existing accessibility laws are enforced, and also much needed funding for state rehabilitation agencies.

The handicapped saw that they were faced with a time problem since the veto will have a chance to be overridden this week in the Senate and Congress. On Friday, Mar. 30 and Sunday, Apr. 1 they demonstrated at the Kennedy building despite most inclement weather conditions. Happily, they were heard and given coverage on Channels 2, 4, 5, and 7 and also in The Boston Globe and The Herald American. Even though the override is almost certain to occur the President has the ultimate power to impound the funds. One voice against the majority in a democracy can halt any progress for the handicapped. Is this what democracy really boils down to?

Town's Representative Seat Intact For Now But What Happens If House Cut Is Passed?

The Massachusetts Senate this week has in its hands a redistricting proposal which would leave Winchester's single-member representative district intact. It has been approved by committee and is expected to be approved by the Senate. The House will surely give it close argument.

But that the plan has come so far with Winchester not sliced up can be thanked to Harry Chadwick, the Republican representative from Winchester who has the great respect of the Democratic leadership of the legislature.

The Democrat representatives in the area have cast hungry eyes on Chadwick's seat, seeing in it all sorts of ways to lop off a precinct on one side or another to create another Democratic seat or to strengthen their own positions.

Chadwick has done a lot of work in the State House corridors keeping Winchester together, no easy task since Republicans are so outnumbered. But Chadwick's position with the leadership is favorable, attested by the major responsibility they gave him in appointing him to study how the legislature might be run more efficiently.

If the League of Women Voters-backed House cut proposal finally passes--and all indications are it will--Winchester will have to be joined to other communities, however. That's because the town doesn't have a sufficient population to make up the number of voters that would be required in the larger districts when the House is cut from 240 to 160 members.

Right now the town has just about the right number of voters to make up a district under the larger House. The naivete of the league in proposing the cut is surprising since they are supposed to stand for better representation. It's all too obvious that the fewer representatives in the legislature the greater number of persons they will represent and the further removed from the citizens they will become.

It's a shame, too, that with the House cut Boston will surely lose one or more of its black seats. Did the league consider that? Probably not. Their main considerations seemed to have been making the House "more efficient" and less expensive to operate.

But more efficient will mean the creation of more administrative jobs to handle the workload and we'll end up paying the same amount of money--for more distant government.

The league is not the only one to have laid an egg. Winchester's beloved swan will soon become a mother. Last week a large elongated egg was being warmed by the swan in the winer quarters at the town yard. Let's hope the cygnet fares better than last year's baby, which was killed by a seagull.

The dog licensing season here, a number of dog owners are upset with the Town Clerk's office because when they go to Town Hall with their mailed application form they discover they have to pay more than they had thought.

The application says fees are $3 for males, $6 for females and $3 for spayed females. Many fail to notice the fine print which says, "All fees plus $1 as adopted at 1967 town meeting."

Town Clerk Elsie M. Nelson explains that the county requires any added fees adopted by a town to be stated separately from the county fees.

The rest rooms at the new high school are dutifully equipped with washing facilities for the handicapped as required for federal funding.

These low sinks which allow persons in wheelchairs to roll up to are clean and convenient. There is a problem however: the faucets are not connected.

Maureen Winn, subject of a feature story in a recent issue of The Star, joined a protest of the handicapped last weekend in Boston to protest President Nixon's veto of a $2.6 billion vocational rehabilitation bill.

"We want a chance to live, not merely survive," she told the crowd, She complained that Nixon veto means the end of plans to construct ramps at all buildings built with federal funds.

The mystery of the missing mantlepieces at McManus House is still not solved. TMM Vincent Carroll, who itemized things missing from McManus House — like five marble mantlepieces — in a letter to The Star last week, says he got about 20 phone calls over the past weekend on this topic of neat vandalism. They are all looking to the school committee for an answer, or at least a clue to the unsolved mystery.

One of the worst accumulations of junk along the Aberjona River was near the town dump on Swanton street. Cleanup organizer Harry Boodakian said that residents who go to the dump (incinerator) and find it closed throw the stuff over the bridge.

Saturday's cleanup was well attended and well timed. Sunday's rain raised the level and speed of the river.

Town meeting member Arthur J. Hewis Jr., who was successful in delaying the start of town meeting, found an error in the annual town report and thought he'd take advantage of it.

He submitted a letter to the Board of Selectmen noting that the town report says town comptroller James J. Costello's term expired in March and called on the board to name a replacement—not Costello. The board didn't take action on the request.

Costello's term actually doesn't expire for two years. Selectman Chairman Paul F. Amico was heard to comment: "Jim is the best friend Arthur ever had." Costello's vigilance in keeping accurate town reports, a subject dear to the heart of Hewis, is well known.

Art Classes Liked

EDITOR OF THE STAR:

This is a public thank you to Thomas H. Tracy, director of art instruction for the Winchester schools, John D. Walker, high school art teacher, and Winchester Recreation Director Donald Spinney for arranging the Saturday art classes at the high school this winter.

Although I understand this program has been held in past winters, this was our family's first experience with it. Our girls looked forward to this class each week and had individual attention for projects not normally offered by the elementary schools.

It is clear from the wide scope and high caliber of the high school projects in progress in the art room that these men are very fine teachers. It is also evident from notices posted about and the general appearance of the room that good work habits and safety measures are stressed.

Here is one family's vote for a similar program next winter. Perhaps if we can come up with a series of eight-day weeks, an adult art class could be arranged too.

Opportunism

EDITOR OF THE STAR:

It is very frustrating for me to be up in New Hampshire at college when all the action seems to be in town lately. I am speaking, of course, of Article 35, the attempt to rezone the woodland off Cambridge street so that it can be cleared and leveled for new business ventures.

Last year as a candidate for a one-year term as town meeting member, I pledged to do my utmost to put a lid on opportunism and poor planning in Winchester. Throughout the year, I attended every town meeting and voted against such attempts in our small town.

There has always been a uniqueness about Winchester. Only 10 miles from one of America's largest cities, it retains its own charm and natural beauty. Few communities can still boast of what we have—a pleasant balance between the business areas and residential zones.

And yet, even in 1973, large areas of undeveloped land, set aside by our founding fathers, still remain untouched and scattered about the area. Imagine, we have conserved them all these years—acres and acres of woods full of wildlife, ponds and streams, cool and clean. There, one can get away from it all to enjoy a bit of nature for what it is—very simple and pleasant, yet very sacred.

However, opportunism (spelled M-O-N-E-Y) has once again threatened all of this for the sake of car lots and apartments. This town has repeatedly turned away selfish opportunists and poor planners. We must once again turn out to protest such actions aimed at taking advantage of our town just to make an extra buck.

The streams on the Bonnell property feed into Winter Pond as do the small streams running off the Moss property, slated for apartments. Winter Pond has trouble enough keeping its water level up. But perhaps by cutting off these two sources of water, we might finally dry up the pond altogether. Such a situation would seem ideal to any opportunist: a little fill and a whole new neighborhood could be built.

Alas, Article 35 willbe coming up for action very soon. The future for Cambridge street's route through Winchester looks like a very colorful one. As colorful and bustling as Four Corners in Woburn. Rezoning of the farm land and ice cream business land opposite Mahoney's will be very simple upon passage of Article 35. We could have the makings of a new shopping center on our hands in the very near future if we are not cautious.

The town meeting members will have to hear from many concerned voters from their precincts if they are to truly represent us when Article 35 comes up. Let them know we care about our town. Boston may continue to grow and enlarge, but let us conserve Winchester.

It is sad. How greedy man has become. So sad.

Larocco Grateful For Citizens' Help

EDITOR OF THE STAR:

I would like to take this opportunity to thank the many townspeople who have given so freely of their time to the High School over the past year. Without thier help the transition from the "old" to the "new" would have been much more difficult.

The building phase consisted of members of the School Committee and Building Committee. Their patience and understanding have been invaluable. One cannot help but mention the individual efforts of Joseph Gibson, who had donated untold hours of his time to make sure that the building met specifications and that the taxpayers' dollars were well spent.

Further, there are people like Richard Schroeder, Richard Lawrence and John Blanchard who have donated their time, as well as materials, to make our radio station a better operating tool-one of community value as well as educational value.

In the area of public relations and curriculum, we must not overlook the efforts of our Parent-Faculty Association in sponsoring several programs including the development and understanding of curriculum changes and material support for the institution of a first aid program.

Also in the area of curriculum, we thank the many people who have given of their time to speak to classes and to participate in such groups as Concern, Enrichment Committee, Max Ed Advisory Committee and the New England Evaluation Committee. I wish it were possible to name all of the individuals involved.

I sincerely thank all who have helped to make this a better school because of their involvement.

Mrs. S. Fineberg Is Guest On Art At Coop Nursery

"What can we do about the tulip picture, the familiar sterotype picture that so many six-year-old children produce over and over, regressing from their free exuberant art work of nursery school days?"

This question was raised by Mrs. Sylvia Fineberg, supervising instructor at the Elliot Pierson School at Tufts and PhD candidate at Harvard University when she addressed the Unitarian Cooperative Nursery School parents recently.

Documenting her lecture with slides of children's art work, Mrs. Fineberg demonstrated the large role art plays in a small child's development. Starting her series with the simplest drawings of young children, she stressed how adults too often "look for objects of reality" and "reward children" when the grownup can begin to see what the art work is about.

Often children draw pictures of people, forgetting arms, legs, eyes, she said, not because they don't realize they exist, but for that particular piece of art work, they are of little significance. A mother with a detailed intestinal tract, seen through X-ray art vision of children, may easily be missing other vital organs, she said. In this instance a child is concentrating on the thing that concerns him at the moment.

Mrs. Fineberg said that adults, art teachers and parents often miss the whole point of a child's painting or sculpture. She referred to the detailed drawing of an automobile including engineering mechanisms carefully and accurately placed created by a six-year-old. When she asked the teacher to tell her about the child, the teacher responded "Oh him, he can't read."

Mrs. Fineberg said many materials are being made available for children. They offer children freedom to express themselves without superimposed adult standards.

Mrs. Fineberg spoke to the parents as a part of the enrichment program offered to parents and children which is included in the school's curriculum. During the last two weeks of March, art was stressed in the nursery school classrooms. Mrs. Kitty Davis, art expert, has been working with India ink, cloth and sticks gathered by the children. Her "happy accidents" are displayed in the school now.

The Unitarian Cooperative School is now accepting applications from the general public until the end of March. Persons interested in finding out more about the school may contact Mrs. Louise Fackert of 12 Allen rd.

MINSTREL SHOW — Parkhurst School fourth graders show their accomplishments after music and dramatic mini-courses at the school. Mrs. Clark Kendall of Belmont accompanied her music group as they performed tambourine routines, and the dramatic group presented "The Mysterious Stranger." Children involved in other mini-courses during the last hour of Friday afternoons over a two-month period displayed ceramic planters, a bookcase, a chess exhibit, gave a demonstration of photograph enlarging, and offered refreshments prepared by the cooking group.

Mrs. Began To Talk On Indians' Hair

The Winchester Historical Society will hold its annual meeting at 7:30 p.m. on April 10 in the meeting room of the Winchester Public Library. Mrs. Marie Began will give an illustrated talk on "Pride of the Indians."

Her talk will explain the deep feelings and beliefs Indians had about their hair. Some Indians thought a piece of hair would give them power of life or death over a person. All Indians believed hair was a symbol of their life and they spent hours caring for it. They dyed their hair, used hair pieces and concocted unusual hair styles. Pictures and slides of the various hair styles and hats worn by Indians of long ago will be shown.

Mrs. Began has had several articles on Indians published in Yankee, Jack & Jill, and Highlights magazines.

This lecture is open to the public.

Eulalia's Guild Plans Theater Night Out

The Women's Guild of St. Eulalia's is planning a theater evening for Tuesday, April 24, at the Chateau de Ville in Saugus.

Buses will be leaving the church at 5:45 p.m. and returning to there. Seating for the evening is limited and reservations are required. For further information contact Mrs. Lester Lamb at 18 Country Club dr. in Arlington and Mrs. John Vincent at 20 Berkshire dr. in Winchester.

Sellers' Movie Friday Night

Peter Sellers' film "The Mouse that Roared" will be shown Friday at 8 p.m. and Saturday at 2 p.m. at the new Winchester High School auditorium.

This film, along with Walt Disney's nature film "Beaver Valley" is being sponsored by the Parent-Faculty Association in order to raise money for the Winchester Scholarship Foundation.

On Friday evening the door prize will be a pair of Bruins' playoff tickets. There will be other drawings for the Saturday afternoon performance.

Recital Sunday By Mrs. Collins' Winchester Students

Students of Mrs. Sherwood C. Collins of Lexington will present a program of piano and organ selections April 8 at 4 p.m. at Crawford Memorial Methodist Church on Dix street, Winchester, where Mrs. Collins serves as the organist.

The piano portion will be held in Gifford Hall, followed by the organ numbers in the sanctuary of the church. Winchester residents taking part in the program are Jane Owens, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Owens of Squire Road, who will play the Prelude in C Flat Minor by Rachmaninoff; Bruce Hunter, son of Dr. and Mrs. Howard Hunter of Madison Avenue, who will play Ciaconna by Pachelbel.

His sister, Amy, will play the Toccata and Fugue in D minor by Bach on the organ. Carol Zarker, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Jack Zarker of Stratford Lane will play the Prelude and Fugue in G. minor by Bach, also on the pipe organ.

Other students taking part in the program are Susan Hamberger, Betsy Uhrig, Nancy Hammond, Beth Santelmann and Elaine Santelmann. Their piano selections will include works by Clementi, Beethoven, Hayden and Debussy. Elaine Santelmann will also be playing the organ with two numbers by Benoit.

Susan E. Anthony, W. A. Wilson Jr. To Wed In August

Mr. and Mrs. John K. Anthony of Little Rock, Ark., announce the engagement of their daughter, Susan Elizabeth, to Warren A. Wilson Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Warren A. Wilson of 65 Westland ave. Miss Anthony is also the daughter of the late Mrs. Lucille Muse Anthony.

The bride-to-be received her bachelor of arts degree in American studies from Wheaton College, Norton. She is presently employed in the office of financial aid of Brandeis University.

Mr. Wilson was awarded his BA degree in economics from St. Michael's College, Winooski, Vt., and served two years with the US Coast Guard following graduation. He is now working at the Boston Five Cents Savings Bank.

An August wedding is planned to be held in the Wheaton College Chapel.

Help Sought By College Club In Finding History

The Winchester College Club, founded in the 1920s, wants to learn more about its history.

If there are Winchester women who are now or at any time have been members of the club, it is hoped that they may be able and willing to throw light on some aspect of the club's activities—officers, programs, interest (study) groups, by-laws, policies and perhaps participation in community projects.

It may well be that as spring housecleaning or a change in residence requires a re-examination of treasured, or just hoarded memorabilia, diaries and clippings, something will turn up which will be helpful to the committee engaged in this research.

A phone call to Dorothy Larned of 149 Highland ave. or Hazel Swanson of 47 Cambridge st. will bring prompt response and pick-up. They may be the judges of what is useful; some brief reference or notation may supply one of those missing links. It is possible that someone will come across one of the missing secretary's books.

At any rate, keep the two phone numbers available "just in case."

Music Club To Hold Program Sunday at 7 PM

On Sunday evening at 7 p.m. the Winchester Music Club will present its annual junior musicians program at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Nichols of 10 Oxford st.

The program, arranged by John Willis, Jr., will provide music students from grades 5 and 6 an opportunity to perform for their friends and families. Membership in the Music Club itself is limited to music students from grades seven through 12.

Sixth grade students and their parents and teachers have been invited to attend. Many of the younger musicians join the Music Club when they reach the seventh grade.

Cousins Join On Ski Slopes Each Week, Earn Awards

The John Driscoll family of Winchester and the Tom Murphey family of Burlington, cousins, make up a strong team of 13 youngsters who participate in ski racings at NASTAR, North Conway, N.H. on weekends.

The two families make the two-hour drive from their homes to the ski slopes every week and don their NASTAR bibs for friendly family rivalry. Their combined collection of medals is impressive after their first full year of racing NASTAR.

In the Driscoll family five of the seven children have medals. Denise 13, and Jackie 12 have silver medals while Kathleen 11, Christine 10 and Steven 9 hold bronze awards. Michael and Kevin, 7 and 8, are pushing hard for medals.

Tommy Murphey 15 is the leader of the clan. He has won a gold medal for his speedy efforts. Chrissy Murphey, 13, has a silver medal and Charlie Murphey, 7, won a bronze award. His sister Tara, 9, is still working for her award. Timmy and Kerry Murphey, 5 and 4, are expecting to join the rest of the family when they get a bit older.

According to Mrs. Driscoll the youngsters all began skiing at age five. There has been a new member of the family starting out every year now for the past seven.

Swinger

Selected as woman athlete of 1972, Billie Jean King returns to competition in indoor championships next week in Quincy.

Women's Tennis' Local Interest

A large contingent of Winchester tennis enthusiasts is expected to attend the Virginia Slims National Indoor championships. The tourney was held at the local Indoor Tennis Center in 1970 and 1971, and many of the players formed strong local friendships during these competitions.

Local tennis buffs made the trek to Hingham for last year's matches. Large numbers are planning to attend this year's competition in Quincy.

The event will be held at the new Boston Harbor Marina courts, located on the site of the old Squantum Naval Air Station, off East Squantum street. To reach the courts, those driving should leave the Southeast Expressway at the Neponset Circle exit and turn right to cross the bride over the river. Continue along Morrissey Boulevard until the first major traffice light at East Squantum Street. Turn left and continue along about a mile before turning left to the courts.

Couples A Go-Go

Saturday evening Tom Vangell scored high game of 188 in Couples A Go-Go. Stan Hart followed closely with a 187. Women's high game went to Mary Dennis with a 158. High series went to Stan Hart with a 458.

Bowler of the evening went to Jill Kennedy, who started out the year with a 92 average but through the year has brought her average up to 100. Saturday evening she bowled a 139-101-114.

A short business meeting was held by president Stan Hart, who informed the group that notices would be sent out to each couple informing them of the time and place for end of the year entertainment.

After bowling hosts were Dick and May Stiles.

However, Bill Budd broke away early in the third period and passed to Dave Lambertson who scored the first tally of the game for the locat team.

The teams played a close-checkvng game throughout the rest of the third period when Joe Delisle passed to John Allen who in turn passed to "Deeb" Homsi who fired a slap-shot into the Reading net to tie the score.

The local sextet played a strong team game and had strong efforts in the net from Jim Judge and Jim Gebhard.

Duplicate Bridge Has 11 Tables

By Bridgette

Eleven tables in Section A provided a perfect movement both for fairness and sociability, any one pair meeting every opposing pair and playing all the boards.

There was one decisive game in each direction: Adaline Duryea and Ida Finlay winning North-South, Donna Redpath and the Club's lively octogenarian, Clarence Woodward, in first place East-West.

North-South

Adaline Duryea and Ida Finaly, 139½
Joseph Salani and Richard Sullivan, 129½
Ruby White and Dolly Pasquale, 120

Anne Galpin and Madalyn Walworth, 119
Mr. and Mrs. Phillip Cade, 114½
Carl Galante Jr. and William Mood, 113½
Dr. Frank Lombardo and Capt. William Banks, 110

In Section B, guests Etta Podrachik and Paul Portanova posted the highest North-South score, while East-West Norman Houlding won for the second week in a row, this time playing with Leo Gonsalves.

North-South

Etta Podrachik and Paul Portanova, 141

Mr. and Mrs. William Frey, 129
Leonora Carty and Eileen Brennan, 123½
Tom Barry and Don Howard, 119
Stephen Butcher and Gerard Walworth, 112

The cards in Section B were especially fascinating but difficult to field, witness No. 11, no one vulnerable and South the dealer.

SOUTH

At one table South opened 1S. West chiming in immediately with 4H, putting the full pre-emptive value of his hand to work. North said 5C, and after passes from East and South and a 5H call by West, doubled 5H for the final contract, setting it one trick for 100 points.

With hands like this one where each side can make a game, it takes a sensitive touch to know when to stop bidding and double the opposition. The above sequence of bidding showed good judgment by everyone.

The whole field followed through well, eight of the eleven pairs setting the heart contract one trick, two not doubling, however. One East-West pair was doubled at 4H, making, one North-South was allowed to play at 5C, making, and one East-West went to 6H, doubled, down two.

School Committee Accepts Mystic Redistricting Plan

On March 27, the Winchester School Committee voted to accept a redistricting plan for the future McCall elementary school involving pupils now attending the Lincoln, Mystic or Noonan schools, and possibly St. Mary's School if that school should close.

Voting on the plan, which was developed by school administrators and parents of the area involved, had been delayed from the previous school committee meeting to enable Supt. of Schools William MacDonald, on behalf of the school committee and administration, to contact Mystic parents and get reaction.

Since sending out the memo to parents MacDonald reported having received two letters and one telephone call on the matter. Though these three communicators were not entirely satisfied, they put forth a tone of acceptance which concludes a matter holding much concern to parents over the past several months.

In reaching the redistricting plan the objective was to provide an optimal educational experience for all children at the Mystic and McCall schools; decrease objections of the redistricted families without causing disruption in other parts of the existing district; and view the problem within the context of townwide educational needs.

The original school committee proposal, following final work by Supt. MacDonald and representative parents, was modified in two ways:

1. The streets closer to the new elementary school will be permanently redistricted to McCall, K-6;

2. Streets immediately surrounding Mystic school will be temporarily redistricted to McCall.

In September of 1973 only, grades 3-6 will go to McCall to complete elementary education. Grades K-2 from the temporarily redistricted streets will be retained at Mystic. In September of 1973 only, a parent of a child in K-2 on those streets would be able to request transfer of the child to McCall to complete elementary school.

Thus, in September of 1973, children from temporary streets including new residents in grades 3-6 will attend McCall. Grades K-2 will be at Mystic, with the option for McCall this year only.

In September of 1974, children from temporary streets, grades 4-6, will attend McCall. K-3 will attend Mystic.

In September of 1975, grades 5-6 will attend McCall. K-4 will attend Mystic.

In September of 1976, grade 6 will be at McCall; K-5 will be at Mystic.

And in September 1977, K-6 will be at Mystic.

Streets permanently redistricted for grades K-6 are Herrick, Mystic Valley pkwy., Lorena, Maxwell, Lloyd, Lawson, Leslie, Main (from Chestnut and Lincolnshire toward McCall, house even numbers 310 and higher, 309 (odd) and lower; Highland, from Chestnut and Felsdale close toward McCall, house numbers 372 (even) and lower, and 375 (odd) and lower; and South Border (house numbers 390 and higher.

Streets temporarily redistricted for grades 3-6 are Chestnut, Jefferson, Lincolnshire, Madison ave. west, Symmes, Winslow, Bacon (numbers 1-21), Main, from Lincolnshire toward Bacon st., house numbers (even) 304-222; odd 289; Highland, from Chestnut and Felsdale close toward Mystic, house numbers (even) 376-384; no odd; Felsdale close and Lawson extension.

Any K-2 pupils living on the streets temporarily redistricted may petition the school committee through the superintendent of schools to attend McCall rather than Mystic in September of 1973 only. Once the choice is made to send the pupil to McCall, the child will remain at McCall for the balance of elementary education.

At Tuesday night's meeting several Mystic parents, some of whom had been working on the redistricting plan, were present and were thanked by the School Committee. Some indicated concern about children in new situations having to walk where sidewalks do not exist. They asked about crossing guards being assigned to new locations. Supt. MacDonald assured parents that he would bring the problem to the attention of Officer McKinley, safety officer of the Winchester Police Dept. Crossing guards are under the jurisdiction of the police.

Bird Walks

The Massachusetts Audubon Society is sponsoring weekly bird walks in Winchester to begin April 12 at 8:30 a.m.

Participants will meet at the home of Mrs. Noll Thyson of 40 Rangeley rd. with their binoculars. Anyone is welcome. Call Mrs. Thyson for additional information.

On Dean's List

Two local students attending Curry College in Milton have been named to the dean's list for the spring semester. They are Carol E. Green, daughter of Mrs. Janet M. Green of 2 Winchester pl., and Richard A. Evensen, son of Mr. and Mrs. Roy Evensen, 1 Valleywood cir. Miss Green is majoring in mathematics. Evensen's field of study is government.

School Budget Rollcall Vote

The following is the roll call vote on the motion to refer the School Department's budget to the School Committee with the intent they cut $200,000. "Y" beside a town meeting member's name indicates he approved the motion; "N" he opposed. Nothing beside a member's name indicates he was absent or not voting.

Decor 'n Design

by Paul Flanagan

Artificial lighting is primarily to see by, only secondarily for decoration ... Never sacrifice your eyes to decorative effect ... A glaring light is not good for either purpose; it tires the eyes and casts sharp shadows in which some parts of the room practically disappears ... Take care not to use glossy paint or mirrors where they would reflect undiffused light and cause glare ... Even for fine sewing, light should be strong but diffused ... Plan to distribute illumination soft and even throughout a room with provision for stepping up the light intensity in certain spots when wanted, for sewing, reading, writing, card playing and other such activities...

WEPA Lists Ecological Concerns

Are plastic flowers in keeping with the natural beauty of the cemetery? Could Wyman School students plant trees on Fletcher street?

These were two questions raised at the last meeting of the Winchester Environmental Protection Association when co-chairman Lenore Frazier read a list of comments from the public on environmental conditions around town.

The public's questions will be discussed by WEPA with the appropriate town departments. Residents are being encouraged to participate in the finding of solutions.

Some of the public's concerns were listed by WEPA:

— The need for litter baskets. Locations: across the street from the Unitarian Church, at the entrances to the public library, in the Town Hall parking lot, at the railroad stations, behind the Dairy Barn, on Lake street, across from the Post Office, corner of Washington and Swanton streets, between the Winter Ponds, near the sidewalk at Elliot Park and near the Baptist Church.

— Traffic lights desired at Grove st., Lake and Main sts. "Why are there stop signs where there are stop lights? was asked.

— Better lighting needed on Rte. 3 and on the ramp at Winchester Station. Lights on too late at USA rink and First National store.

— Signs in disrepair in many areas of town.

— Need for trees and other plantings on Skillings rd. along River st. and on Main st.

General suggestions: Make bike path from Winchester Center to Boston, following railroad. Are underground power lines feasible? Contact MDC about Sandy Beach: fountain is overturned. Private roads should get spring cleaning. Merchants should be asked to help more on alley and back areas. Town-owned residential property needs upgrading, better care. High School students should pick up litter at High School periodically. Tidy McManus property. Old skating rink should be retired. Boston and Maine does not keep Diesels clean. Make professional advice available to merchants and private owners to improve styles, colors, landscaping.

School-related: Mystic and Washington schools need top soil and seed. Safety features at Muraco School: R. R. overpass on Cross st. has walkway insufficient for number of children.

Architectural review commission urged. Consider environmental impacts with zoning. Develop parkways along Aberjona. Develop more sense of citizen participation in solutions to problem areas.

Special: Bullet holes in stained glass windows, Second Congregational Church.

Trash (illegal dumping): Along Swanton street (Chapin court); At Elks, Rte. 3; Rangeley road; trees down - beer cans. Beer cans. Beer cans. Beer cans. Beer cans. (These should be recycled.)

Fences: Cyclone fences constantly need paint at high school and First National.

Members were agreed that there is a psychological factor involved in an area that is trashy or unkept — it invites more mess.

Winchester children will be presented with the question "This is my town. This is how I care for it." during the week of April 2 - 7.

Peace Committee Plans To Join In Boston Rally Today

The Winchester Peace Committee will join peace groups from Metropolitan Boston in a rally and picket line at the JFK Federal Building in the Government Center beginning at 4 p.m. today.

The purpose of the rally is to call attention to South Vietnamese President Thieu's visit to the United States and to protest continued United States support for his regime. Similar protest rallies will be held in major cities across the country this week.

The members of the Winchester Peace Committee are opposed to continued U. S. aid to the Thieu regime for three reasons: "First, Thieu is a vicious and unpopular dictator who has consistently suppressed freedom of the press and thwarted attempts to hold free elections.

"He remains in power only because of U. S. support. Second, because of the nature of Thieu's regime and the ways in which it has been violating the cease fire agreement for example, refusal to release political prisoners, continuing massive air strikes by the Saigon Air Force support for Thieu constitutes a very grave threat to the fragile peace that now exists.

"Third, the billions of dollars being spent to keep Thieu in power should be spent instead on socially beneficial programs here at home.

"It is interesting to note that the $2.8 billion that goes to Thieu is roughly equivalent to the amount of money being cut from domestic spending."

The committee will meet at the bus terminal in the center parking lot at 3 p.m. today and drive together to the rally. The next meeting of the committee will be at 8 p.m. Thursday, April 12, at 54 Salisbury st. All interested are welcome.

Furrs Win Lawn Tennis Tourney

Though they did not play together as partners, Mr. and Mrs. Richard Furr were winners of last Saturday's "Mixed-up Doubles" tennis tournament held at the Winchester Indoor Lawn Center in Winchester.

Playing for five one half-hour periods, with five different partners and 10 different opponents, Richard and Marie Furr managed to score enough points under the Vass system of scoring to independently become high scorers and winners for the evening. Each was presented an inscribed trophy in recognition of their triumph.

Other participants in the tournament noted that Marie Furr's aggressive new game was her key to success while her husband relied on an effective serve-volley combination to accrue his winning point toal.

According to John Koslowski, president of the Winchester Indoor Lawn Tennis Center, the popular "mixed-up doubles" tournaments will continue through the month of April. Koslowski also indicates that time still exists for Winchester tennis players to enter these events to see for themselves why they sustained popularity.

Ambrose School To Hold Educational Fair On Thursday

The Ambrose Elementary School will hold an educational fair Thursday evening, arrangements of which were made by the school enrichment chairman Mrs. Helen Phillipu.

Intermediate students at Ambrose School recently attended the second annual specialty day. Eight members of professions donated time to tell youngsters highlights of their careers.

Dr. Mortimer J. Buckley, cardiologist, discussed the anatomy of the heart and procedures taken to correct defects in heart function.

Theodore Wood, associate professor of Humanities at MIT, folksinger and authority in American folklore, played records of his singing and discussed folktales and their contribution to American life.

Tufts drama professor and historian Peter Arnott spoke about how the Romans spent their day.

Ms. Clara Tubby, educational director of the Epilepsy Foundation, presented a short film and discussion on epilepsy and how it affects a person, his family and society.

Marguerite Thuma presented a mock town meeting to the group and explained the structure and functions of town government.

"Religions of the East" was the subject discussed by Mrs. Clarene Hamilton.

Pauline Taggert conducted a mini-creative drama workshop to show that classroom material can be enhanced through the use of creative drama.

Robert Forget, draftsman, who has made a career of textbook illustrating by combining the skills of drafting, map-making, and photography, set up a display of his work and answered the students' questions.

Students select two of eight subjects to be discussed and attend those of their choice. These topics are often used as the basis for educational fairs.

Carl deSuze Due As Quota Guest

What people had piped plumbing and bathtubs before they had books? What public figure complained about violent youth, the generation gap, confrontation, polarization, ethnic issues, and interminable war, inflation, corrupt politicians, law and order and the far right, and yet became his country's most successful playwright? Who had the first successful women's lib?

The answers to these questions will come from Carl de Suze as guest of the Quota Club on April 11, 1973 at 8 p.m. at the McCall Junior High School. He will talk on "A Choice of Gods," a presentation on Greece and Turkey.

Tickets may be purchased at Handcraft House, 10 Thompson st, The Star Stationery Shop, 3 Church st. or at the door.

the $12,500 salary of a lieutenant, who assumes a chief's duties in his absence.

Kessel noted that state law now requires a chief's salary to be double that of a patrolman and Winchester can do nothing about it.

The meeting approved the $236,729 appropriation to cover wage and salary hikes with little other comment.

All budgets now except the dog officer and school lunch program have been enacted.

The meeting continues tonight at 7:45 p.m. with action expected on the purchase of new capital equipment. An $80,000 Fire Department ladder truck is a major item.

Participation in the school lunch program has decreased from 50 percent to nine percent in six months.

The school lunch budget was tabled after considerable discussion, primarily focussing on $130,000 for contractual services, and at the suggestion of school committeeman Stephen Parkhurst, who said, "There's no need to vote for this money until we determine exactly what we'll do."

The two alternatives for the elementary school lunch program, mandated by the state to begin in the fall of 1973, appear to be: to continue the present experimental plan of buying elementary pupil lunches from Servomation of Stoneham at $130,000 for an 18-month period ending June 1974, or to prepare lunches within the school system.

Questions from town meeting members and responses from the School Committee told the assembly the contractual services segment of the budget was for food and based on a 95 percent participation of pupils in the school lunch program; the average daily lunch purchases during the experimental period has been 200 lunches; and that a seven percent anticipated increased in food prices had been built into the budget as proposed.

Finance committee spokesman Lawrence Smith said he "was about to suggest a cut" on this budget for a program that apparently "is no bonanza" and he was happy to support Parkhurst's recommendation for tabling.

Town meeting members were in agreement. The school committee will study the situation further.

BOOK REVIEW

by Enid G. Houlding
Winchester Public Library

I GATHERED THE BRIGHT DAYS
by Lee Lane

This is the autobiography of a nurse who married a doctor. They met when he was a third-year medical student at Columbia-Presbyterian Medical Center. He became a brilliant surgeon and died in 1969 when undergoing open heart surgery, an operation procedure on which he had worked during his lifetime to perfect.

They were married in August 1941. In March 1942 when Dr. Zeph Lane graduated, he was commissioned as a lieutenant in the Navy and "assigned to the Bethesda Medical Center. It was so new Zeph was the second intern the staff ever trained there." Mrs. Lane kept her hand in by finding a nursing job through the War Department Nursing Office.

"One Sunday morning in late spring I answered a call from a captain who said his boss needed a nurse. I knew the captain and suspected he was up to some devilry.

"'Unless the case necessitates a stretcher,' I said icily, 'I am not available.'

"A barrage of calls followed, the last of them from the captain's superior officer. By then I was thoroughly exasperated. Also, I was busy with other patients.

" 'It is just as long a walk from my office to yours,' I said, 'as from yours to mine. We are officially here to look after civilians. Only. If you stayed away from the Army-Navy Club on Saturday night you would not now have the hang-over you are presumably suffering from' Bang!

"A little later I did minister to a tired-looking individual who seemed to be coming down with a cold and gave every indication to my jaundiced eye, of having a hangover. We had a magic concoction for such cases: the dejected officer drank his dose meekly and departed ...

"The telephone rang ... and it was my boss...'By the way', she added, 'do you know who your patients were yesterday?'...'General Eisenhower called up,' she said. 'He asked me to thank the nurse who cured him. Furthermore, he said to tell you you would make a great top sergeant.'"

Mrs. Lane tells her story of life with her surgeon husband in a breezy, straightforward way. What is lacking in literary style is made up for in the ebulient life force of both the main characters which is very evident. The couple had decided to have two children and ended up by having eight, the last of which died shortly after its birth. There was heartbreak as well as joy with this varied and lively family, as with all human relationships. That there was a deep and abiding love is also very evident. Women will appreciate Mrs. Lane, who managed family, a career, and living with a dominant male without losing her own identity.

Magic Circle Announces Plays

The Tufts University Magic Circle Theater for Children, which for many years has drawn from Winchester boys and girls to fill out its cast, announces its summer program of plays produced by children for children's audiences.

Held at the Tufts Arena Theater, Talbot ave., Medford, both productions, "The Blue Bird" by Maurice Maeterlinck and "Rip Van Winkle" by Washington Irving, are original adaptations by Magic Circle's co-directors Harvey Grossmann and Ruth Mandel, co-directors of The Players' Theatre of New England.

Held during the Tufts Summer School, June 25 - Aug. 3 from 9 a.m. - 4 p.m., with daily swimming in the Tufts pool, the Magic Circle does not teach children to be child actors. It aims to introduce students between the ages of 10 - 15 to the theater as a whole concept in which everyone participates in set design and building, costumes, lights as well as acting, singing, and dancing and playing musical instruments.

"The Blue Bird," which will be performed during the fourth week of Magic Circle, is about a boy and a girl who take a fantastic journey into past and future, time and space to find out what life is all about.

In Mandel's adaptation of "Rip Van Winkle," unlike previous stage versions where Rip is portrayed as running away from his shrewish wife, reveals what Rip's 20-year-sleep is really about: a vision of his life as it could be.

Grossmann, director since 1966 of the Player's Theatre of New England, is an actor, director, and instructor in the art of mime. Mandel, a poet, director, teacher, and writer for children's theater, has published and produced several plays for children in America, Canada, and Israel, where she founded a children's troupe.

Auditions for Magic Circle will be held April 7 and 8, between 9 a.m. and 3:30 p.m. Interested parents should immediately call Irene Rickabaugh, Tufts Arena Theater, for an appointment.

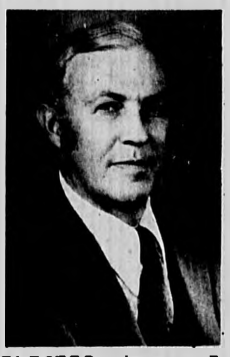
Match Strikers Beware

State Fire Marshal Joseph G. Sneider has issued a warning to Massachusetts residents concerning a matchbook which is being sold in many novelty stores throughout the Commonwealth.

The matchbook, imported from Japan, is 12 inches long and contains 190 "safety" matches. The folder is designed with the striking plate located inside the cover. This is extremely dangerous as all the matches are exposed during the lighting of one match.

Marshal Sneider stated that this type of matchbook can cause severe burns to a person since the cover cannot be closed when a match is struck. He advised people in possession of the folder to destroy it in order to safeguard themselves and members of their families.



ELECTED - James B. Weaver, formerly of Winchester, has been elected vice-president of ICI America Inc., where he is head of corporate planning and appraisal department with responsibilities in screening and appraisal and monitoring of new ventures. He will continue to direct functions of economic evaluation, long range forecasting and marketing research. He holds BS and MS degrees in chemical engineering from MIT.

Bettie Donald's Observes 17th Birthday During April

Bettie Donald Intimate Apparel, 5 Winchester terr., will celebrate its 17th birthday during April.

Bettie Donald, owner of the fashion lingerie shop, recalls opening day in 1956 on Waterfield st., then Common st. It was during a bad snowstorm and those first few days she kept wondering where the customers were. "How I ever survived is a miracle," she says.

She did survive and survived even a fire which forced her to move to a new location on Church st. About 12 years ago she moved to Winchester ter.

Before coming to Winchester and going into business for herself, Mrs. Donald learned the lingerie trade as buyer for Jay's of Boston. There she discovered the importance of properly fitted support garments. To make certain that clothing fits properly and customers are satisfied, Mrs. Donald and personnel encourage customers to try on clothing before buying. She employs a part-time person and on full-time basis Nancy Quinn of Arlington, a graduate of Grahm Junior College who has been with her for a year. "She adds a youthful touch to the store," Mrs. Donald notes.

The shop has intimate apparel in the medium to better price range in all sizes for all women. Mrs. Donald does all the buying and checks merchandise for quality workmanship. She gives a rundown of fashion clothing in the store:

Gowns designed to fit by Olga, bras; regular, evening (black and white) and half slips, loungewear, shifts, regular and bikini panties, jonnies.. pajamas, hospital gowns open in back, bed jackets, slippers, lightweight long-legged and short girdles, and one-piece lightweight support garments.

Also, in stock are panty hose from sheer to support styles in petite to queen sizes, and panty hose with girdle tops. Mrs. Donald points to panty hose as one of the greatest changes in women's fashion. "There's a panty hose to meet the needs of most any woman," she says. "The addition of bright colors in all clothing is a nice change too."

The shop carries a line of Camp and Vassarette bathing suits in sizes 10 to 38 giving either a bikini, slim full-line, or covered-up look.

Mrs. Donald, who holds a diploma for fitting prothestic breast forms, carries a full selection of both the liquid or air types for fashion purposes.

"We work hard to keep our window attractive," Mrs. Donald says, adding that a man walked by the window on Sunday and noted a hostess gown which he felt would look good on his wife. The next day following her husband's wishes, the wife came down to buy the gown, Mrs. Donald says.

Bettie Donald

At Bettie Donald's they keep sales slips on file according to customer's name and address for reference purposes. Then if a satisfied woman doesn't recall what she bought earlier the answer is at hand.

Gift wrapping and alterations are also services offered at the store, which was recently redecorated in coffee cream and gold. "We lost our pink look which was pretty well-known in the community," Mrs. Donald says.

Mrs. Donald is a charter member of the Winchester Business Association and a member of the present board of directors. She also belongs to the Quota Club. She is married to Joseph Donald and lives on 30 Stevens st. They have a daughter, Mrs. Bruce Bennett, who lives in Ashfield.

GIFT TO SCHOOL - Ron Gauld (standing) of the Winchester National Bank presents to Winchester High School social studies teacher William O'Connor educational material on banking. Gift includes work books, records and other material.

SLAB OR BASEMENT?

Slab or basement - which is better? If you know, be careful who you tell because this is a highly emotional subject. There are some marketing areas where builders couldn't sell a house with a basement no matter how hard they tried. Just the opposite is true about basements in other cities.

A lot depends on the local custom, competency of builders, and, to some extent, the weather. Since footings (deepest support under the foundation) must be below the frost line, which is not uncommonly three to four feet below the surface in the north, some say, "Why not go whole hog and make it seven."

Slabs tend to make a house look more streamlined because the house sits closer to the ground. Basement houses allow more useful indoor space on a small lot. On the other hand, basements are certainly more expensive than slabs. Expense also varies with the lay of the land which determines excavation costs.

If you have any questions on this subject or on any other aspect of Real Estate, please feel free to call or drop in at JAMES T. TREFREY, INC., REALTORS, 27 Waterfield Road, Winchester - Tel. 729-6100.

100 YEARS OLD - George Durward Knightly of 6 New Meadows rd. will be 100 years of age on April 15. He attributes his long life to clean living. He is the father of Mrs. Malcolm C. Wilson with whom he lives.

Elder Citizen Considers His Body A Temple, To Be 100

When George Durward Knightly of Winchester celebrates his birthday on April 15 he will be 100 years old. He will treat the day as any other in a long life of hard work, not joining organizations, treating his body "as a temple of God" which means he lives without drinking and smoking, and encourages others to do the same.

Knightly, who is hard-of-hearing, lives with his daughter and her husband, Mr. and Mrs. Malcolm C. Wilson of 6 New Meadows rd. He was born in Norway, Me., on a farm facing Little Pennesseewasee Lake, the son of Thomas D. and Ellen (Brown) Knightly. Educated in Norway Schools, he began working in a shoe factory when he was 16 and came to Massachusetts when he was 20.

He recalls his first trip outside of Maine. He came to Boston to a Christian conference at the Tremont Temple. Living as a Christian has been a motivating factor in his existence, he notes.

He speaks of his early home where family prayer was a daily practice and his father read from the Bible. Knightly carries on this ritual today and still has the family Bible which is now over 100 years old.

Last January, he says, he began re-reading the Bible beginning with Genesis. Now he is up to Ezekiel expecting to reach Daniel next week. "The Bible is like no other book on earth. It has a mint of knowledge. It sticks right to the main point," he says.

Reading is one of Knightly favorite pastimes. Of particular interest are biographies. Recently he finished the life story of C. H. Spurgeon, an English preacher. Others he's read about are Billy Graham and D. L. Moody. He also peruses Newsweek and Reader's Digest on a regular basis.

He looks to President Richard Nixon as "the best man for the job at this time." He considers his trips to China and Russia as major steps forward.

When Knightly was 23 he married Jennie May Rollins of Haverhill who died in 1932.

Besides Mrs. Wilson, he has a son, Harlan Knightly, who with his wife flew east from Seattle, Wash., last week to be near his father on his 100th birthday.

For 32 years Knightly owned and operated the Knightly Retail Shoe Store on Essex st., Lawrence. He lived in North Andover and raised gladioli and hybrid dahlias. He also has caned antique chairs for his children, nine grandchildren and 16 great grandchildren.

After he sold his business he moved to St. Petersburg, Fla., for 11 years where he worked as a caretaker. He came to Winchester 11 years ago.

He plays a good game of checkers. He mentions beating his son playing the other day. "He quit on the third game," Knightly recalls happily.

Knightly feel strongly about not having joined organizations throughout his life. He speaks of an incident in his youth where he refused to join a union. "I'm opposed to joining anything," he says, claiming he wants to "keep free. I don't want to be tied up to anybody."

He tells about a time he was in a hospital and a nurse asked him what he'd do if he had a million dollars. "I told her I'd spend it in the service of the Lord, probably in missions because that's where there is a lot of work to be done."

Clean-up To Promote Fire Safety

This spring, during the month of April, before a man's fancy has a chance to turn to other things, practice "togetherness" by teaming up with him for some vigorous clean-up activity in and around the house.

This advice to local homemakers comes from Fire Chief I. Francis Amico as Winchester prepares to launch its annual spring clean-up campaign with improved fire safety as the goal.

Quoting figures compiled by the National Fire Protection Association, Amico notes that in the United States alone some 7,000 lives are lost in home fires annually. These fires damage or destroy more than half a million houses each year.

"Right now, before the lure of the golf course or boat club takes over with the coming of warmer weather, take time to rid your property of accumulated clutter and rubbish," the chief said.

Indoors, concentrate on the attic, basement and closets — those out-of-sight, out-of-mind places where "treasures" no one will ever want again could give fire a place to start. Outdoors, eliminate fire's breeding places by cleaning out dried brush, dead grass, old papers and other litter left in winter's wake.

"Spring clean up activities, conscientiously carried out, will help raise the level of fire safety throughout the community — in homes, businesses, schools and churches, industrial plants, open land everywhere," Amico said.

Champagne Cabaret On At St. Mary's

St. Mary's Sodality will present a champagne cabaret April 29 at 8 p.m. in St. Mary's Hall featuring "The Funtastics" in a singing review of all-time favorites from Broadway shows, operettas and current hits.

Ten young troubadours will make St. Mary's Hall their stage as they offer vocal interpretations of songs from yesterday and today.

Lesson-Sermon

Isaiah prophesied: "Behold, all they that were incensed against thee shall be ashamed and confounded: they shall be as nothing;..."

In "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," Mary Baker Eddy writes: "Discord is the nothingness named error. Harmony is the somethingness named Truth."

The lesson-sermons are applicable to every phase of human experience. How this works is brought out in the Wednesday evening meetings by those who tell of their individual experiences.

A welcome awaits all at the 11 a.m. Sunday services and 8 p.m. Wednesday evening meetings. The Christian Science Church is at 114 Church st.

Coward Shoes has done it again! First they take a cool, handwoven soft leather sandal. They add a bouncy cushion-crepe sole, a wedge heel. Next they do the comfort thing, with heel-to-toe foam cushioning. Then they offer it in a wide range of sizes. And, last but not least, they put on a really low price tag. No wonder Coward's been making friends for over 100 years. The sandal, in bone or white ... sizes 6½ to 11, widths to fit B to EEE.

Town Meeting Votes New Equipment Of $179,000

But Library Loses Out

Town meeting Monday completed action on new equipment to be purchased, approving $179,280 for 11 items out of a requested 14.

Among pieces of equipment approved are a ladder truck, $85,000, and a rescue truck, $18,000, for the Fire Department; four police cruisers, .$13,045; van for the dog officer, $3,000; and leaf collector, $9,000.

Not approved was a beach wagon, at $4,996, for superintendent of streets Robert G. O'Brien. TMM Arthur J. Hewis Jr. said the car's logged 73,000 miles is "way out of line" compared with two other town cars purchased at the same time. The other town cars have about 30,000 miles. Hewis said O'Brien's mileage is nearly three times the distance around the world.

TMM Robert P. Joyce of Precinct 6 urged the members to remove such options as air conditioning and a large engine on O'Brien's proposed car if they were going to approve its purchase.

He said many town officials use town cars for personal use but that O'Brien's was used excessively so.

Selectman chairman Paul F. Amico defended the large engine as needed because the car is used during snow storms. TMMs countered that if such were the case O'Brien should get a jeep.

Joyce at the Monday meeting was successful in amending the equipment article to have most town vehicles affixed with the town seal. "It may curb some poor uses of the vehicles," he said. He also said such identification will let the taxpayers "know what vehicles they are paying for."

Representing the Board of Selectmen, Chairman Amico said: "We have no objection to marking the vehicles but I wonder if this is the appropriate way to do it." He said the board hasn't had a chance to see the proposed marking.

The meeting passed the amendment with little additional debate.

The meeting voted down an amendment offered by TMM Lenore C. Frazier to purchase a leaf shredder for $17,000. Mrs. Frazier said the town has spent $4,000, $6,000 and $3,800 over the last three years buying loam and the machine would easily pay for itself over its 15-year life expectancy.

The amendment was opposed by the Finance Committee and Board of Selectmen on the grounds purchase of a leaf shredder is premature. Spokesmem for both boards during the lengthy debate on the amendment said more study is required.

The meeting voted to take money for all new equipment out of the stabilization fund, which has half a million dollars in it. The new equipment, therefore, does not come from taxation this year.

For the fourth year in a row, the meeting voted down air conditioning for the public library. The $41,000 was sought to cool the main reading room and two adjacent rooms. In arguing for approval, Library Chairman Andrew L. Nichols said the original cost estimate of $25,000 has risen so much and the Finance Committee has for so long promised air conditioning that "enough is enough."

Finance, as in previous years, recommended air conditioning not be approved. "Next year they will find another reason to delay it," Nichols said.

Finance Chairman Lawrence T. Smith said the committee opposed air conditioning this year because of cost and uncertainties of the new 18-month fiscal year, which Nichols called "incoherent mutterances in the abstract about undefined problems."

Nichols also said the library is the only town building not cooled, that it's open 12 months a year and library staff offices would not be air conditioned.

In response to questions, he said if the building were cooled the library could be open summer evenings and cost of electircity for the project would be $1,000 a year.

The meeting approved $1,650 for resurfacing and repairs of Lake and Palmer streets. Total cost of the project, $45,000, is shared by the state, county and town.

Also approved were appropriations of $31,000 for covers on two town drinking water tanks and $10,000 for repairs, improvements, lighting and furniture for Town Hall.

Discussion of other budget items at Thursday's session was brief, with the exception of the assessors'. This account was passed with an amendment adding $3,000 for publication of an evaluation book.

Finance Committee agreed with the maker of the motion, Prec. 1's TMM Hewis, that such information should be printed. Windsor S. Carpenter, assessors' chairman, opposed, saying that another evaluation book is planned for the future, thus making the proposed book out of date.

In discussion on capital equipment, police cruisers were passed with air conditioning included,despite an objection that this option, coupled with present emission controls, reduces mileage considerably. The "human factor" was cited in the recommendation to retain this feature.

Board of Selectmen Chairman Amico said that the cost of repair to a wrecked police cruiser is estimated at $1,900. The turn-in value was given as $700. The cruisers then had to be rebid, producing a $700 increase in cost from the original figure.

Regarding other pieces of equipment Amico explained that use of his own private automobile by the dog officer, had proved inadequate and that construction of compartments within the van truck would be done by the Highway Department; that the present leaf collector was beyond repair; that the proposed pick up truck would have year-round use because the body could be replaced by a dump truck body; and that the two underbody scrapers would reduce the amount of salt needed, and therefore, expenditures for salt.

The ladder truck, to be purchased at about $85,000, will have a diesel engine and closed cab and require approximately 12-14 months for delivery. The present 25-year-old ladder truck, which needed $3,000 in repairs between 1969 and 1972, has no trade-in value, according to Selectman Arthur E. Dunbar.

The present ladder will be kept as a "spare" at the West Side Station. There will

New Town Meeting Member Feels Changes Are Necessary

By Ann Landau

"I wouldn't live in a town that didn't have a town meeting," says Mrs. Robert Stolow, newly elected town meeting member from Precinct 3.

Active in the League of Women Voters, Mrs. Stolow is one example of the concerned citizen bitten by the town meeting bug.

"Usually by 8 p.m. most evenings I'm pretty tired but somehow on town meeting nights I'm full of pep," she stated in a recent interview at her North Gateway home.

A student of local government since she came with her family to Winchester 12 years ago, she has been chairman of the league education committee several times and a league observer at school committee meetings off and on over the years.

"I felt it was time to have a vote, a say in town affairs," Mrs. Stolow told The Star. In past years she has attended town meetings as a non-member.

She feels strongly that town meeting has great educational value for children. Her own(Marjorie, 16, Karen, 14, and Michelle, 6) support her new membership.

They have attended town meetings and done school reports on the subject and listen to the radio broadcasts of the meetings at home.

"They know who the town officials are. It has been very stimulating for them," she said.

Although this year is Mrs. Stolow's first town meeting experience as a member, participation in town government is something of a tradition in her family.

"My father-in-law has been a member of the Brookline town meeting for about 30 years and my brother-in-law is a library trustee in Stoughton," she explains.

Asked her opinion on limiting the speaking at town meeting, she commented, "There ought to be some kind of limit according to the importance of the issue under discussion, time. The problem is the people who get up, speak repeatedly. After the first time around, everyone knows different people's positions on the issue."

The long arguing back and forth discourages people from seeking membership in the town meeting, she feels. "Right here in Precinct 3 there were three unsought-after seats at the last minute.

"Somehow Belmont manages to get through its warrant quickly enough; certainly we ought to be able to."

What does a new town meeting meber see as the first concern of the town now that school expansion is no longer a question?

"It is time for an examiniation of the question of a town administrator form of government," Mrs. Stolow stated firmly.

She referred specifically to an upcoming request of the Town Government Study Committee to establish a charter commission. She explained that people fear needlessly a sweeping change by the mere establishment of a commission.

"The establishment of a commission would simply provide for the study of this question. The town meeting would always have the final choice," she continued.

"The Board of Selectmen cannot continue to bear such a heavy burden under a form of government that was suitable for a smaller community with a smaller annual budget. A town administrator form of government would not do away with the present town meeting or Board of Selectmen. It would simply shift the burden of administration from the selectmen's shoulders. These men are fully employed in other work and volunteer their service to the board in seeking election."

Recognizing that there are legitimate questions to be raised in such a change, she feels strongly in favor of establishing a commission to study the matter.

Calling the town meeting "the most exciting form of local government" and a "very illuminating experience," Mrs. Stolow will take her place tonight with the other members for another session of New England style discussion.

Cops Raid House, Seize Drugs, Cash

Police raided a home on the Stoneham side of town Saturday morning and arrested a 21-year-old man on narcotics charges after seizing more than $3,000 in cash and checks and variety of narcotic implements.

Arraigned in Fourth District Court, Woburn, later that morning was Bruce W. Swim of 20 Fells rd. His case was continued until April 24. He was arrested at his home and charged with posession of narcotics with intent to sell.

According to the police report of Lt. William T. Haggerty, the Fells road home had been under surveillance by Winchester inspectors since Dec. 1 of last year. After obtaining a search warrant Friday, Haggerty and Sgt. Insp. Roland J. Roy, Juvenile Officer Richard W. Beaton, Insp. William E. Nash and Officers Robert G. Baird, Kevin P. Mawn and Joseph N. Perritano moved in Saturday morning.

Among the first discoveries were two plastic bags believed to contain marijuana in a clothes hamper located in an upstairs bathroom, police said. Capsules, a solid substance, a vial, and some possible hashish were also found. These substances have been sent to the Food and Drug Administration to be analyzed.

Tourniquets, a pipe, the cash and checks were also taken by police at this time.

Swim was subsequently charged and appeared in court. The narcotics were of an undetermined "bul large" quantity. Cash was over $3,000 and checks more than $300.

Chief of Police Edward F. Bowler, who noted that the entire operation had been conducted by local officers, feels that the incident "will have a marked effect upon drug traffic in this town." He agrees with Lt. Haggerty that this "very successful" venture will aid in future efforts to solve the drug problem within Winchester.

Fireman Fights Week Suspension

A firefighter who refused to work extra-duty hours was ordered suspended this week for seven days. Firefighter Joseph J. Riga is appealing to the state's Civil Service Commission.

Represented at a Town Hall hearing last Friday by his attorney, Domnic A. Caronna of Worcester, Riga challanged the validity of the hearing conducted by Fire Chief I. Francis Amico.

Riga did not appear at the hearing, which 15 minutes after it began was declared closed by Amico. The chief said it was "ridiculous" to continue without Riga.

Riga was ordered by Capt. Robert W. McElhinney to work the extra duty after completing his regular day at 8 a.m. because one of the officers was absent.

Riga maintains that work rules require an officer's absence to be filled by another officer. Chief Amico said that the general orders of the department, as of April 1972 require a replacement to be made in order of seniority of those going off duty.

Amico contends there is no rule in the department requiring replacement of officers by officers and suggested Riga was making "a test case out of it." The chief said the department goes down to two on-duty officers before filling in.

"We did have an officer out (at the time Riga was requested to work), "the chief said. "But there were still two on duty. We needed a man (non-officer)."

The chief said there is no animosity between himself "and anyone here. This man was ordered to work because there was a shortage of manpower. That's all."

Amico said Riga had other means of redress he could have used, including an internal grievance procedure.

"If you run a newspaper and an employee says he's not going to work, how long would you have a newspaper?" the chief asked.

Atty. Coronna challenged Amico's right to conduct the hearing and challenged the validity of hearing itself on these grounds:

—The notice informing Riga of the hearing "does not specifically state the reasons for the contemplated action to suspend";

—The reason for the hearing is "too vague and indefinite" to comply with statute providing for hearings;

—The work order (for extra duty) infers it

Bowler Says More Police On Main St.

Police Chief Edward F. Bowler, in a letter to the Board of Selectmen Monday, said more protection is being provided in the north end of town against congregating youths.

The selectmen voted to have the chief report to them every month on the situation. Selectman John J. Sullivan described the assembly of youths as "very bad up there" and Selectman Arthur E. Dunbar said: "Unless there is proper lighting something is going to happen."

The area is the Main street section near the Woburn line, subject of a recent petition to the board from residents complaining of damage to property from youths.

The selectmen were concerned with a safety hazard to the youths resulting from cars parked along the street and dark lighting. The specific area lies between Swanton street and the telephone building.

Bowler in his letter said the youths congregate in more than one aren of town and "the police are kept busy dispersing them" but "we do a good job. A trip to neighboring communities will show what I mean."

He continued that more protection than "in most localities" is being provided by the Police Department; "an officer on foot patrols Main street from 4 p.m. until midnight."

He continued: "Two patrol cars provide supplementary patrolling. A sergeant in a third car provides supervision and assistance to the route officer. The surveillance car with School Vandalism: How Serious A Problem?

At a recent session of town meeting discussion of the school budget as it pertained to custodial services at the high school, TMM Arthur Hewis of Prec 1 charged that the town's $10 million new high school is receiving physical abuse with Magic Marker writing on lockers, broken windows and paper strewn about and "something should be done about it.

Coincidentally, for the past couple of weeks The Star has been investigating rumors of vandalism to the nearly $22 million worth of school real estate. Local educators interviewed state that vandalism is minimal or non-existent.

High school principal Vincent Larocco, who says he's been in education for 17 years, having previously worked in New Jersey where vandalism was high, feels that 95 percent of the students at Winchester High School are interested in keeping their school in good condition.

Bob Fitzgerald, prinicpal at Lynch Junior High School, says that five percent at his school would mean 35 kids are involved in some form of vandalism and "this is just not true."

Larocco admits that high school properly is being abused but is "minimal and probably done by only five percent of the student body" or by graduates or others no longer in school.

Larocco defines vandalism as willful intent to destroy. He considers there are three types of people who destroy property: 1. the emotionally disturbed who "takes out his frustration by showing off (or attention"; 2. the non-thinking person who might carry a lacrosse stick through a corridor and "accidentally knock out a tile in the ceiling"; and 3. those who drink on the weekend and while under the influence "throw bottles through windows." Monday mornings are when the bottles are found.

Fitzgerald reports the wooded area behind Lynch is where custodians routinely clear trash and beer bottles every Monday morning; also glass in the parking lot.

Broken windows are the biggest problem the educators say. According to Clark, the cost of replacing broken windows to Winchester schools for last year was $8,298. This is for glass installed by school department custodians as well as large panes and installation costs handled by outsiders, Clark says.

Regarding students writing with Magic Markers on lockers Larocco says "some kids just have an incessant desire to write on things." The custodians keep after this and remove the writing because we find that not to do so will only increase the problem. The same is true of desks, which Larocco says are supposed to be "kidproof."

He says custodians try to keep the washrooms clean and in full supply of paper towels, etc., because not to do so leads to frustration and "frustration leads to vandalism."

"Some people tend to look at me as one who wears rose colored glasses." Larocco notes counteracting with his procedure for remedy when destruction or pranks arise. "If a problem comes up I go on the air (uses public address system) and remind kids of safety factors and the cost of tax dollars."

Larocco notes the latest prank is to pull down door stops and stand back and watch someone try to open a door. He also says that water fire extinguishers make "great squirt guns," adding "we are constantly stressing safely."

William Clark, assistant superintendent of schools, agrees with Larocco that repairs must be kept up or "students will help you tear a building down. You can't put maintenance off," he says. Clark considers a maintenance budget should not be less than one percent of insured value. Under this procedure the high school which cost 10 million, and likely is insured for the same amount, should have a maintenance budget of $100,000

Fitzgerald agrees "If we keep ahead of it we can prevent it."

Claire Corcoran, principal at the Vinson-Owen School, and Andy Allen, principal at Parkhurst School, say broken glass is their biggest problem, but this is little and usually due to accident by pupils.

Ms. Corcoran feels that pupils who are having happy learning experiences with resulting achievement and recognition don't have time or need to get involved in vandalism. She speaks of clean-up days at Vinson-Owen and children who take pride in their building; also parents who involve children in programs that continue use of school building throughout the summer as keeping vandalism down because activity is up.

Allen notes his students have interest in "beautifying the grounds." Every year sixth grade pupils hold a treasure hunt to raise money to leave something for the school. Three years ago a fence was the something

Spring Clean-Up Checklist Given

Spring into action against fire hazards now that spring clean-up time is here!

This is the advice of Fire Chief I. Francis Amico as he leads the community wide effort to keep every home free from dangerous and destructive fire.

"Trash and rubbish are the breeding place for about 50,000 fires which destroy or damage American homes each year," says the chief, quoting figures compiled by the National Fire Protection Association.

Here is a five-point program for spring clean-up action offered by Amico to remove most of the common cause of fire in the home:

1. Clean out stacks of newspapers and magazines, discarded clothing mattresses, old furniture and lamp shades, draperies--all the clutter that collects in attics, basements and closets.

2. Do the same clean-up job in the home workshop--get rid of shavings, scraps, oily rags, old paint.

3. Don't forget about the trash accumulating in the garage, and the dead grass and brush around and near the house--dispose of it right now.

4. Repair defective electrical cords and plugs, check all home appliances and call a competent electrician if they need attention.

5. Have the furnace, chimney and stoves inspected and cleaned. Do it now instead or waiting for fall when one might be caught by the first cold snap.

Fire lurks in every one of these places in and around the home, warns Amico. "A little elbow grease now may save a lot of grief in the future," he points out.

Census Bureau Survey Here

A sample of households in this area will be among approximately 15,000 in the United States included in the consumer buying and residential alterations and repairs survey conducted by the Bureau of the Census.

Interviewing will take place the first two weeks of April. The survey is taken four times yearly as part of a nationwide effort to guide governmental agencies in developing programs based on consumer spending patterns. Information is gathered on intentions to buy a house, a car, and major household equipment during the next 12 months. Questions about home repairs and alterations relate only to those made during the past three months.

The January 1973 survey showed that consumer plans to buy new cars were higher than in October, but there was no statistically significant change in plans to buy major household appliances, furniture, or carpets, or to make home improvements.

What's a Mutual Savings Bank?

It's 2 out of 3 homes in your town.

What's a Mutual Savings Bank? It's the low rates available in Massachusetts on a residential mortgage. More people own their homes through a Mutual Savings Bank than through any other type of financial institution. And they're building up savings at the same time, because at Mutual Savings Banks every mortgage payment builds up equity for their future security.

What's a Mutual Savings Bank? It's a bank that insures every cent of your deposits in full. It's a bank that pays high interest on savings and charges low interest on loans. That's a Mutual Savings Bank.

Sunday Event

'Walk A Girl To Camp' Draws 200 Local Scouts

The forecast for poor weather didn't deter local Girl Scouts, their families and friends from swelling the number of participants to 1,000 in the "Walk a Girl to Camp" event this Sunday. Over 200 Winchester youngsters and adults walked all or part of the 16-mile route which wound through Medford, Malden, Melrose, Wakefield and Stoneham. Sub-routes fed into the Winchester station from Arlington, Woburn and Burlington.

Community support here was high in this effort to raise funds to send children to camp who are in need of financial assistance. Last year over 200 youngsters on referral from social service agencies were awarded either half on full resident or day camp tuitions. Mistick Side Girl Scout Council, sponsor of the walk, expects to double that number this year because of increased participation.

Cynthia Jones of Squire road and Dorothyanne Brown of Calumet Street were the first Winchester girls to finish the whole route and were given the dollar-a-mile sponsorship from the Winchester Jaycee-ettes. Additional support came from the William Parkman Masonic Lodge, which donated its facilities for use as the Winchester station for the more than 700 walkers who passed through Winchester.

St. Eulalia's Church served as the starting point for the Arlington walkers and many Winchester walkers as well. Members of the Yankee Division, National Guard medical units were stationed at medical aid posts at every station along the main route. Patrols and station workers were volunteers from each community that participated in the walk.

Walkers will be collecting funds from the many individuals and organizations who sponsored them and pledged any amount for each mile walked. Dawn Adams of Manomet road had secured the largest number of sponsors and finished the entire 16 miles. Through her individual effort and commitment and the support of those who pledged, 10 children will receive the benefits of a summer camp experience.

Building Site Is Vandalized Again

Police are questioning local youths regarding vandalism, primarily broken windows, to houses under construction in Old Village Park.

The damage was discovered Sunday by contractor John T. Moore of Arlington. The site has often been the target of vandals recently. No estimate of the damage this weekend was known, according to Lt. Andrew Crawford.

The method of entry was undetermined Sunday after it was found that a typewriter was missing from an office at the First Congregational Church.

Other incidents of larceny reported to police were a bicycle from the Winchester High School and a substitute teacher's pocketbook containing $20 at WHS, later found by a night custodian in a trash barrel. Two bicycles were taken from a Loring avenue yard.

Local car thefts included a 1968 model from a Waterfield road parking lot, another 1968 automobile from the Wedgemere lot, found three days later by Concord police, and a sports car from the parking lot at 200 Swanton st., discovered a day later in Somerville. In an attempt to enter a little foreign vehicle stationed on Aberjona drive, the car was moved across the roadway and two squash racquets and a bag of laundry taken.

Miscellaneous vandalism of which police were informed involved seven broken windows at the Lincoln School, severed clothes lines in a Cross street yard, a broken window at Noonan School, windshield, hubcap and hood of an automobile parked at the USA Rink lot on Conant road and a front window on a Bacon street residence broken by a hurtled beer bottle.

Other damage were seven broken windows at the Mystic School, and broken Boston and Maine signals on the tracks behind the town incinerator. The Winchester News Store, Thompson street, reported that two portable newsstands located at Wedgemere station had been vandalized, one being thrown in the river, and $1.75 taken.

Solution To McManus Site?

The School Department, in a written statement to the town meeting is suggesting that a qualified builder examine McManus House and submit a firm estimate on what it would cost to "put the building back in proper condition."

The town meeting will shortly be asked to transfer ownership of the School Department-controlled house to the Board of Selectmen for use by the Recreation Committee for elderly programs.

Backers of the proposal maintain the house is solid and should be saved. The School Committee wants to raze it to create a kindergarten play area when McCall Junior High School is turned into an elementary school.

McManus House, at 465 Main st., is next to McCall.

The letter stated: "Inasmuch as it had been clearly understood that when the School Department was through using the building for administration offices that it would be torn down, as little as possible was spent in maintaining the property.

"There was considerable termite infection (one one side) when we first occupied it and there has been further deterioration of the structure since." The department says it has spent $7,000 on repairs and refurbishing.

The letter continued: "It should be remembered that the building has been closed since last August and has been broken into on a number of occasions since. Some vandalism occurred. It has been closed after each of these breaks by the maintenance staff....No one in the School Department indicated that the building should be 'condemned.'

"A consulting engineer employed by the Permanent Building Committee for the new high school, Mr. Howard Moore, of the firm of Ganteaume & McMullen, indicated that in his opinion the building was dangerous and should be razed."

The house was used by the School Department from 1966 until 1969 for offices. With as many as 30 persons inside at one time, "the center girder went down 4½ inches and had to be jacked up and a support installed," the letter said.

The shelves of three fireplace mantels had to be removed, according to the statement. "None was marble; they were all pine, both as to mantels and trim."

After the School Committee voted last fall to raze the house, lighting, plumbing, heating, radiators and other accessories were removed.

"Some have already been put in service in the schools: others are in storage in the maintenance shop. In addition, the remaining fireplace mantel shelves and the trim around two fireplaces were removed and taken to the maintenance shop.

"Plumbing fixtures, the oil burner and the hot water tank were disconnected. Since the petition to retain the house had then been submitted, none of these fixtures was taken from the premises."

Mrs. Robert Stolow, 8 N. Gateway, is one of the newest town meeting members. Representing Precinct 3, she finds local government very stimulating. Her chief concern in this area is having the town consider a town administrator form of government while retaining the town meeting and the Board of Selectmen. (Staff photo)

Did you know that ghosts have their own classifications? Ghosts have been divided into two categories, the revenants and the doubles. Revenants are supposedly the reappearances of persons or things which no longer exist, while doubles' are spectres of persons or things known to be elsewhere. Many ghosts, it seems, are accompanied by "ghostly" sounds, but a few make themselves known by touching those whom they visit. Ghosts who rely on the sense of touch are known as incubi.

Letters To The Editor

Stitches

EDITOR OF THE STAR:

One day last week I had occasion to go to the Winchester Hospital Emergency Room. We were there the past Saturday evening for stitches in a friend's hand. We walked into the emergency room because the stitches had fallen out. The doctor examined the hand and insisted that the stitches had been played with. He proceeded to call the nurses and personnel on duty to the area where we were and explained to them that they (the stitches) were tampered with and made complete fools of us. He gave us a lot of static about it, and I was really offended. He was rude to me and my friends and they refused to treat him.

Am I mistaken, or is this a facility for the benefit of the residents? I would also like to add that as I left the room, a nurse exclaimed, "Come back again" very sarcastically.

Joseph C. Vancini

Hospital administrator Reese E. James comments: "I would very much like to follow-up on this matter and ask the writer or patient to contact me at my office."

Pond Drainage

EDITOR OF THE STAR:

Nobody likes Bonnell's better than us. We bought our Ford from them. We love it. We like their service and their rentals.

As a champion of conservation and especially Winter Pond, I worry that another asphalted six acres will harm the headwaters of this beautiful pond. Asphalt proponents say happily that, of course, it will be arranged to drain nicely. And that is just the trouble — we don't want it to drain off nicely and quickly.

We want it to keep serving as a sponge to let the rains and melted snow gradually seep into the pond to keep the level stable. Well drained lands promote flash floods and rapid runoff, and thus fluctuating pond levels. When Winchester has two such worthy causes as Bonnell's and Winter Pond what do you choose?

The state may have very definite things to say about the tampering of the headwaters of Winter Pond. (Since Winter Pond is over 10 acres it is a state pond.) The filling in of Winter Pond is irrevokable.

School Budget Vote 'Not Irresponsible'

EDITOR OF THE STAR:

The Star editorial of April 5 on the school budget made me very angry. To imply that town meeting members voted irresponsibly seems to me very presumptuous. The editor should note that the vote was 86 - 94 — almost one half of the members having voted yes on the motion to return the budget to the School Committee for a reduction of $200,000. Does he therefore condemn all those members for voting irresponsibly?

The fact sheet to explain the very large school budget of $10,467,368 was available to the members entering the hall for the meeting on March 29 when the budget was presented. There was insufficient time for members to peruse and study the facts before voting. Questions were asked and members were not sufficiently convinced that all that money was required.

It is not possible for the town meeting members to tell the School Committee where it should cut its budget. It is possible, however, for town meeting members to voice their concern for the amount of the budget and to ask the committee to make reductions.

Town meeting members represent the people of Winchester and have a serious responsibility to taxpayers to keep spending at a reasonable level. Having served on the School Committee for six years, it seems quite evident to me that $200,000 could be cut from the budget of $10.5 million without hurting the quality of education in Winchester.

It was for this reason that I voted to refer the budget back to the School Committee for a reduction of $200,000. I do not consder that an irresponsible vote.

I submit that the town meeting members who voted yes, to refer the budget back to the School Committee, acted in a most responsible manner and that they were voting in the best interest of their constituents.

Open Letter To The Town

Swim Coach Opposes Leonard Pool Construction, Says High School Facility Much More Feasible

By Vincent J. Palumbo

On March 22, town meeting members approved an additional $8500. for final bid specifications and plans for the construction of an artificial pool at Leonard Park, with a firm commitment for an additional $200,000 for this construction. In effect this total commitment of $217,000 has an impact of $1 per thousand on the town's tax rate for 1973.

A resident and property owner in Winchester for the past 12 years, I have six children, five of whom are competitive swimmers. I am the coach of the Winchester High School boys and girls swim teams, both self supporting. I am also a director and charter member of the Winchester Swim Club, of which I coach the swim team.

I have coached swimming for the past five years without remuneration. Some people look to me as an expert on pools and swimming. I have inspected over 100 indoor and outdoor pools.

As director of personnel and previously director of grounds at the W.S.C., I feel qualified in stating the proposed Leonard Pool is a duplication of the W.S.C. pool in every aspect.

As a taxpayer with an average income and a large family, I feel this increase of $1 per thousand is in effect taxation without representation.

A limitation of 250 families was set by the W.S.C. as a high for its membership because of the physical dimensions of our pool. If all 250 families were present in the pool at one time no one could move. The high bacterial content of the water could not be corrected by the addition of chlorine, let alone be sanctioned by the Board of Health. This is no exaggeration.

There are at least 700 families that belong to private clubs with pools in Winchester. I feel they do not wish to break friendships built over the years of affiliation with their respective clubs to take advantage of a new pool. So how can one say this tax is fair?

In the immediate area of Leonard Pool there are at least 600 families. It goes without saying that all the property owners in Winchester, let alone all the residents, could not be accommodated at this facility. Again, taxation without representation?

Wedge Pond in the central part of town is also in the same predicament as Leonard Pond. Discussed briefly at town meeting it was a foregone conclusion that in the near future an artificial pool would likely have to be built there also. I mention this merely to point out that by approving Leonard Pool construction the town has set a precedent for the property owners in the Wedge Pond area to request and receive a similar financial bequest.

The cost of constructing such a pool would have increased considerably. Less than half the town could be accommodated by these two facilities.

Does the Pool Building Committee realize the cost of maintaining an artificial pool for a season? No mention of this came about at the meeting. At the W.S.C. our figures for yearly maintenance and preparation of the pool range from a low of $3,000 to $5,000.

The walks and entrances to the Leonard Pool from the park have not been figured into the pool costs; nor have the parking facilities and the correction and the fencing of the old pond area. Who pays for this cost?

Has the town made any financial commitments to correcting the pollution problems of Leonard and Wedge Ponds? The town meeting members find no objection in funding pool building committees. Have they considered, by the expenditure of $217,000, they have corrected the ecological and pollution problems of Leonard and Wedge Ponds? Is this area to be left as is so that some wandering child might accidentally fall or injure himself? Will the area become an eyesore? Or is the taxpayer going to be the goat for this fiasco?

In talking with people well qualified to talk on the subject of ecology and the preservation of the landmarks in our community, I was led to believe the town if it wanted to could correct the pollution problem at Leonard Pond for less than $17,000.00.

As the acting chairman of the Pool Building Committee put it, "We are eligible for 50 percent federal aid but this would open the pool and park to the public, in fact the nation." This excuse leads me to believe the committee did not want to get involved with the delays and red tape involved in obtaining federal funding. We know the federal government is funding many millions of dollars to cities and towns for the study and correction of pollution. Yet has the town utilized any of its powers to obtain funding for the correction of the existing conditions at Leonard Pool or Wedge Pond?

When a newly re-elected school committeeman, whom I have long admired for his dedication to the town, can get up before town meeting members and make the statement "the high school pool is unrealistic because the town three years ago felt that it was an unnecessary facility" and in good conscience he could not seek state aid, for the town would be going to the well once too often. Yet this man can turn around and give the nod to the construction of a facility to be used 10 to 12 weeks a year. He told me that no funds would be considered for the girls and boys high school swim teams until June of 1974 because the figures for the athletic budget had already been set. I was only asking $2,500 for seven months of pool time for both swim teams. This man should have his conscience examined.

Statistics:

Leonard Pool, L-shaped, 4,900 square feet, cost to install $120,000, total cost $217,000.

High school pool, 75 x 60 feet, 4,500 square feet, cost to install $140,000, total cost $320,000 (less $208,000 state aid).

The high school's showers and lockers would be accessible to the indoor pool building. The school was built with a pool in mind.

Judging from these figures a fourth grader could determine that the indoor facility would be the better buy. Not so with the town, since they have been brainwashed for the last three years into believing the cost was closer to a million dollars. I formally challenge the town to refute these figures.

I know it sounds easy on paper, but with a little patience, fortitude, a lot of hard work by the town and its committees a high school pool could be a reality.

I first took interest in the pool project when I read in The Star March 15 under the heading "Leonard Pool Gets Nod": "The committee Monday voted to recommend its approval for appropriating funds for reconstruction of Leonard Pool, hoping the $190,000 cost may be offset through a saving this year in the snow and ice budget." My mind started clicking.

I knew there still might be state aid for the high school pool site which could benefit the townspeople twelve months a year as opposed to the Leonard site. Sounded good, so first thing March 16, I called Mr. Larocco, principal of the high school, who confirmed that state aid might be available and recommended I call William Clark, assistant superintendent of schools who could give me more detailed information. Clark got back to me on March 20 and confirmed that state aid was still available in the amount of 65 percent with an expiration date of Nov., 1973.

He emphasized that this aid would have to be applied for an approved by the state under the provisions this would be an instructional building and a necessary teaching aid. I called the architects Brown, Nickerson, Fischer and Todisco, Inc., who designed the high school, and was assured they could compile the specifications and figures for the pool in time for the special town meeting on March 22. Since I have a basic knowledge of pool costs I knew the price was right. My only stumbling block might be state aid.

When the chairman of the Finance Committee said the $3.47 increase in the tax rate reflected the $200,000 for the building of Leonard Pool subject to approval of the town meeting, my mouth dropped and my heart sank in astonishment.

When the moderator opened the special meeting he stated that all comments and responses to the motion "that the Pool Building Committee be granted an additional $8,500 with a firm commitment for an additional $200,000 for the construction of said Pool" be limited and restricted to the Leonard Pool site, all my hopes quickly vanished. It was as if they were all waiting for me — all the angles figured, ready to submarine the Leonard Pool construction by the town meeting members.

I still thought that I might be able to interject my feelings in a commentary on why the town meeting members should vote no on this motion land I did to no avail. The rest is history.

From this letter you might have gotten the impression that I am a little cynical, critical, or embittered. Not true. I am damned outraged to think how my tax dollar is being expended if this is only one example of how misinformed and how gullible the people of this town are.

I have just returned from Sunday mass. Our recessional hymn was truly appropriate for closing:

"Wake up you people and know what it's all about."

Planning Board To Recommend Mid-Rise For Center? More On McManus Mantels

It looks like the Planning Board will be again recommending "mid-rise" apartments for Winchester Center. Chairman Otto E. Schaefer at a session of town meeting the other night discussing purchase of a new fire truck was asked how high the buildings would be.

The town meeting didn't seem to want to buy a new ladder truck with a ladder too short to reach the tops of any new apartment towers. (That would be a case of putting the cart before the house.)

Schaefer said the 100-foot maximum height recommended by the board a year ago last June "is just about out of reach of any standard equipment.... An 82-foot limit would be within the range of the proposed equipment. I'm quite sure our recommendation will be for a building height that can be reached by this equipment."

The proposed equipment has a ladder reach of 100 feet, which because of pitch will reach to the top of an 85-foot building.

The board, by the way, "is in the process of finalizing its recommendations," according to Schaefer. But it doesn't yet have "a formal document to make public." A special town meeting is expected to be called before fall to act on the board's revised zoning by-laws proposal.

The same town meeting session also approved purchase of a rescue truck, an item opposed by firefighter Joseph J. Riga, who urged the members to delay action until they can find out what happened to the study on the truck "supposed to have been made last year." He said the new truck will be smaller than the present one. "The truck today is well equipped and runs as well as it ever did."

That was the second time in a week Riga opposed his boss, Chief I. Francis Amico. At a public hearing at Town Hall Riga remained in the corridor while the chief conducted a hearing into Riga's alleged refusal to work overtime during a manpower shortage.

His attorney appeared in his place and challenged the validity of the hearing on several grounds, one of them that Amico is "of such bias and prejudice toward Riga" that his client wouldn't get a fair hearing.

Chief Amico said it was "ridiculous" to carry on the hearing without Riga and gaveled it to a close. He later said he would consult with town counsel before making a decision. Riga's lawyer, Dominic A. Caronna, said any action would precipitate an appeal to the Civil Service Commission.

Some readers of The Star were curious why high school principal Vincent E. Larocca was wearing the fire chief's coat in a picture in last week's edition showing a group of town officials discussing a traffic problem outside the new high school. The answer: Larocca was cold and Amico lent him the coat.

About Letters...

This page is a forum for readers of The Star to express themselves. Readers who wish to make a point on any subject may write a letter to the editor of The Star, 3 Church st.

Letters should be typed and double spaced Please type on one side of the paper only. Letters must be signed and include the writer's address.

Letters should be as short as possible. If they exceed 250 words in length they will be condensed by the editor.

Copy Deadline

Deadline for news copy in The Winchester Star is 5 p.m. on the Monday preceding publication.

News copy includes letters to the editor, reports on sports, churches, clubs and organizations and other similar stories.

The chief was present when the picture was taken but was cut out of the shot that went into the paper.

Last week's Star carried two pictures on the Aberjona cleanup by Chris Brown (pages 4 and 9), a junior at Winchester High School whose hobby is photography. He does his own developing and printing. His pictures of town activities often appear in The Star.

The continuing mystery of the missing McManus House mantels entered a new chapter last week with this statement by the School Department: "Two fireplace openings were closed with plywood panels because of downdrafts and difficulty in heating.

"Because the projections created a hazard in cramped quarters, it was necessary to remove the shelf of the mantels of three of the fireplaces. None was marble; they were all pine, both as to mantels and trim."

Town meeting member Vincent Carroll, who started the mystery, called the committee statement "a coverup" in response to his recent letter in The Star on the subject and a Star editorial calling for preservation of McManus House.

"They imply the mantelpieces were removed some time back. But interior painting doesn't indicate that. There wouldn't be the distinct outlines of the mantelpieces."

Others The Star talked with insist the mantelpieces were marble, not pine or any other wood. In fact, one caller said the architect who built McManus house also built a house nearby at the same time and that the mantelpieces in that house are marble.

Dr. Phillip J. McManus of 46 Church st., who until 12 years ago lived in the family house at 465 Main st., said this week the fireplaces were never marble, always brick. They were there when he moved out.

The School Department now says the mantels and trim of three of the fireplaces were removed preparatory to its moving in 1966. The mantels and trim of the other two fireplaces were taken out after the School Committee voted to raze the house last fall, it said.

It looks like the Tulsa gasoline station at 972 Main st. won't be reopening for some time. Herbert A. Sostek, vice-president of Gibbs Oil Co. of Revere, which leases the station and is the station's gasoline supplier, returned last week from Texas empty-handed.

He had sought to make a major purchase of gasoline to supply his string of independent filling stations. He said 15 of their stations had to be closed because "of the return on our investment." He sees little likelihood of a breakthrough in domestic supplies and said foreign sources have raised their prices 90 percent in six months, ruling out any purchase abroad.

While vandalism in Winchester doesn't appear to be out of proportion, it is a problem. Erich Fromm had some thoughts on a destruction, which he believed is rooted in an individual's feeling of powerlessness and isolation.

"I can escape the feeling of my own powerlessness in comparison with the world outside myself by destroying it...The destruction of the world is the last, almost deperate attempt to save myself from being crushed by it."

Fromm sees destruction as an alternative to creativeness. "Creation and destruction, love and hate, are not two instincts which exist independently. They are both answers to the same need for transcendence. The will to destroy must rise when the will to create cannot be satisfied."

There is a need, then, for destructive power to be channeled into creative.

Letters To The Editor

Lunch, Money

EDITOR OF THE STAR:

What is the world coming to when a person who does housework for a living like some of my friends is asked to bring her own lunch from home as her employer cannot afford to feed her one meal?

Yet these same people can have two houses, three cars and are always fussing about what they pay the poor souls who are forced to clean their houses for lack of enough income.

No one does housework unless she has to in order to pay current bills. It is darn hard work. I sincerely hope that the families who do this will think twice before they do this again.

About our elderly on fixed incomes: How are they going to pay increases in everything? No wonder they cannot eat properly—no money for food or necessities.

Who are the folks who will get old age housing. Does anyone know? If so, they are keeping it to themselves.

Mr. Jack Moss is trying to put up low income housing on Cambridge st. If he gets the goahead on this, one fourth of his housing will be for the elderly at a low price. This would be great because Star Market is right there for shopping. If they have any money to shop with.

Bird Immigrants

EDITOR OF THE STAR:

Last fall The Star printed a letter of mine in which I commented on the scarcity of bluejays lately in the Winchester area. I asked if anyone knew the reason for that scarcity, and whether it was a local phenomenon or of a more general nature.

Several people called to say that they too had noticed the absence of bluejays from their usual haunts, and some suggested if perhaps an "off season" of acorns could have had anything to do with it. Whatever the reason, the bluejays have left this area.

I miss the bluejays, of course; but lately three recent immigrants to this area are becoming more and more common. The mourning dove, the mocking bird, and the brilliant red cardinal seem to be moving in. At some moment during the day I hear the cardinal's "cheer," "cheer," "cheer," in the treetops above my house.

Lately, too, a southern mocking-bird has taken to perching in the flowering crabapple tree in my backyard. He sits near the top and gives out with his passionate repetitious medley of plagiarized souther melodies.

"Over" and "over" and "over" and "over" he "repeats," "repeats," "repeats," "repeats" whatever note he has stolen from some other avian songwriter. Now and then he drops down to the clothes reel, from which he makes frequent dashes in and out of my matted spruce hedge.

I hope both the cardinal and the mocking bird do take up residence in my hedge — they will be most welcome — but the gloomy mourning doves I can do without. At least, not that close to my bedroom windows.

Auction A Success

EDITOR OF THE STAR:

This year's Lynch Junior High auction was again a huge success. Parents and students at Lynch combined their efforts to collect a great many auctionable items. Many thanks to all of the students who helped collect articles and brought them to the auditorium.

At 7:30 Friday, March 23, the Lynch Auditorium was filled with enthusiastic bidders who kept professional auctioneer Walter Szary busy with active bidding until he called a halt at midnight. The auctionables, together with books, refreshments and bake table netted "in the neighborhood of $1,800."

This money will be used to purchase something of interest to the students at Lynch. The board will allocate the profits from this auction when it gets a definite idea from the students as to what they want and need.

Mrs. Lane McGovern, chairman of this event, and her committee, want to express their gratitude to all who dontated and attended.

WBA Backing Zoning Change For Bonnell Ford

EDITOR OF THE STAR:

At the meeting of the board of directors of the Winchester Business Association on April 3, a resolution was made and passed that the association go on record as opposed to the loss of any more businesses in Winchester, including the Bonnell Ford agency, which represents 48 years of continuous business in the town, for several very practical reasons.

The loss of Bonnell Ford, for instance, would increase the property tax rate and lose potential additional excise taxes (motor vehicle) which directly reduce this tax rate.

To allow a business of this character, quality and longevity to leave the town would, in our opinion, only further accentuate the many problems involved in trying to attract and keep good businesses in the community.

Highway Money Would Increase Under New Plan

Secretary of Transportation Alan Altshuler and Commissioner of Public Works Bruce Campbell have released an analysis of additional state aid localities outside the MBTA district will receive if Governor Francis W. Sargent's local transportation program is approved by the legislature.

Winchester's $22,500 would increase to $28,663.

Altshuler said, "The new local highway aid program is an integral part of the governor's statewide local aid program, which is intended to facilitate the improvement of local street systems and transit service, and to provide every city and town with substantial property tax relief."

Sargent has proposed that the annual level of local highway assistance be increased by $30 million a year, with the entire increase being distributed to communities outside the MBTA district. In addition, the definition of project eligibility has been broadened to permit the use of local highway aid for local street resurfacing, landscaping, sidewalk construction, and other projects that do not involve road widening.

OPEN HOUSE at McManus House recently drew many curious town meeting members wondering if the structure can be renovated for a meeting place for the elderly. Fire Department truck provided auxiliary lighting. (Letter From The Editor comments.)

Kean Flower Design Helps Customers Prepare For Easter

Jack points to custom floral designing as their principal service to customers. When his mother first opened her shop people would bring in containers and specify almost to every detail how they wanted the article decorated. "Things are different now. People have faith in our judgment now," he says. Customers briefly describe what they are looking for and leave the selection "up to us," he adds.

Selections for customers' containers comes from the vast display of flowers, fruits, vegetables, foliage and novelties for sale. They have decorated many kinds of containers including chafing dishes, soup bowls, a snow shoe, a ski, an hibachi for a backyard, and wicker baskets. The shop carries a large selection of crystal and pewter vases and wicker baskets from Medeira, Spain.

Authentic antique milk cans, which the Keans are sold out of at the present time, are

Mrs. Mae Kean and her son Jack, proprietors of Kean Flower Design, are busy preparing for Easter by custom designing permanent floral arrangements and offering flowers, ceramic eggs, fillers for baskets and other novelties from which their customers may choose to create floral decorations.

Mrs. Kean, her husband, George, and their family moved to Glen rd. in 1950. She has been in the retail business in this town for seven years, first in a small shop off Thompson st. and later in larger quarters at 39 Thompson st.

Her son Jack joined her on Sept. 1 in a redecorated store at 16 Mt. Vernon st. where Mrs. Kean says, "We are thrilled with our new location," attributing her enthusiasm to additional space which permits a wider range of merchandise and increased business.

Though much of her business comes from ready-made items created by themselves, popular, says Mrs. Kean. Currently, the most popular flowers are our long-stemmed French silk roses which come in red, yellow and pink.

Many of the featured flowers and other merchandise at Keans' originate from abroad. Besides the roses, the store has tulips from France, flowers from Germany, Italy and the Orient, and a line of pottery from Portugal. They also have a complete line of Colonial candles from Cape Cod and candle accessories.

Kean says their ready-made items cost from $1.59 up to $10 and custom work averages between $5 - $10. There is no labor charge.

Kean also does free estimates for commercial or home decorating. Mrs. Kean says that often a person arranging centerpieces for a club function with a limited budget will seek her advice before making a decision. They also offer what they call rental designs to businesses on a monthly basis. A local bank subscribes to this service to bring a new seasonal arrangement for customers' viewing each month.

Most of the Kean customers come from hearing others speak of their satisfaction. Mrs. Kean says many come from Concord, Lincoln, Sudbury and other distant communities. Concerning distance, she points to one of her floral creations now decorating a home in Saudi Arabia, the present home of a former Winchester resident.

Jack Kean lives on Florence st. with his wife, Joan, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Anthony Vespucci of Harvard st. They have a six-

Needlepoint Topic Of Program To Aid Old Schwamb Mill

The program is open to the public and will be given in the new First and Second Church in Boston, 64 Marlborough st., on April 12 from 9:30 to 3 p.m. A petite luncheon is included, and guests may bring needlepoint problems for discussion. Reservations may be made at the mill.

Mrs. Beinecke and Mrs. Stockley will bring a wealth of experience in needlework crafts to their Boston-area audience. Major projects of their school have been the crewel embroidering of bed hangings and drapery for the historic Jared Coffin House in Nantucket and the creation of correspondence courses in needlework. Mrs. Beinecke has participated with her husband in his Nantucket waterfront restoration project, as well as in the preservation of individual historic houses there. She presently serves on the Massachusetts Council on the Arts and Humanities.

Mrs. Brian D. LaPointe

JoAnne Finneran, Mr. LaPointe Marry In St. Patrick's Church

JoAnne Finneran, daughter of Mrs. Thomas Bourke Finneran of Natick and the late Mr. Finneran, became the bride of Brian David LaPointe of Malden, son of Mr. and Mrs. Alfred S. LaPointe of 16 Pierrepont rd., in a ceremony held on Saturday, Mar. 10, in St. Patrick's Church, Natick.

Officiating at the 2 o'clock service was the Rev. Murray. A reception followed at the Maridor in Framingham.

Given in marriage by her uncle, Edward Finneran of Fort Lauderdale, Fla., the bride wore a candle cream satin gown. The high neckline, long sleeves ending in wide cuffs and hemline were enhanced by borders of braid. Her chapel-length veil was secured by a matching Juliet cap. She carried a bouquet of baby's breath, white tea roses and carnations.

The matron of honor, Mrs. Robert Ouellette of Hampton, N.H., selected a long-sleeved gown of pink crepe with a high neckline. Pink and white roses formed her bouquet.

Daniel Dolan of Norfolk had the honor of best man.

Mrs. Finneran's costume in green matched a bodice with Venetian lace to a pleated floor-length crepe skirt. The mother of the bridegroom chose a gold metallic gown.

The bride received her degree in elementary education in 1970 from Salem State College.

Mr. LaPointe, who studied at St. Gregory College and the University of Massachusetts, currently works in his father's business, Federal Heating, as a salesman.

The couple are residing in Malden.

She holds degrees from Hastings College and the New England Conservatory of Music, and has studied at Union Theological Seminary, New York. She was the recipient of a Fulbright scholarship to study at the Vienna Academy of Music. She is a frequent recitalist in New England.

Johnians Present Music, Art Trip Around The World

Lincoln Auditorium was the scene for a "trip around the world" recently, while an entire student body of elementary aged children enjoyed the combined talents of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Johnian. The program was presentation of art, music and social studies.

Johnian, concert violinist, teacher and director of the Winchester Chamber Music Society, played brief selections introducing different countries around the world, while Mrs. Johnian, artist and lecturer, presented the warmth and charm of various countires.

At the end of the program each child was invited to view art displayed at the front of the auditorium. This art form represented hours of research, and depicted in detail, architecture, customs, land features, and portraits of individual races. The paintings were done on hand-sculptured forms, and told a story in color.

Johnian's music, representative of the nations in the exhibit, introduced light, clear music of Austria's Mozart, dark sombre music of Russia, traditional folk music typical of Appalachia, delicate sounds from Thailand, and gay fiesta music of Mexico.

Mrs. Johnian's lecture included original poetry written specifically for the children and little known but interesting facts about life in some of the smaller countries. Throughout her words carried an overall theme that a rich cultural heritage belongs to all people through the unique differences that exist among cultures.

The program was made possible through Lincoln's Enrichment Program, and represents the combined efforts of staff and parents.

Macdonald Accuses Nixon For Playing Russian Roulette

The education revenue sharing bill proposed by the President will cost the Town of Winchester an estimated $58,000 in impacted area aid, according to Congressman Torbert H. Macdonald, who called the elimination of the impact aid program "another instance of pulling the rug out from under the cities."

The special revenue sharing bill is intended to replace a large number of categorical aid programs, but there is nothing in the legislation which guarantees that a community will receive the same level of funds it has received in the past.

Macdonald said that he could not imagine local school systems being able to exist under "a cloud of uncertainty" for the next year waiting to see how much federal aid would be forthcoming under special revenue sharing.

"Someone is willing to play 'Russian roulette' with our children's education to suggest that present programs simply be eliminated before workable replacements have been enacted," Macdonald said.

"I, for one, would not blame local officials for refusing to take such a dangerous gamble," the Congressman added.

Continuing Care Unit Offers Program For Care Of Elderly

A new program, developed by Winchester Hospital for people caring for elderly parents or relatives will be offered at the hospital's Continuing Care Unit, 223 Swanton st., beginning Thursday, April 26 at 7:30 p.m.

The "Community Education Program on Aging," first of its kind in the area, is a pilot program to determine the degree of interest in this type of education on the part of community residents.

The first four sessions will be held on successive Thursdays, beginning April 26, from 7:30 -9:30 p.m., with the fifth and final session on Thursday, June 7.

Individual sessions will be devoted to in-depth discussions on particular problems related to caring for the elderly:

—Physiological and emotional factors in the process of aging;

—Philosophical aspects of being an elderly person;

—Multiple disciplines used in the care of the elderly: occupational, physical and speech therapies and counselling. (Provision will be made at this session for specific questions from the audience to be answered by technicians and specialists in the field of geriatrics.)

—Levels of care provided by nursing homes and other health care institutions where the elderly are patients;

—Attitudes regarding death and dying.

The program content, while related specifically to the aging, will provide information to those who are caring for stroke victims, diabetics or cardiac invalids.

Guest speakers will include Dr. Gustav G. Kaufmann of the Winchester Hospital medical staff, Dr. George J. Goldin, director of the Rehabilitation Research Institute at Northeastern University; Dr. Bennett S. Gurian, senior psychiatrist and director of geriatrics, Massachusetts Mental Health Center, Massachusetts Department of Mental Health; Dr. Ned H. Cassem, S.J., clinical instructor in psychiatry at Harvard Medical School.

Registration will be limited and must be made in advance by calling Mrs. McGowan at the Continuing Care Unit, Tel. 729-9000, Ext. 351 or 352 from 9-5 Monday through Friday, April 12-April 24.

Twomey Accepted For West Point

Congressman Torbert H. Macdonald recently announced that his principal nominee to the United States Military Academy, Andrew Bernard Twomey, son of Mr. and Mrs. John A. Twomey of 10 Prospect st., has been accepted for admission to West Point.

Young Twomey, an honor student at Winchester High School, is manager of the school radio station, president of the Winchester Young Republican Club, business manager of the school newspaper, a member of the student council, state board of education advisory council, school committee advisory board and served as junior class president. In sports he played hockey and soccer.

Macdonald said Twomey won his nomination on the basis of the high score he achieved in the qualifying examination held for service academy candidates.

Chadwick Opposes Wyzanski Resolve

Rep. Harrison Chadwick (R-Winchester) voted in favor of a recent bill that would have reduced the fiscal autonomy of school committees by allowing cities and towns to delete new expenditures or item increases in school budgets by a four-fifths vote.

The vote was a tie and the bill lost.

Chadwick voted against a resolution urging U.S. District Court Judge Charles E. Wyzanski to retire. The House passed the resolution on a 111-85 vote.

The resolution was filed after Wyzanski said he felt blacks and other minority persons who failed a Civil Service examination should be placed at the top of the list.

Chadwick supported a bill requiring the Division of Motorboats to forward a list of motorboats, snowmobiles and other recreational vehicles to each city and town annually.

Purpose of the legislation is to aid communities in collecting taxes on the vehicles. The motion was to substitute the bill for a committee report that the bill ought not to pass. The bill passed, 113-107.

Chadwick was not recorded as voting on an amendment to a bill allowing the purchase of annuities for lottery prizes. The amendment requires that contracts for the purchase of annuities be awarded the lowest responsible bidder.

The amendment passed, as did the bill, in the House.

IT PAYS TO REHABILITATE

It pays to rehabilitate the handicapped and disadvantaged. For every dollar spent on rehabilitation, at Morgan Memorial Goodwill Industries, $35 is returned to the community in tax dollars. Rather than take money for welfare and V.A. benefits off tax rolls, the worker employed at Morgan Memorial Goodwill industries returns over a thousand dollars to the community in taxes and goods purchased.

Plant Sale For En Ka Fair Set

En Ka's Sunshine Fair will be held this year on May 18 and 19 at the Town Hall parking lot.

As a pre-fair project, and in time for Easter gifts, the annual plant sale will be held on Tuesday, April 17, at Mahoney's Rocky Ledge Farm from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m.

Mrs. George Gowdy and Mrs. Warren Carley, co-chairmen of the garden booth, will offer hundreds of flowers and plants for sale, a percentage of which enables En Ka to help Winchester charities.

Coffee will be served. This annual event, the kickoff for the 1973 Sunshine Fair, affords a way to obtain Easter posies as well as helping En Ka's townwide projects.

East Egg Hunt Being Planned

West Side Field will be the site of Winchester's first Easter egg hunt on Saturday, April 21. Beginning at 1 p.m. children in kindergarten through grade 2 may go to West Side Field and search for the hidden eggs. Planning the event, Operation Easter, are Linda Cowles, Jane Williams, Dawn Heidson, John Bennick, Suzanne Friou, Denise Redmond, Levy Darwin, Judy Dayton, Lou Willard and Vicky Hanes.

Getting Ready

Preparing for EnKa Fair are organizers with girl scouts from Troop 725. The girls made these posters which will be on display around town. (Photo by Eric Weiss)

K
Who Can Tell The Future ?

We may not be able to predict the future, but we can do certain things to prevent problems from cropping up at a later date.

For example, if you're going to make an important investment such as buying life insurance you consult a professional. He can guide you towards buying the right plan because he knows your particular needs, and will only recommend what will be best for you.

The same is true of furnishings for the home, especially rugs or carpeting. Will the carpet you select be easy to live with for many years? Will it give you the service you expect? Who knows?

We do! You've heard us say many times that we not only sell rugs and carpeting, we service them. This experience, we feel, gives us a distinct advantage.

We don't sell carpeting just for the sake of making a sale . . . if we did, we wouldn't make the statement, "Our Reputation is your guarantee!"

Like the professional who sells insurance, we want you to be happy with what we recommend.

It's 'Play Ball' During Vacation

By John F. Parrell

More than six weeks have passed since the last formal sports events for the Winchester teams. Although the weather man was kind by not having any appreciable snow, there has been a great deal of cloudy, rainy and dismal weather which has served to keep the athletes indoors.

However, there has been some opportunity for practice games by both the baseball and lacrosse teams, and the coaches are pretty well decided on their starting lineups.

Coach Bill Colella's baseball nine has had informal games with Malden, Chelsea and Revere of the Greater Boston League and with Andover Academy.

The Sachems have a promising team, which figures to be in the running for the top berth in the Middlesex League. It is largely a junior group, but there are several sophomores fighting for starting berths.

All home games will be played at Manchester Field. The schedule opens with 2 p.m. games at Watertown on Monday and at Burlington on Friday. Sandwiched between these will be a Wednesday game at home with the Belmont Marauders. Coach Vandy French will again be on the bench for the junior varsity nine.

Although the playing surface at Leonard Field has been none too favorable, Coach Gene Bouley and his assistant, Dave Berman, have been working their large lacrosse squad as much as possible. The Sachem stickmen were finalists in the state tourney in 1970 and state champions in 1971.

Last year they missed out on statewide play because their last win over Medford came too late. This year's slate, a busy one, pits them against top rated teams in both high school and prep school ranks. St. Mark's will play here next Wednesday at 3:30 p.m., and Framingham South will be here Saturday starting at 10 a.m.

With the playing field track still not ready for use, Coach Manny Marshall's tracksters face the glum prospect of competing on their opponents' tracks for the entire season. This year has produced the largest turnout of candidates in several seasons, and prospects are brighter, with more boys available for the 14-event program.

In the one practice meet with Wellesley, there were some good performances. They open at Belmont on Wednesday of next week and then go to Melrose on Saturday. Both meets are listed for 10 a.m.

The boys' tennis team will be coached this year by George Hillier, and the new mentor will take his charges to play Newton South next Monday. There will be both varsity and JV competition.

More than any other sport, the golfers of Coach Joe Aversa have been handicapped by the weather, since the Winchester Country Club course has been too soggy to be used. However, they hope to be ready for their first match with the Woburn Tanners, carded for a week from Monday on the local layout.

Action for the girls' teams will wait for an April 26 starting date. On that day they will play hostess to the Watertown Raiderettes with Mrs. Jan Collins directing the tennis team, while the softballers will be headed by Joan Rosazza.

Expert In Karate Shows Techniques

Classes at Northeast Metropolitan Regional High School had a change of pace recently when the practice of karate was introduced to students by Richard A. Byrne, who has a black belt in Korean karate.

Korean karate is considered one of the deadliest forms of unarmed combat.

While serving in the Air Force in Korea, Byrne took up karate as a hobby. Eventually it became part of his life.

Byrne has karate clubs in Medford and Wakefield where he teaches self devense.

He demonstrated karate techniques, including one-step punches, hand attacks, one-step kicks, front kicks and free fighting. In freefighting, also called street fighting, all parts of the body are used as a weapon, he said.

Demonstrating a one-step kick recently at Northeast Metropolitan Regional High School is karate instructor Richard A. Byrne, a specialist in Korean karate.

He then placed a two-inch slab of concrete on cement blocks and with his hand chopped it in two. He used the same technique on a 4 by 6 inch board.

Byrne explained, after finishing breaking boards with his head, hands and feet, that all motions used in karate are either turning or snaping motions.

The demonstration was sponsored by the school's department of physical education and athletics, directed by Edward White.

Spring Soccer Begins, 3 Teams Here

The Boston Area Youth Soccer League which began with nine teams in 1969, will kick off this Saturday with 94 teams entered. Winchester has three teams in this league: Celtics with boys under age 13; Beacons for boys under 15; and the Astros with boys under 17.

These three teams open their 10-game schedule at home this weekend at MacDonald Field. The "C" and "B" teams will play on Saturdays and the "A" team will play on Sundays. The remainder of their schedule will alternate with away and home games to June 17.

On Saturday at 2:15 the Celtics, coached by George Miller and Francesco Castellapo will face Wellesley II. At 3:30 the Beacons, coached by Arpad vonLazar, Sean O'Riordan and Brian Flanagan will host Foxboro.

On Sunday at 1:30 the Astros, coached by John Duffy and Delip Bokil, will play Needham II.

The Astros have been sponsored by St. Mary's C.Y.O. Also contributing to the financial support of Winchester Youth Soccer were: Bonnell Motors, EnKa Society, Fitzgerald Fuel, Mahoney's Rocky Ledge Farm, Multiple Listing Realtors of Winchester, Rotary Club, Smyly Buick, Winchester National Bank, Winchester Trust Co., and Charles Hammel of Cleveland former youth soccer coach.

Cap League Sets Registration Dates

Application blanks and instructions for the 1973 season of the Winchester Cap League are now available at the Winchester Sport Shop.

Pre season registration will end at 5 p.m. Friday, April 27. Final registration will be on opening day, Sunday, April 29; in case of rain, Saturday, May 5.

Any Winchester boy seven years old before August 1 and who will not have become 11 years old before August 1, and does not play for any other organized baseball team, is eligible for Cap League baseball.

As in past years, all eligible boys properly registered will be accepted, and, as established last year, assigned to a team by the director. Every boy will play in every game he attends. Details of team assignments are outlined in the "Information for 1973 Season" form accompnaying application blanks, which also includes additional information.

Returning Cap Leaguers whose applications have been received by the April 27 deadline will play for the same teams as they did last season. New boys in Cap League who have applied before opening day will have been assigned to teams before then and can expect minimal delay in reaching their teams.

Boys registering on opening day, even if returning from last season, may experience considerable delay in getting to the fields, and may be assigned to any team in the league, regardless of the team they were on last year.

Applications after opening day will be received only by special request to the league director. Acceptance cannot be guaranteed.

League games will again this year be played on Saturday and Sunday afternoons, from 1 p.m. until the completion of the games, beginning May 5 and continuing until the completion of the seven league and three game schedule. Rained out games will be played at the end of the regular schedule, if possible, but no games will be scheduled after the schools close.

Three From WHS Play U.Mass Ball

Mike Gilberti, Bill Wolfe and his brother Bob are among 160 candidates engaging in three weeks of spring football at the University of Massachusetts in Amherst, preparing for next fall's Yankee Conference schedule.

After a spectacular freshman campaign, Bob appers to be the prime condidate to fill Coach MacPherson's fullback slot. Bob was an All-American fullback in 1971 for Winchester High School.

Returning to the football scene is Bob's older brother Bill and Mike Gilberti, both all-scholastic teammates on Coach Manny Marshall's 1968 squad which gave Winchester its first 9-0 record in more than a decade. Bill, a tight end, and Mike, a flanker, are expected to see action next fall.

U. Mass., defending Yankee Conference champs for the past two seasons, won the Boardwalk Bowl last season. The Team is looking for another strong showing this fall.

Austin Baseball

Blackhawks Break Slump, Win 6-2

The previously winless Blackhawks broke out of their slump and blasted the Redwings, the League leaders, 6-2 recently in St. Eulalia's Pee Wee hockey.

Thursday evening the same teams fought to a tie in a game that kept the fans on their toes. With 15 seconds left to play, Blaise Grozier popped in the tying goal to finish the score 3-3. This was accomplished by outstanding goal tending by Blakhawk goalies Scott Grady and Dave Guarnaccia and Redwing goalies Danny Finch and Jim Judge. That same evening the North Stars belted the Bruins 8-4.

Large Play In American Contract Bridge Tourney

By Bridgette

Despite the unseasonably slippery roads, two good sections were in play at the American Contract Bridge League charity tournament for the Benefit of United Cerebral Palsy in Winchester recently.

Overall winners were Jim Lee and Steve Linehan with Guy Mingolelli and Bob Haskell right on their heels in second place. In Section A Frank Lombardo and William Banks were the top scorers North-South while Dick Sullivan and Carl Galante Jr. were in first place East-West.

North-South

Dr. Frank Lombardo and Capt. William Banks, 99½
M[illegible]. and Mrs. Joseph Salani, 96
Mary Lou Clabby and Virginia Ward, 91
D[illegible] and Mrs. Robert Blackler, 86

East-West

Richard Sullivan and Carl Galante Jr., 100½
Natalie Koujoumjian and Ruth Flanigan, 95
Stephen Haseltine and Clarence Woodward, 93½
Anne Galpin and Madalyn Walworth, 88½

Section B saw the overall winners in first place North-South; in the East-West direction the regular but relatively recent partnership of Ann Oppenheimer and Cathy Alexander garnered the most points to win, comfortably ahead of the field.

North-South

James Lee and Stephen Linehan, 92½
Guy Mingolelli and Robert Haskell, 90½
Nancy Atkinson and David Miller, 79½
Marge Jones and Wilma Baglione, 78½

Ann Oppenheimer and Cathy Alexander, 75
Mike and Paul Portanova, 69½
M[illegible]. and Mrs. William Frey, 69
M[illegible]. and Mrs. Darrell Root, 68½
Lou and Frank Gonsalves, 67½
Rose Hickey and Lillian Sheridan, 65

Board 9 from Section B (North-South vulnerable, East the dealer, and the hand rotated for convenience) gave South a problem on his opening bid. East having passed. What's your choice?

NORTH
D - A K 6

WEST
S - Q 7
H - A K Q 8
D - 9 8 7 4 3 2
C - 4

EAST
S - 9 8 3
H - J 10 6 4 3
C - Q

SOUTH
H -
D - Q
C - A J 10 8 7 6 3 2

The problem, as with most bids, is how to let your partner know what's in your hand. The South at one table rejected a 3C bid as showing too weak a hand, decided against a 4C bid because the club suit wasn't solid enough, and finally settled on 5C, promising an eight-card suit and a loss of not more than 500 points, losing four tricks vulnerable.

West doubled, North passed and East bid 5H. Then after passes from South and West, North made the final call of 6C.

And looking at all four hands, you can see that South takes all the tricks, his two spade losers going on the Ace and King of diamonds.

It's not an easy hand to reach slam on, however, with only 25 high-card points.

In actual play, just two North-Souths played the hand in slam, this pair in 6C, the other in 7S, guessing the finesse correctly.

District Champ

Bitzer Dexter of 10 Warren st. won the outstanding swimmer award of the New England YMCA swimming championships recently.

Victor in the girls' 11 and 12 50-yard breaststroke, she is the reigning district champion in the event.

All Winchester Winners In Mixed-Up Tournament

Marie and Dick Furr repeated their triumph of two weeks ago when both emerged, for the second consecutive time, as winners of a mixed-up doubles Tennis Tourney at the Winchester Indoor Lawn Tennis Center on Saturday.

A husband and wife team winning the tourney is unusual but when the same team wins it twice in a row, it is truly defying the statistics.

Sharing winner's honors with Dick Furr was Paul McIsaac, also of Winchester who matched Dick point-wise and consequently was declared a co-winner of the tournament's men section.

According to John Koslowski, president of the Winchester Indoor Lawn Tennis Center, players in this type of tournament play for five one-half hour periods, with a different partner and different opponents and use the Vass system for scoring. Koslowski said this is what makes the winning of a husband and wife team unusual, to say nothing of the fact that the Furrs' managed to do it two weeks in a row."

The final mixed-up doubles tournament of the season will be held April 21. Following this event the patrons of the Winchester Indoor Lawn Tennis Center will prepare for their end of the season tournament and dinner dance.

Senior League Tryouts Slated

Senior league tryouts for all boys ages 13-15 have been scheduled for Saturday and Sunday April 14 and 15th. American senior league tryouts covering precincts 1, 2 and 3 will be held at Manchester Field. National senior league tryouts covering precincts 4, 5 and 6 will be conducted at MacDonald Field Saturday April 14 from 9 to noon and Sunday April 15th from 1 to 4 p.m. If rained out, tryouts will be held on April 21 from 9 to noon. All candidates must attend at least one tryout session.

Tryout were held last weekend for major and minor leagues. Players have been selected by the managers and candidates will be notified this week as to which teams they are on.

Opening day games for Little League this season are April 25, major league; April 28, minor league; and May 5, senior league.

Murphy's Record: 12 Goals, 11 Assists

Winchester's Richard Murphy scored 12 goals and has 17 assists on the University of Pennsylvania's freshman hockey team this past winter. Penn won eight of 17 frosh outings.

Murphy saved his biggest game for last. In the seasonal roundup he had five goals and three assists against the Baltimore Junior Clippers. Murphy enjoyed a late season scoring surge. He had eight goals and 12 assists in the last four games of the season.

Murphy attended Winchester High School, where he competed in hockey as the club co-captain and in lacrosse as an All-American goalie and club co-captain. Murphy's frehman statistics at Penn enabled him to score at a rate of a little less than two points a game for his initial try at hockey on the college level.

Diabetic Mother Delivers Twins Despite High Risk

By Pauline Dishmon

Three newborn babies carried by mothers having high risk potential for successful delivery were born at Symmes Hospital, Arlington, the last two days of March.

In the words of attending physician Dr. Vincent E. Colozzi, chief of the division of obstetrics and gynecology at Symmes, the triumph allays the "big cry" of some that "community hospitals are unable to provide expertise" in situations requiring immediate decision and action at precisely the right time and follow-through of medical care through professional talent and sophisticated equipment.

On March 30, Mrs. Samuel Sahagian of Billerica, formerly of Arlington, who previously was unsuccessful in five attempts to deliver a child, gave birth to a son, Kirk Gregory.

And on March 31, twin daughters, Stacey and Stephanie, were born to 23-year-old Mrs. Stephen Dunn of 13 Oak st., Winchester, a diabetic since age 14.

Dr. Colozzi describes some of the reasons that might produce a high risk pregnancy: habitaul premature deliveries, habitual aborting due to Rh factor, heart trouble in the mother, congenital disorders in the uterus, and diabetes.

Mrs. Sahagian, 39, had a congenital disorder. She was born with two small wombs rather than one womb large enough to hold and sustain a full-term fetus. Eight years ago, after aborting four times, twice carrying the baby through to six months, Mrs. Sahagian discovered she was again pregnant. She went to see Dr. Colozzi for help.

"He told me from the beginning that I would lose the baby but we had to let nature take its course," Mrs. Sahagian recalls.

She did lose the child and later, after consultation with Dr. Colozzi and discovering the congenital disorder, Mrs. Sahagian submitted to surgery. Dr. Colozzi attempted to combine the two smaller wombs and build one larger unit.

After surgery the X-ray didn't look good, Dr. Colozzi recalls. "I was not pleased with the surgery results and urged Mrs. Sahagian not to become pregnant again."

At this point the Sahagians discussed alternatives. Wanting children, they decided to adopt. Karen Marie, now nine years old, became their first child. A few years later, they adopted Cheryl Ann, now 6½.

Still practicing birth control through the rhythm method, Mrs. Sahagian says she talked with her husband about adopting a son a few years ago. They both liked the idea but decided not to add to the family, and instead to devote their time, finances and energies to bringing up the girls.

So when she became pregnant last year she was "really surprised" and apprehensive about the whole matter. Now the Sahagians and their daughters are delighted with the new baby and feel "God sent them their boy."

In Mrs. Sahagian's case, Dr. Colozzi says, "the corrective work done eight years ago gave the mother an additional month to carry her child, who was delivered at seven months by Cesarean section. The earlier operation made the successful birth possible." It was a wait and see kind of situation, he related, adding how pleased he is with the results.

In Mrs. Dunn's case, Dr. Colozzi and other staff physicians were kept busy at intervals throughout her pregnancy.

She had to be hospitalized three times for about 10 days each during the pregnancy, once due to diabetic coma and another time because of swelling in her legs which could have led to toxemia.

Dr. Colozzi explains when a mother has diabetes fetal mortality is high; often death occurs intra-uterine due to respiratory problems. When a diabetic mother becomes pregnant her metabolic set-up gets off balance and diabetic coma can result. Dr. Colozzi and Mrs. Dunn credit Dr. David W. Khoury for bringing her metabolic network into balance each time an emergency arose.

The doctors planned to hospitalize Mrs. Dunn about 10 days prior to delivery, but after 36 hours in hospital she bagan labor. Stacey was born at 6:51 a.m.; Stephanie at 6:53 a.m. Mrs. Dunn knew about two weeks beforehand she would deliver twins.

The crucial decision in the Dunn situation appears to have been in answering the question "when to perform the Cesarean section surgery for the babies' births." If surgery is too soon, respiratory problems and death can result. Likewise, if too late the baby can die intra-uterine.

The doctor tells about specialized tests to check a baby's development at all stages during pregnancy of the mother. One such test is to draw fluid from the amniotic sac to measure hormones and determine maturity of the unborn child. In days past at Symmes and other community hospitals such testing was done by specialists who came from the large city. Then there was a waiting period before results were received.

Today, at Symmes and many other community hospitals, testing and results can be finalized by staff on the premises routinely.

At Symmes a team of 13 therapists under Dr. Stephen R. Fish, chief of the department of pulmonary diseases, conducts testing for blood gases, amniocentesis, LS ratio and other factors not only for pre-natal situations but for patients having asthma, emphysema and coronary conditions.

After delivery of the Dunn children by Dr. Leonard Dress, an associate of Dr. Colozzi, Dr. Alfred Weller, pediatrician on staff at Symmes, took over the care of the infants. The combination of care by the pediatrician and the nursing staff completes the team effort of professional expertise given all patients," Dr. Colozzi says.

Mrs. Sahagian understands she could have gone to a larger city hospital for delivery of her child, but she chose Symmes because she knew she would receive personalized care from people she had come to trust and know through the years. The fact that Symmes has up-to-date services is a bonus, Mrs. Sahagin feels.

Mrs. Dunn likewise realizes she could have taken advice of friends and gone to a Boston hospital specializing in diabetic maternity situations, but her trust in Dr. Colozzi carried through to trust in the hospital he chose and the team of medical people he would provide.

Both women were released from the hospital last Saturday. Mrs. Sahagin took her little boy home to her husband and two daughters.

Mrs. Dunn and Stacey, now four pounds and 11 ounces, went home to their husband and father. They will return to the hospital this week to check out Stephanie who weighs only four pounds, two ounces, and remained in the hospital. This way Stephanie has an opportunity to gain while "Mother has an opportunity to practice being a mother," Dr. Colozzi remarks.

Grandparents of the twins are Mr. and Mrs. Robert G. Dunn of 9 Plymouth rd. and Mr. and Mrs. E. Leonard Woods of 120 Wildwood st., all of Winchester. The Sahagians' grandparents live in Orange and Gardner.

Mrs. Stephen Dunn of Winchester holds newborns Stacey and Stephanie, born at Symmes Hospital. Asked which is which, she replied, "I don't know." Mother and children are fine despite difficult pregnancy.

Insurance Co. Reports Gains

The American Mutual Insurance Companies report gains in assets and policyholder surplus in 1972.

President R. Earl Roberson said assets rose to $337-million, a $20.6-million increase over 1971, and the highest level in American Mutual's 85-year history. Net written Workmen's Compensation premiums were $93-million, up .3 percent over 1971. Total new written permiums for the year were $219.4-million, off 1 percent from 1971. An addition of $2.6-million was made to policyholder surplus.

Kadesch Victor

Philip Kadesch of 15 Mayflower rd., a freshman at the University of Wisconsin, is on the school tennis team, which won its eighth straight victory recently.

The Badgers swept all six singles matches with Kadesch winning the featured No. 1 singles in three sets over Alex Parsons, 6-1, 5-7 and 6-4.

Blackhawks Win

The Blackhawks took a big step toward a first place finish by belting the North Stars 11-2 in retaliation for a previous 8-1 loss in recent St. Eulalia's bantam hockey play.

The Blackhawks had good passing and fast skating on all three lines, catching the North Stars off guard.

Wednesday night action had the league-leading Redwings going against the North Stars, who also played Monday. Although the Wings came out on top 4-2 the game was much closer, and the final outcome was not decided until late in the third period as Mike O'Riordan assisted by Peter Broderick put in the actual winning goal with 5:46 left to the final buzzer.

Protection At Wedgemere, Condition Of Ponds Aired

Topics discussed at a recent meeting of the Winchester Environmental Protection Assocation were conditions at Winchester's two train stations and the status of the town's ponds.

Special guests were Lt. John P. McHugh of the Winchester Police; Edward Murphy, assistant superintendent of the Winchester Highway Department, Frank Finegan, science director of Winchester public schools; and Michael Saraco, director of the Board of Health.

McHugh explained that the train stations were misused most in the late afternoon hours, with activities that ranged from breaking benches and windows to "romances."

Murphy commented that as many as 18 light bulbs needed replacement in one day at a station, and that metal baskets to protect the bulbs were soon demolished. Extremely aberrant behaviour, for example, assaults on two local women at the Wedgemere station, was discussed. Saraco commented that the MDC owned the largest portion of the Wedgemere station parking lot. Were the MDC to grant Winchester use of the property so that parking fees could be collected, Saraco said, then salary for a patrolman could be paid from the fees and more safety to the public assured.

Mrs. Lenore Frazier, co-chairman, will notify the selectmen that W.E.P.A. will present a citizen request for cooperation to the MDC and asked Mrs. Ann Oppenheimer to prepare such a letter.

William Burrows indicated that Forum, the youth group at the First Congregational Church, planned to repaint the waiting room at Wedgemere station.

Kenneth Trevett will consult Richard Murphy, owner of the Winchester station, about plans to have a program against littering at that station, which would include police patrol, provision of litter baskets and reminder signs.

Finegan offered to request assistance from the school's art department in making up the signs.

The question of survival of Winter Ponds and Wedge Pond were raised by residents of those areas. The need for student and adult education in the matter of the future of Winchester's water was stressed by several present.

Mrs. Frazier asked that Finegan request the School Department to find students in mechanical arts or biology to construct a model of "underground Winchester." Such a model would show sewers and storm sewer linkage to the ponds and Aberjona River. It would show spongy wetland areas in town and the location of wells. Such a model would education not only students, but town meeting members as water-related issues arose, Mrs. Frazier said.

Saraco stated to the students present that in their life-time there will be no more chronic or pressing issue than the future of their water supplies. He described the falling water table here and elsewhere and said Wedge Pond already has problems due to drainage into the pond.

Another W.E.P.A. meeting will be devoted to the development of this topic. The next meeting will concern Arbor Day, recycling, clean-ups and plans for the future.

Parent-Faculty To Hear Psychologist

Parents of junior and senior high school students may attend the annual meeting of the Winchester High School Parent-Faculty Association on Wednesday evening, April 25, in the cafeteria of the new high school.

Alice Palubinskas, professor of psychology at Tufts University, will be the featured speaker. Her topic will be "The Behavior Characteristics of Teenagers."

Dr. Palubinskas, a resident of Winchester for many years, has a special interest in young people. She earned her B.A. degree from Salem State Teachers College, her M.A. from the Harvard Graduate School of Education, and her Ph.D. from Iowa State University.

There will be an opportunity for parents to ask questions at the close of her talk.

Attendance Strong --Officially

Town meeting attendance remains strong -- officially at least -- as the annual meeting continues in its fourth week. (It would be five weeks if the cancelled first session were counted.).

The last two sessions showed relatively few official absences by members. But at Monday's session there was a large number of empty seats, indicating members signed in and then left at some point in the evening.

In the following list, members who didn't sign in are listed. A "T" beside a member's name indicates he was absent from last Thursday's session; an "M" from Monday of this week.

Pro-Life Group Sets Up Offices

Winchester residents recently attended a meeting of citizens forming a Woburn chapter of the Massachusetts Citizens for life, an anti-abortion organization.

The organizational meeting at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Hassett set up offices and duties. Chapter chairman Richard Allen of Woburn stated: "The preservation of human life is the fundamental need and duty of every citizen. When they know the facts concerning abortion on demand, they will realize the nature of the planned destruction of our society."

Decor 'n Design

No room seems quite complete without a touch of loving green....You do not need a green thumb to tend a few philodendrons....Cut flowers and leafy branches add a fresh note to any decorating scheme...Dried arrangements can be decorative too, provided they are not kept around so long that they become no more than dreary dust collectors...To make flower arrangments to suit different settings, you need containers of different sizes and shapes ... some high, some low, some with wide and others with narrow mouths....Old stone crocks, tankards, and beer mugs will serve for some...Earthenware jam pots and glass jelly jars can be colored with leftover from your other painting jobs to make attractive small vases....
The Steamatic method - a completely new revolutionary system of carpet cleaning - is the most advanced method for the treatment and removal of stains due to smoke and water damage. No brushes or scrubbing - instead a controlled jet of superheated hot water is injected and then extracted in one easy operation. Carpets get cleaner and stay cleaner longer reducing cleaning frequency and adding years of carpet life. Be 100 percent safe - be economical - clean with Steamatic. a plain clothes officer spends much of his time in that area trying to prevent breaks and robberies.

"After midnight, the area is patrolled by two patrol cars. An officer is assigned to check buildings by hand during each night shift."

In a related matter, the selectmen voted to request recommendations from the chief and town counsel on a citizen's request for adoption of a bylaw against public drinking.

They appointed Edward P. Murphy a firefighter to fill a vacancy created by the resignation of John C. McLeod. The 23-year-old Winchester High School graduate lives at 47 Lake st.

In another matter, the board took no action on the response of County Cmsr. S. Lester Ralph's letter on the board's refusal to pay the town's Middlesex County Hospital assessment. The board wants to know why the assessment has risen.

Ralph said the assessment was for 1972 "when the previous commissioners were in office. I am not certain that the hospital will be able to turn around its financial situation even this vear but I assure you that we are watching the situation closely."

Ralph said he was forwarding the board's letter to the hospital director for a longer response.

Paul F. Amico, chairman of the selectmen, commented facetiously on Ralph's letter: "He's learning." Meanwhile, the town continues to accumulate interest charges on its debt.

Sullivan said the last time the board refused to pay the hospital bill each member was threatened with legal action.

Without discussion the board reappointed Frederick D. Herberich as a member of the Board of Appeal. Herberich, the chairman, had asked to be reappointed. There were four other requests for appointment to the position.

The board will consider those four for appointment as associate members of the board. ((Associate members are back-ups in the absence of the regular members of the three-man board.)

comes from Capt. McElhinney "when in fact it is the preference of the chief";

—The Board of Selectmen is the real appointing authority for firefighters and it should have conducted the hearing;

—The chief "is of such bias and prejudice toward Joseph J. Riga that he is required by law to disqualify himself" because that prevents Riga from having a fair hearing;

—"Furthermore, the bias and prejudice referred to above is particularly evidenced by a certain violation of the rights of appeal of Private Riga in a previous matter involving a one-day suspension alleged to have been made illegally by the said chief wherein said right of appeal was refused Private Riga under circumstances which by themselves demand that the chief disqualify himself, assuming only, and without agreeing, again, that he is the appointing authority."

Coronna said he hoped there would be "no telephone calls to the Civil Service Commission" to frustrate the case.

be no increase in the number of firefighters, a condition which the Finance Committee made contingent on their favorable recommendation. Lawrence T. Smith, chairman of that committee, also said that the old truck should be used at any future time only if the new one should be under repair.

In opposition to the purchase at this time due to its addition to the tax rate, Precinct 5's Richard L. Sampson said he heard favorable comments from firefighters on the present ladder. He added that it did not break down unpredictably, and that in such instances the town was part of a mutual aid program.

The rescue truck, termed a "pretty good buy" at an estimated $18,000 and possible federal assistance, was approved despite efforts to postpone purchase of the vehicle for another year.

Dunbar, noting that the present truck is 19-years-old and has traveled 16,000 miles, said the federal government may contribute $9,000 to its purchase after the town pays for it. The present vehicle has "very little trade-in value."

Equipment on the present rescue truck, which is used for rescue and service work, will be transfered to the new rescue truck. Smith of the Finance Committee, who was aware that the department's rescue truck has cost $1,800 over the last three years in repairs, agreed that "the time is now," financially.

Joseph J. Riga, TMM from Precinct 6 and a firefighter with the local department, urged TMMs to call for the report on the rescue truck authorized at the 1972 annual town meeting when purchase of a truck had also been proposed and defeated. After digesting this information the body could again consider the truck next year, he stated.

In his presentation Riga suggested that local firefighters were satisfied with the present truck and pointed out that the proposed vehicle would be smaller than the truck bought 19 years ago and would require the transfer of old equipment to a new chassis and the winch from the fire alarm truck to the rescue.

TMMs subsequently approved the purchase on a voice vote.

Susan D. Coronis of 29 Vine st. has received dean's list honors for the fall semester at Drew University in Madison, N. J.

left and Allen points with pride that the fence hardly has a mark on it. Hedging around the school's flagpole was another student project.

Though they are pleased with the performance of pupils, they recognize there are areas of concern. Ms. Corcoran says that "naughty words" occasionally appear on walls, but she supposes that this is something that has been going on for centuries and will continue as long as man exists.

She recalls a few years ago that picture windows in the nurse's room were destroyed by vandals, and early this year Allen says that office files containing lunch program money were jimmied with cash stolen. In each situation the way the work was done by older students.

Allen reports that about a year ago all doors at Parkhurst were replaced because the doors were faulty and it was too easy to enter the building when locked.

Clark says that Winchester's schools have alarm systems which are tied into the public address systems and linked to the police department

WHS Curriculum Changes Approved

The Winchester School Committee approved certain scheduling changes for high school students at their meeting Monday night, all primarily outgrowths of a discussion on the MAXED (formerly open campus) program.

The number of credits necessary for graduation was increased from 90 to 100, and will take effect in 1973-1974 beginning with the sophomore class. Students will also be allowed some latitude in their choice of course within an academic area, which is an effort to "free up" such scheduling while not lessening the number of academic credits required per year.

At a previous session the committee had agreed to continue the practice of double periods for certain courses. This form of programming has undergone a trial run this academic year.

These points are the suggestions of WHS Principal Vincent E. Larocco. He has also made a request that MAXED offerings carry credits toward graduation. Such offerings in the planning include service with the Winchester Hospital and one to be conducted by the police department.

These considerations were an extenion of business taken up at a recent School Committee meeting.

At that session the committee voiced its ... thanks to John Blanchard and Richard B. Lawrence who have served as advisors to the student radio station, WHSR. Since receiving a license the station has been praised for its broadcasts of the Town Meeting.

The tower was moved this year to Sanborn House so that reception in all parts of town could be improved. Its former location at the new high school, where the studio remains, made reception difficult in some sections of town last year. Students and advisors were praised for the cost cutting procedures of which they have taken advantage.

The School Committee will get together with the Recreation Committee and the Tennis Association for further consideration of a tennis program at the junior high schools.

Superintendent of Schools William C. MacDonald listed two alternatives for the program, that the Tennis Assn. provide a coach and sponsor the activity through the schools, or that the $200 offered by the Tennis Assn. might be used to provide tennis at this level on an intramural basis. The current intramural rate is $8 per session.

MacDonald favors the first idea. He feels that sports programs at the junior high level are so shaky that any funds or attention should be directed to bolstering existing activities.

The superintendent also informed his audience that 96 pupils have elected the Italian course which is being offered in response to a student petition. It will cost an estimated $7500 and require three-fifths of a teacher.

Under personnel matters resignations were accepted. Leaving the system are Mrs. Jill S. Lehv, McCall Junior High School languages Mrs. Cherie M. Whitney, McCall home economics, and Mrs. Ellen S. Cummings, Noonan School grade 1, all effective June 19, and Michael S. Porter, Lynch Junior High School science, effective immediately.

A request for a maternity leave of absence from July, 1973 to August, 1974 was granted to Mrs. Elizabeth Sheeran, coordinator of libraries. Appointment of Pamela G. Canney as assistant softball coach at the Senior High School at a stipened of $380 was also made.

The low bidder, G R. Nowell and Sons, was accepted for a rubbish removal contract at Mystic School. The sum will be over the $9000 budgetted.

Young Democrats To Elect Offices

A meeting of the Young Democrats of Winchester will be held this Sunday, April 15, at the home of Karen Sullivan, 8 Hill st.

On the agenda for the meeting is the drawing up of a charter, to be submitted to the state organization for approval, and the election of officers for the Winchester group.

The first meeting held on April 1 showed interest in this newly formed club. The chartering members of the club discussed their goals and objectives and discussed plans for money raising activities to be held within the next couple of months.

The meting is open to all interested Democrats.

ATOMS Holds Fashion Show

The Mystic Valley ATOMS will hold a fashion show during its monthly social tonight at 8 p.m. at the K of C Hall on Bedford st. in Lexington.

Clothing will be modeled and purchased. Part of the proceeds will benefit ATOMS. Refreshments will be served. All MS'ers and friends are invited.

SAVE THOSE BAGS

After the groceries are unpacked, the paper shopping bag is disposable. That's the procedure in most households. At Morgan Memorial Goodwill Industries, there's a daily need for paper bags in the Goodwill Thrift Stores. Recycled paperbags cut costs of operations in the normal routine of the Goodwill Stores. Community groups interested in a recycling project are urged to help Goodwill by collecting paper bags.

Real Estate Today

BEWARE OF SECOND MORTGAGES

By and large second mortgages should be approached with the caution reserved for a King Cobra. Both VA and FHA turn thumbs down on them with their loans because they usually carry higher interest charges and must be repaid in a short period of time such as five years. That can put an intolerable financial burden on the buyer since it must be repaid at the same time he's paying off the first mortgage.

If a house has a mortgage that is pretty well paid off there won't be much debt left for the buyer to assume. Either the buyer takes out a new mortgage or puts up much of the selling price in cash if he assumes the old loan.

If he can't raise the cash, he may ask the seller to take a second mortgage in lieu of cash. Before the seller consents, he should make darn sure that the buyer can handle two mortgages at once.

If you have any questions on this subject or on any other aspect of Real Estate, please feel free to call or drop in at JAMES T. TREFREY, INC., REALTORS, 27 Waterfield Road, Winchester - Tel. 729-6100.

Lesson-Sermon

"For the law of the Spirit of life in Christ Jesus hath made me free from the law of sin and death." (ROMANS 8:2)

The lesson-sermon for this Sunday at First Church of Christ, Scientist, Winchester includes the following which gives us a clue to attaining such freedom. Mary Baker Eddy writes in "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," "To hold yourself superior to sin, because God made you superior to it and governs man, is true wisdom. ...To hold yourself superior to sickness and death is equally....To fear them is impossible, when you fully apprehend God and know that they are no part of His creation."

Jaycee-ettes Review Projects

The March meeting of the Winchester Jaycee-ettes was held at the home of Mrs. Ronald Milauskas with Mrs. Benjamin Brunell presiding. During the business meeting reports were given on completed projects: March of Dimes captains, progressive supper, ABC House, Council on Aging survey interviews, and Fernald School dance.

Projects in progress were then discussed. The Babysitters' School is in its third week with 37 registrants. The Winchester Jaycees will again organize the Massachusetts Special Olympics in June and Mrs. John Malloy will be the Jayceeette chairman. She and her committee will aid the Jaycees in the many preparations for the events and in working on the days of the events.

In the area of new business the chapter plans to help at a nursing home and aid the Winchester Environmental Protection Association Clean-up, and a committee is planning for Healthy Baby Week.

Following the business meeting members and their guests enjoyed a wine-tasting party conducted by Mrs. Richard Sayre with a concentration on American wines.

Roll up your sleeve to save a life...

Sturbridge Trip Planned In April By Dorie Dames

The Doric Dames are making a trip to the Sturbridge Museum on Tuesday, April 24, to observe the guide program there, and to learn more about the ways of life in Massachusetts during the post-Revolutionary period. Founding-director Mrs. Francis C. Welch of Salem, who serves as chairman of the historical research committee, proposed the idea.

A bus has been chartered, leaving the Boston Common garage at 9:30 and stopping at Riverside. Luncheon will be at the museum. The group will return to Boston at 3:30.

Vice president Mrs. Edward F. Logan of Cohasset has sent a questionnaire to the Dames asking about their interests in further trips to historic points of interest. The two trips which the Dames have made to Washington for tours of the White House and the State Departments' functions rooms (both tours conducted by Clement Conger) have made the group conscious of the need to observe and learn from such experiences.

Among those making reservations is Mrs. Philip J. Woodward of Winchester.

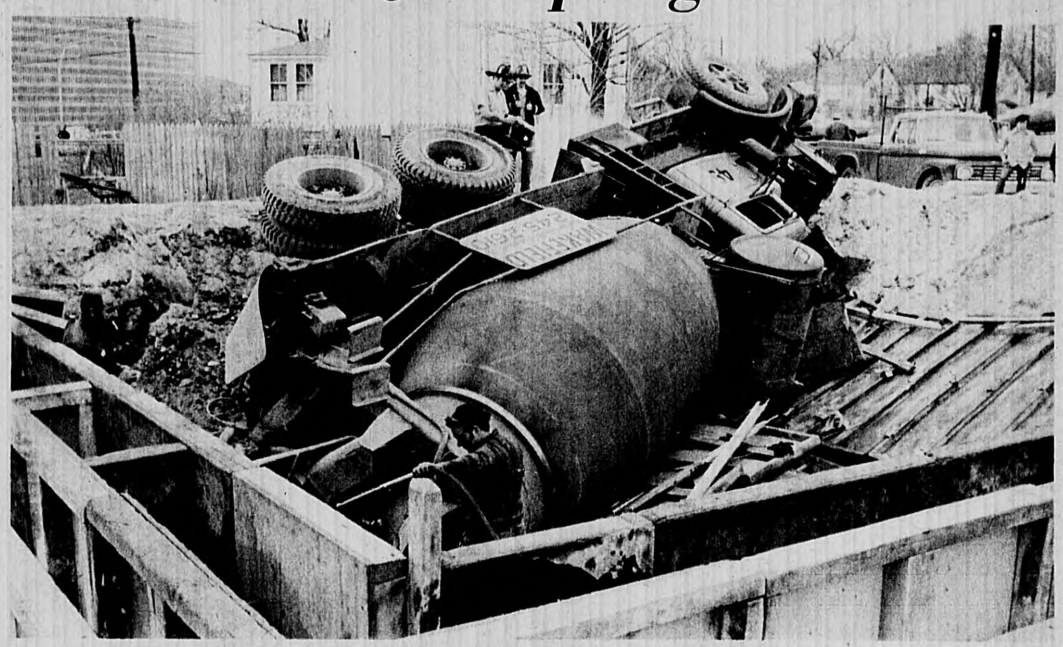
Is It All Just Spring Fever?



Over ...

A Week When Everything's Out Of Place

By Arthur MacDonnell

Maybe it was the soul disturbing warm weather, or coincidence (if there is such a thing) or just the editor's strange way of looking at events.

But the last few days in Winchester seem to have turned up (turned over?) an odd number of reversals. For instance, there was the cement truck up on White street that turned over Tuesday. Property of Wakefield Ready-Mixed Concrete Co. (of Wakefield), the truck was pouring cement into a foundation of ahouse when the earth gave way and the truck yielded to the inevitable and tumbled into what eventually will be the house cellar.

The stunned driver crawled out with a bump on his head. Asked what had happened, he told The Star: "I don't know." Chances are he had an idea.

The there was Joseph Masterson, 36, of Boston, who fell off the roof of the Winchester Theater on Monday. He was routinely going about his job of repairing the roof when he stumbled and landed two stories down — on his feet. He stretched out on the ground to catch his breath while the police came. He remains at Winchester Hospital in good condition.

Boston-bound rail commuters Tuesday and Wednesday morning came upon a very strange sight. There at the up-ramp at Winchester station were two persons sitting in an open-air livingroom, nodding to passersby, alternately reading the newspaper and chatting between themselves.

They sat on comfortable chairs between an end table and a lamp. A huge Oriental rug framed this anomalous tableau. Posters at their feet proclaimed their intention: "Would you litter your livingroom?"

... Down

Joseph Masterson repairing roof of Winchester Theater Monday fell off his ladder but landed on his feet. He is at Winchester Hospital. (Photo by Eric Weiss)

It was none other than the Winchester Environmental Protection Association in another of its attempts to spark citizen interest in doing something about the filth around us.

Lenore Frazier, co-chairman of WEPA, says she was originally a shy person but environmental deterioration has changed her. Karen Sullivan, her companion these two mornings, thinks it's a lot of fun. Besides, she feels she may do some good.

It has been a week of seeing people not being where you would expect them. The students weren't in school (vacation week), Board of Health director Michael Saraco missed the opening of trout season in many years because the opening was pushed ahead a week and he had already scheduled the dog rabies clinic, and the town meeting has been in recess.

It has been a great week. Let's have more like it.

Dollar Goes Down

No one denies the value of the dollar is going down, down, down.

Wednesday noon on Church street spectators got a visible demonstration of this financial fact of life.

A dollar bill was seen flying through the air. As it floated down a man called it to the attention of Officer Jaspar R. Asaro, whose official fiscal duties are normally confined to pennies and dimes. He's in charge of parking meters.

Asaro chased the dollar bill down the street and when it hit the ground stopped the traffic to retrieve it. He must have thought it was a $100 bill.

Anyway, it's now in the possession of The Star. Who does it belong to? The serial number begins G875063. The person who can give the correct final digits will get the bill.

Comptroller Charges Illegal Action By Two Departments

"What is wrong?"

This question by the town comptroller, who oversees budgetary practices, echoed through town meeting Thursday as members attempted to grapple with charges of "alienation between town boards," illegal appropriations, fiscal irresponsibility and a call for the resignation of the selectmen chairman.

The immediate issue was whether the meeting should appropriate money to cover unpaid bills by two town departments - Water-Sewer and Highway. The meeting did vote this money to cover the overexpenditures by the departments.

The meeting also passed appropriations of $12,425 for lighting of the Packer tennis courts on Palmer street, $24,000 for lighting at Ginn Field; again tabled the school lunch budget; and gave the Cemetery Commission authority to repurchase unused lots.

The action on the overexpended accounts in Highway and Water-Sewer came after a verbal blast from Comptroller James J. Costello

Costello said he had received from Highway a purchase order for a hydraulic unit for only $12 less than the required $500 minimum. Anything over $500 needs a specific town meeting appropriation.

Moreover, he stated that he received a purchase order for one unit at $482, $12 less than the $500 minimum on capital equipment which requires a town meeting vote, simultaneously with three invoices for three units late in January of this year. There was no date and no vendor given on the Highway Department's order.

An expenditure of more funds than appropriated is a crime or statutory violation, he said. "The merits of the matter have never been discussed with the comptroller," he said. The Highway budget is controlled by the selectmen.

Paul F. Amico, chairman of the Board of Selectmen, said the funds request was due to the purchase of three hydraulic systems at $482 per unit during 1972, systems needed to operate three underbody scrapers approved for snow and ice at last year's town meeting. The scrapers proved to be "mere ornaments" without the power to move them. Therefore, the purchases were made by the Highway Department.

Since the hydraulic systems are capital equipment, Amico recommended that they be paid for from a carry over in the Snow and Ice budget.

TMMS were apparently impressed by the innocence of the vendor and by the town's "financial reputation." Facing a 4-5ths approval requirement, a vote of 136 yes and seven no was turned in despite the fact that Town Counsel Leonard J. Mullen Jr. advised TMMs that the vendor could not collect if the appropriation were defeated.

Costello arose to supplement Amico's comments because "his facts come from the source who is the cause of the problem."

When TMM Clarence S. Borggaard suggested, "If there is no implication of bad faith, the town should own up to its responsibilities," Costello said he had made no such implication. There was, instead, a statutory violation, he said.

The Finance Committee stated that without condoning the situation, it urged favorable action on the request. Smith said that if the town meeting did not approve funds, the hydraulic units should be dismantled and a moral commitment to return the goods met.

Shortly before a call for a vote TMM William R. Zettler of Precinct 4 asked fellow members to "recognize gross stupidity" and "incompetence" and urged an early resignation by Amico. A chorus of "no's" and the moderator's out-of-order ruling killed the motion. The chairman's term of office with the Board of Selectmen, which has jurisdiction over the Highway and Snow and Ice budgets, expires at the end of town meeting.

The favorable vote followed.

According to Water and Sewer Board Chairman Ernest A. Phillips Jr., overexpenditures of $5,414 were incurred in automotive, water pipes and fittings and public safety line items. Blamed for the situation was an eight percent cut by the Finance Committee from its 1972 budget and unexpected project work arising during the River street paving and Cross street - USA rink construction.

Correspondence between the Water and Sewer Board and Finance Committee while expenses were mounting were explained by both parties, an interchange which Finance Committee Chairman Lawrence T. Smith admitted "maybe alientated" his group.

Phillip pointed out that his department had notified the Fin[illegible]ody of an impending problem in Ma[illegible]ed for an earmark of funds in Octobe[illegible] and a funds transfer in November. Smith stated that his committee "did not get adequate information to make a transfer from the reserve fund," an account which it controls. "Improper procedures" in the conduct of the matter were also cited.

While noting that "the bills in and of themselves are not challenged," Smith said the Finance Committee would have to be "consistent" after not granting reserve funds, and so not support a favorable vote on the issue.

Selectmen Chairman Amico recommended the TMMS "uphold the town's financial reputation," agreeing that the expenses were valid and that the vendors were innocent bystanders and had delivered goods and services as contracted. He admitted that Water and Sewer was wrong in not requesting emergency funds from the Finance Committee.

Meanwhile, Precinct 3's TMM Borggaard wondered if TMMs had not originally been misled by the Finance Committee when it

St. Mary's Wins Fight, School Staff Recruited, Fall Registration Begins

St. Mary's School will remain open, according to an announcement made Sunday at the masses in the church.

"We're extremely delighted," said Richard Mueller of the parish council. "We feel St. Mary's has something to offer to Winchester. We've been successful."

The success the council chairman referred to is the effort to keep the school open and to keep it staffed with Catholic sisters.

Beginning next fall, the school will operate "under the auspices of an intercommunity group of sisters." The council has recruited sisters from different religious communities in the Greater Boston area.

The decision to remain open was made last week by Rev. James Garrity, St. Mary's pastor. Though Rev. Garrity is now receiving medical observation at St. Elizabeth's Hospital, a spokesman for the church said diocesan approval has been received.

St. Mary's is the third parochial school in the Archdiocese to receive approval to continue operating despite the withdrawal of the Sisters of St. Joseph from 24 schools.

The Sisters of St. Joseph announced in December its intention to withdraw from the schools by 1975 because of an inability to staff the institutions. St. Joseph's is the largest and oldest teaching order in the Archdiocese.

Unlike the other two schools that are remaining open — St. Paul's in Hingham and St. Ambrose in Dorchester — St. Mary's will not be staffed by lay personnel.

Registration for the fall is underway at St. Mary's. Mueller said the council is "hopeful we will have the same number of students as this year — 230." The school hopes to continue in operation "for many years," a spokesman said.

A parish survey indicated "overwhelming" support to keep the school open. The only other two religious schools in Winchester, Immaculate Conception and Marycliff Academy, closed in recent years.

Mueller said the principal of the re-staffed St. Mary's will be a sister.

The following is a statement on registration issued by the school:

"Registration for St. Mary's School will take place on Tuesday, April 24, from 9 to 11 a.m. in the school hall.

"To be eligible for grade one a child must be six years of age by Dec. 31, 1973. A certificate of vaccination and immunizations required by law must be brought at the time of registration.

"Baptismal records of children not baptized at St. Mary's should be brought at this time. St. Mary's School has open enrollment."

Long-Serving TMM Feels Manager Form Pointless

By Ann Landau

"I don't remember exactly when I was elected but I was attending in 1921 when the town meeting included everyone," recalls Jeremiah J. McCarron of 35 White st.

McCarron is familiar to followers of the town meeting as the gentleman who offers the motion to adjourn at the close of each session and usually right at 11 p.m.

"I was only turned down three times in 10 years," he told The Star. Asked how he came to have this function at town meeting he explained, "Oh, I just took it on. It seemed that people wanted to end at a reasonable hour because many of them had to go to work the next day.

"I just wish we could come up with a way to get things started on time."

McCarron was elected from Precinct 6 in 1929 when the present representative town meeting form was established. From his vantage point, speaking at town meeting ought not to be limited. However, he feels it is up to the moderator to keep the discussion in hand.

Delays in discussion he blames on people asking silly questions. "college educated people who ought to know better."

"Of course, if they don't do their homework, Arthur will do it for them," McCarron laughed as he referred to TMM Arthur J. Hewis Jr., Pct. 1.

Another problem is the lack of continuity on town committees caused by residents moving in and out of town. While he admitted that new residents do indeed seem to care about the town, "they are gone in four or five years."

McCarron also commented on the Winchester Finance Committee having a vote for each member of the committee. "In 25 percent of the towns I know of the finance committee has one vote. If the members have been elected on their own from their precincts then they have an individual vote." He felt this was significant because despite the best efforts the finance committee could not be geographically representative. Their votes could give added unelected weight to certain parts of town.

Preferring to be known as "Jerry" to his friends, McCarron related to The Star his long-standing interest in town affairs and that of his father before him after he came from Ireland and was employed in a local tannery.

McCarron himself worked in the tanneries as a youth and for the telephone company as a sales manager. Now retired, he has been president of the Telephone Pioneers Club for the past two years.

"When I first started out in telephone sales, that meant going door to door selling telephones to people. I figured if I made 35 calls I'd make a sale," he said. Asked what people's reaction was to door to door phone sales he answered, "Oh, most people wanted it but said they couldn't afford it." That was back in 1932.

In those days it cost $4 per month for a one-party line, $3.25 for two, and $2.75 for a four-party line. Later he had M.I.T., the State House, and Filene's as customers. Their phone bills were a little larger.

As for the town meeting over the years, he comments, "There's not enough joviality. Everyone is so serious."

His wife, Gertrude, added that there used to be a little more humor during the long budget sessions. She also said that she believed she and her husband were one of the first man and wife town meeting members. Although she is no longer a member herself she supports her husband's interest staunchly.

"Jerry is a very conscientious person. He'll say what he wants to say at the town meeting but of course he would not hurt anyone. His first interest is the town."

Other areas that concern McCarron are the use of outside experts and the sectionalism which affects discussion of town-wide issues.

"Of course my definition of an expert is an ordinary guy away from home," McCarron stated with a grin.

He feels that the sectional interests involved in any proposed new zoning by-law foreclose getting the two-thirds vote required for approval. For his own part, he opposes

75-Cent Capsules Could Be Fatal

A warning aginst the purchase or use of unprocessed phenobarbitol taken in a break earlier this month from the Lyne Laboratories in East Woburn has been issued by Winchester Chief of Police Edward F. Bowler.

The drug, a barbituate used as a sedative, but fatal if coupled with alcohol, has already led to nine cases of drug overdose in Woburn and Stoneham since this weekend. The victims thus far have been junior and senior high school students.

The break in which 40 pounds of the pink capsules were removed from the laboratories is being investigated by area police. Only two or three pounds have been recovered at this point. The capsules are reported to contain doses 10 times the amount given by prescription.

Of the two cases reported of overdose in Woburn and the seven in Stoneham, only one Stoneham girl is on the danger list. Local police are concerned about the proximity of the cases and urge youths to pass up the capsules which are said to be selling for 75 cents each.

For Fire Safety Check Electricity

Don't wait for a shock or a flash of flame to inspect a home for electrical hazards--when these things happen, it could be too late for both a resident and his house. This is the warning from Fire Chief I. Francis Amico as he urges everyone in Winchester to include a check of the home electrical situation on the spring clean-up schedule.

According to the National Fire Protection Association, says the chief, electrical defects are the third most frequent cause of the fires which destroy or damage as estimated 50,000 homes in the United States each year.

Here are some important checkpoints listed by Amico:

1. Frayed insulation and loose connections on lamp, appliance and extension cords are danger signals. Repairing--like taping over frayed insulation, for example--is risky. Replace the cord and be safe. Check not only the cords that are in the open, but also those under sofas and behind beds and bureaus where a fault can go undetected.

2. Cords under rugs are fire-inviters. Traffic and vacuuming over the spot will wear and fray cord insulation to the breakdown point. Take immediate steps to correct this situation if it exists in your home. Find another and safer way to reach the outlet, or better still have a qualified electrician install a new outlet to serve this lamp or appliance.

3. Rigging extension cords over nails and hooks in the basement, attic or garage, or tacking them along baseboards anywhere in the house, is a hazardous practice. Also, any continuous use of extension cords is a poor and risky substitute for permanent wiring. The solution is to bring the electric service in the home up to the modern standards of the National Electrical Code.

4. For a final electrical safety job, check out the fuse box in the basement. Get rid of the burned-out fuses, and make sure only 15 amp. fuses are being used, except on special circuits designed for heavier loads.

Committee Offers Elementary Lunch Program Options

As Winchester school administrators grope their way toward the mandatory elementary cold lunch program, the present trial program is providing some experience. At a recent meeting of the Winchester School Committee some options regarding its operation were proposed.

The four options revolve around various combinations of session length, a half or one full hour, and the elimination or retention of a supervised recreation period. Each option allows a parent to have his child report home for lunch if desired. One plan, proposed by Committeeman Stephen R. Parkhurst, would make one-hour long sessions with recreation during the spring and fall and one-half hour without recreation during winter.

These options will be presented to the principals' association and their opinions submitted to committeemen at a future meeting. Superintendent of Schools William C. MacDonald said that two things were known, that the recreation session as it exists now would have to be revised, and that an option for parents who wished to have their children come home at noon should always be provided.

The reversing trend in the cold lunch program participation for the last period was noted. With an 80 percent return at that time, 55 percent have decided to go home. The committee congratulated itself on predicting this reversal.

Elementary school principals will be consulted for their ideas on student conferences at this level. Progress reports on pupils will be made at three to four week intervals. Specialists will sit in on conferences if needed, and team conferences will be held at parents' requests, even if an extra session is necessary. Better notification of parents is planned.

When committeeman Parkhurst suggested that a second conference in March for those other than pupils receiving remedial services may not be necessary, Noonan Principal Paula Y. Caffrey stated that it was very valuable. It is an opportunity, she said, for teachers to explain report cards which parents often misread.

Regarding traffic problems at Winchester High School, MacDonald reported that signs warning of the $50 fine had been erected at the semi-circular driveway and that a chain had been placed at one end of Nelson street. Rocks are still to be installed on either side of the chain in further efforts to prevent persons from driving up on the lawn and around this obstruction.

W. Howard Niblock, director of pupil services, received the committee's sanction to submit requests for learning disability and kindergarten screening grants.

The first grant is a renewal request for the learning disabilities class now at the Ambrose School. The refunding would be for an additional year and involve no school department money. If the grant is not extended, Niblock warned, the committee will have to find some means of funding the class itself.

The second grant, covering special education needs for pre-school children, would be an innovation to this system, but also an extension of the pre-school screening program already conducted by volunteers. The current program merely attempts to identify children with speech, hearing, vision or gross coordination defects. The grant, if approved, would establish a summer pilot program.

Each request is for $13,000. Progress reports are anticipated for May or June.

The School Committee has contacted some Winchester Hospital staffers of its interest in a medical advisory committee proposed by hospital personnel. The committee is visualized as an in-service first aid and health education body.

While some concern over legal liability was expressed and the schools' role in students' medical condition was expressed, Mrs. Harriet H. Dieterich, who attended a proposal session with Mrs. Mary A. Mears, stated that it was only to be a no fee, advisory group. The school medical officer, Dr. William D. Barone, and a representative from the Winchester Visiting Nurse Association were suggested for this committee.

Recommendation was also received from WHS Principal Vincent E. Laroceo that the starting time for graduation exercises this June be moved up to 2 or 2:30 p.m. The purpose of this move would be to allow participants the opportunity of "beating" summer rains.

The earlier hour would allow seating arrangements to be relocated from an outdoor area to the gymnasium at the high school. Committeemen were assured that the sound and air circulation systems had been improved since last June's ceremonies when rain had necessitated moving indoors.

WEPA Spring Offensive Aims: Litter, Seeding

The Winchester Environmental Protection Association has launched its spring offensive with an extensive, town-wide, education effort intended to reach every age group.

Throughout April a series of programs has been planned by WEPA co-chairmen Leonore Frazier and John Moore and their committee to point up protection and preservation to the environment. They expect to reach every age from kindergarten level to adults with programs and displays on recycling, anti-littering, and seeding and nurture of trees and plants.

The major part of the activity will take place in the elementary schools with the distribution of pamphlets, film showings and the planting of trees to educate school children on the care of their environment.

A monthly newsletter on recycling called "Bric-A-Brac," with "Bert the Bower Bird," written and edited by Phyllis Knopf, will be distributed regularly to all third and fourth graders.

In addition each classroom library will receive a "Litter Fact Booklet," and a "Solid Waste Fact Booklet." Each child will also receive and fill out a litter fact sheet called "This Is My Town, This Is How I Care For It."

All fifth graders in town will receive a booklet on "Trees" donated by Boston Edison. Sixth grade pupils will be given a publication on "Plants and Environment" in comic book form.

Films, slide talks and other educational entertainment to be presented at schools upon request include a puppet show for K - 3 on litter, recycling and arbor day. This will be shown by the Girl Scouts of Troop 468 working for the green thumb badge under the direction of Lucille Grassi.

The Arnold Arboretum has provided a color film for grades 4 - 6 and University of Massachusetts Field Service will present a slide talk entitled "Color It Green With Trees" for grades 3 - 6.

A film of local boy scouts cleaning up the Aberjona River this year is also available. The film shows some of the 33 truck-loads of debris, including mud-covered shopping carts and old tires fished from the river.

Almost all elementary school spring offensive programs include school yard cleanups by children. Also included will be the presentation of Austrian pine seedlings to all fourth graders to plant at their homes. The seedlings will be donated by the Winchester Home and Garden Club.

The culmination of the elementary school month-long program will be an Arbor Day program on April 27. Each school will plan its own observance. Some will plant trees donated by Mahoney's Rocky Ledge Farm. The entire school program is under the direction of Betsy Pickup.

Adult community participation in the spring offensive includes the donation of litter baskets by the Muraco School Parents' Association for their school grounds.

Parents' associations of the other schools have been asked to assess the need for baskets in school yards, and to contribute them if they can.

Other litter basket donations this spring have come from the Crawford Memorial United Methodist Church, the Baptist Church, the Winchester Garden Club and Star Stationery Shop.

Twenty-five merchants, not approached before, have each been asked to donate a basket this spring to add to the 30 baskets given by merchants, banks and churches last fall. Anyone wishing to donate money for litter baskets may contribute to the litter basket account at the Winchester Cooperative Bank.

The case against littering the environment will be emphasized to adults by rush-hour tableaus at both Winchester railroad stations. Mock living rooms will be set up at the foot of the ramps with signs asking commuters, "Would you litter your livingroom?"

All signs and art work will be created by the art department of the Winchester Schools under the direction of Thomas Tracy. General coordination of the station displays will be done by Ken Trevett.

Winchester Voter

Changing The Center

(The "Winchester Voter" is a series written by the League of Women Voters to acquaint readers with town voting practices and issues.)

If you could wave a magic wand, how would you change Winchester Center? Would you want it to resemble Newbury street or perhaps the Burlington Mall? Would you consider a thematic idea such as colonial or Victorian? Or utilitarian?

Do you feel that a local governing body should have authority to regulate the appearance of buildings, additions and signs? Or do you opt for free form, unplanned development with no controls on visual effect?

Town meeting members will have an opportunity to examine these questions when Article 27 comes up for a vote. Presented by the Planning Board and approved by the Finance Committee, the article seeks "to establish a committee to review, study and make recommendations concerning the creation of a design and architectural review commission."

Such a study group would seek to find out what is needed in the center and whether such a commission would be a step forward in reversing the downward spiral of retail trade.

Mrs. Nancy Dressler, president of the Winchester Business Association, who has spearheaded attempts to revitalize the center, points to the attractive retail core located on the winding Aberjona and the Mill Pond mixed with attractive shopping streets and interesting and varied architecture. But many concerned people, despite the underlying design of classic suburban serenity, notice the litter, the vacancies, the unplanned sign designs and the hodge-podge visual image.

James Olivier, president of the Winchester Trust and former WBA president, told the Board of Selectmen last spring, "The basic interest of business people is to create more traffic, better accessibility and better facilities. There are retail dollars available. It is a question of attracting them. What does the town want this place to look like or be?"

That is what the proposed committee would study. Would an improved appearance attract more and diverse retail businesses to the center for a more varied merchandise offering? Would enforceable design controls have an effect over a period of time that would draw more shoppers to the center? Or will the major portion of Winchester's dollars be spent elsewhere?

Many civic and business groups have been making proposals for improving the center for several years. The ideas have ranged from the concept plan, the Oppenheimer Plan to visionary ideas (plexiglas domed shopping mall) and practical suggestions (litter clean up, improved parking).

The concern with appearance has been repeated along with suggestions for control or guidelines. In the concept plan proposed by consultants for the Planning Board in 1971, a voluntary center design committee is proposed. The Winchester Ad Hoc Committee, appointed by the selectmen, suggested last fall tighter architectural and sign design control.

The proposed design review committee if approved by town meeting would gather information and proposals, review model laws establishing such groups, and present their report to town meeting in the spring of 1974. Town meeting would decide by a two-thirds vote whether to accept a design commission.

Together with new zoning proposals to be offered to the town in the next few months, Winchester residents will be presented with opportunities to decide on future directions in growth, use and appearance of their community.

Winchester's Past

Imagination More Essential Than Good Eyesight For Viewing Middlesex Canal

By Clarence Borggaard

Whoever aspires to glimpse the old Middlesex Canal as it winds northward through Winchester will find a lively imagination more essential than a pair of glasses, or even 20-20 vision.

Anyone who has lived in this town any length of time has driven over the old canal hundreds of times and has crossed it in one place or another a thousand times or more. Roughly, it cut the town in two, on a line running north and south. Nevertheless, I find there are many residents who don't know of its existence.

Some of the vestiges of its presence remain. By linking them one can still trace the canal's ancient course from Haymarket Square in Boston to the Merrimac River near the North Chelmsford-Lowell line.

But there are no boats in it, no ducks swimming, not even water as it crosses Winchester. We are 120 years too late for boats, ducks and water.

There are, instead, a stone boundary marker, a monumnet, a row of ancient trees—sometimes a double row of ancient trees, with a fence in the middle to mark the boundary of property that once abutted the canal. Now and then there is a banking of earth, a trench in back of a row of houses, a street in a certain location.

Driving south toward Medford on the "scenic route" to Boston, the so-called Mystic Valley Parkway is at the base of the point of land that juts out into the lake just beyond the bathing beach at Sandy Beach. The parkway at this point was laid out directly over the bed of the old canal.

Across the road, on the eastern side, between the railroad and the parkway, a banking of earth runs parallel as the parkway goes on toward Medford. The top of this banking seems to maintain a constant level as it goes along.

This banking was presumably the eastern side wall and tow-path of the old canal. The bottom of the canal, as well as the western side wall, have been covered up by the parkway itself.

At a point about 100 feet or so along the top of the banking toward Medford, it should be possible to locate a granite marker a foot square and four or five feet tall, sticking up among the shrubs and bushes. This marker bears on its western face the numeral "7," on its southern face the letter "M" and on its northern face "W."

This "W" was an afterthought of some kind. It appears that something had been carved into the stone before the "W" was cut and the stone mason rubbed it out with a few strokes of his chisel and then carved in the "W." This stone, incidentally, marks the boundary between Medford and Winchester. It probably was not there originally because it would have interfered with the tow ropes and there was no Winchester in those days. The town, known as "Black Horse Village," was part of Woburn. What does the "7" mean? The monument is nearer six, than seven, miles from Charlestown.

At Sandy Beach, on the left of the parkway heading toward Winchester, a sort of paved road leads in behind the bath-house and beach. A large granite boulder with a large lettered bronze plaque was erected to mark the site of the old canal and bears the legend, "Site of the Middlesex Canal - which was constructed from Lowell to Charlestown in the years between 1795 and 1803 and was discontinued in 1851. After crossing Aberjona Creek it ran along the east side of Mystic Pond where its bed and banks have been covered since 1897 by the road of the Mystic Valley Parkway."

Beyond this tablet along the roadway the contours and outlines of the old canal are apparent. The paved road runs between gravel bankings until the walls and road are cut off by the channel of the present upper Mystic Lake.

These bankings are all that is left of the old retaining walls and tow paths of the canal.

The parking area was not always there, nor was the playground either. For that matter neither was the little pond visible to those passing on canal boats. In fact, not even the larger Upper Mystic Lake was in existence at the time of the canal. It was not until the City of Boston, in 1863, erected a dam at the site of the present Medford Boat Club for use as a reservoir that the present lake came into existence. The "lake" was a puddle near where the dam now stands.

The area occupied by the small pond, the playground and the parking lot was then a shallow swampy flooded area dredged out in the thirties in order to deepen the pond, and use the dredge material to make land. All of it was once a meadow belonging to the early Symmes estate and used by the Symmes' for hay and pasture for over 200 years.

What happened to the canal when it got to the Aberjona River back there among the trees? Did it just come to an end, there where the river bed cut off the paved road? It was at this point that a sluiceway of stout planks was thrust across the river, at a height of eight or ten feet above the water. The canal, water, boats, horses and passengers were thus carried above the river on what was thereafter known as the "aqueduct."

For many, many years it was a favorite swimming place for Winchester small fry. They used the old granite pillars that once carried planks across the river, long since fallen down from the pressure of ice floes. On the opposite bank of the river at this point one of the old retaining walls and maybe the town path itself is still standing.

Conclusion next week.

Town Buzzes Over Costello's Charges, Stories Of Winchester Theater Sale

Town comptroller Jim Costello's remarks of irregularities in the way the Highway Department has purchased new equipment took last week's session of town meeting by surprise.

Waving copies of purchase orders he says were improperly approved, Costello said the orders for three new pieces of equipment were illegally approved and erroneously filed in the budget under "other expenses."

He said equipment is not expenses and money for equipment must be separately appropriated. In addition, the orders, he said, lacked the required dates and vendors' names.

The Board of Selectmen control the Highway budget, but not the Water and Sewer Budget, also hit by Costello for similar sloppy bookkeeping procedures.

Town meeting members and others around town in the last week or so have been buzzing over Costello's accusations. Overheard in the supermarket: "If The Boston Globe spotlight team couldn't find anything in Winchester to investigate last summer, they can now."

There has been no suggestion that public funds have found their way into private hands. Rather, that the town boards concerned have been careless about observing the law in the way they have purchased equipment.

Costello has been frequently complimented for his scrupulous attention to detail. Selectman Chairman Paul F. Amico, in fact, has been one of those complimenting Costello. Now Amico has been the target of an indirect attack by Costello.

For the last week or so The Star has been trying to run down rumors that the Winchester Theater is under an option to sell to a Brookline developer.

Several telephone calls to E. M. Loew, who runs the movie house, have been deadends. Even the manager, Dick Drowhan, says he doesn't know what the story is. He said he has heard the same rumors but no one has told him anything.

Hear Ye!

The following list of meetings of official town boards and committees is taken from the Town Hall bulletin board. All meetings are open to the public.

Town Meeting, new high school, 7:45 p.m. Public welcome.

Tuesday, April 24

School Committee, Sanborn House, 7:30 p.m.

Wednesday, April 25

Winchester Republican Town Committee, Town Hall, 8 p.m.

Item: Planning Board meeting date not yet set.

Selectman William G. Chapman Jr., the board's resident architect, received a copy of Winchester Hospital's special plan for its planned expansion. But neither he nor the hospital will provide The Star with a copy, explaining that release of the plan would be premature since it's only an architect's idea and is far from final.

The selectmen haven't been asked to act on any plan from the hospital yet. In fact, according to a hospital spokesman, the hospital's board of directors hasn't yet approved the architect's study.

So what's everyone afraid of? Do they think perusal by the public is going to hinder their plans? Of course they do. Because the public is particularly interested to know how many new beds the hospital is going to try and get. Publicly the hospital has repeatedly said it wants no new beds.

But according to official statements it gave the state, the hospital has revealed it wants more, maybe as many as 45. (It now has 200.) It's going to have a fight on its hands from the state, which must approve most hospital expansion. There is an excess of beds in the Boston area, resulting in higher medical costs.

It's going to have quite a fight on its hands here in town, too. A number of its neighbors are incensed over the hospital's policy of acquiring houses, particularly the manner in which it has approached potential sellers.

The Star has talked to a few of them and the words intimidation and blockbusting entered the conversations. Naturally the hospital has no power of eminent domain, but one property owner said, "They gave the impression they were going to take the property by eminent domain."

Of more immediate concern will be the town meeting's action on 22 Highland ave., a house controlled by the Board of Selectmen. The selectmen feel its demolition will help solve some of the hospital's nagging parking problems. There's no doubt it would go a long way toward getting parked cars off Highland avenue while the hospital constructs a garage on its own property. The land would revert to the town once the garage is completed. Of course in the meantime, the house will have been demolished.

Patriots' Day passed quietly in Winchester without any official or other observance of the day. One wonders why there is no celebration of any kind in town. Perhaps because Winchester wasn't a town during the Revolution and thus has carried no traditional observance down through the years.

Town meeting last Thursday approved $12,500 for night lights at the Palmer street tennis courts. The money is to be raised by taxation, as is the money to pay for $24,000 in lights for Ginn Field for baseball and softball.

Both of the lights appropriations were recommended approved by the Finance Committee. Yet $41,000 for air conditioning for the library was voted down by the meeting. That received unfavorable recommendation from the Finance Committee.

Yet air conditioning would have likely come from the stabilization fund, meaning it wouldn't affect this year's tax rate. Makes a person wonder how many members of Finance are tennis players.

ERRATA: Last week's Star carried a picture announcing the EnKa Sunshine annual plant sale. The girl scouts who made the EnKa posters were from Tropp 514, not as reported.

Another picture announced that John Heffernan won the Black Memorial Trophy for being the most valuable player on the Winchester High School basketball team. Only one previous winner was listed, Tom Workman. Winners previous to him were Bob Hicks, Bob Bigelow and Tim Fahey.

The Park Commission last week was preparing its list of possible student summer help. It will be well worth watching this year to see how many sons and daughters of town committee members make it on the payroll.

For Parking?

EDITOR OF THE STAR:

Contrary to the headline given our letter in last week's paper, the Winchester Business Association is not taking any stand on the zoning issue involved in the move of Bonnell Ford. Our organization consiers it prudent not to support one area over another in a controversy of this nature; our sole concern in the matter of rezoning is the central business district, where we consider it mandatory.

The resolution passed by the WBA directors and stated in last week's paper was clearly meant to point out the tragedy of losing yet another business established in the community over a long period of time. If Winchester continues to ignore its own, the closing of stores and businesses will continue to drain off the tax dollars as well as its disastrous effects on the aesthetics of the town.

In Memoriam

EDITOR OF THE STAR:

In the death of John Flaherty of Creeley Village, Lexington, last Thursday, we lost a sincere and dear friend.

Born and raised in Winchester, John had quite a record in World War I which included being gassed in the battle of Chateau Thierry and the Silver Star for bravery.

On this beautiful Patriots' Day morning, as we watched the British march on to the Battle Green to the roll of muffled drums, we thought of John Flaherty, now a silent hero in Westview Cemetery, at peace with God, his country and his fellow man.

Scouts Congratulated

EDITOR OF THE STAR:

The Board of Park Commissioners would like to congratulate the Boy Scouts of Winchester and Woburn and their leaders, who participated in the Aberjona River clean-up campaign on Saturday, March 31, 1973.

We wish to extend our sincere thanks and appreciation to all these men and boys for their excellent cooperation and assistance in this annual river clean-up project.

Eskers

EDITOR OF THE STAR:

I haven't driven down the old Providence road, route 1A, through Norwood since the new by-pass route 1 was built. I assume, however, that the huge esker beside Purgatory Brook, (a narrow ridge or mound of gravelly and sandy drift deposited by a subglacial stream), at the eastern edge of prehistoric Lake Crosby which was cut by route 1A just before you got into Norwood, has long since been carted away by Mr. O'Toole and his "Glacial Sand and Gravel Company." They were hard at work in those days on the southern end of it; while the part still untouched, on the right hand or northern side of the highway, showed the largest and most perfect esker profile I have ever seen.

Another classic example of a large esker was on the Richard Bates Farm in Carlisle. From what I hear, this one too, has been carted away for fill. With the bull-dozers hard at work everywhere and the demand for fill growing ever more urgent, it will not be long before all such reminders of the glacial age will have disappeared from the local landscape. Airports, parking lots, highways -- all are insatiable in their demand for gravel.

For those kids who may be studying geology (or land forms, or whatever name it may go by nowadays) it may be of interest that I saw yesterday what appeared to be a very large and long esker, running for miles along the side of the road and hardly a stone's throw from the pavement.

I drove to Worcester by a different route this time, to check time and distance against 20,9, and 90, and to make comparisons for ease of driving, traffic flow, etc. Some times "the longest way round is the shortest way home."

I went up route 2 to its junction with 495 near Littleton, then went west on route 495 to 290, and so to Worcester. Not far from this intersection with route 2 I became aware of the presence of a large esker running along parallel with the road. I think it lay in the Nashua riverbed and pretty much along the boundary line between Boxboro and Harvard.

It followed route 495, or more properly route 495 followed it, for what seemed to be several miles and never more than a few feet off to the right from the highway fence. It had been cut several times, here and there -- perhaps by running streams or brooks, or maybe by roads, or by people seeking fill, but it always seemed to start up again in the same direction, on the western side of the road, the right hand side going toward Worcester.

In one place, I am sure, the divided highway was so laid out by its builders that part of the esker's length became the dividing line between the north and south bound lanes. At least, the ridge there between the lanes has fairly large trees sticking up out of it, like the quills out of a porcupine. I doubt if trees of such size could have grown in the short time since 495 was built.

I think that any kid, young or old, who has never seen an esker might profit by taking a look at this one before it, too, shall have gone the way of progress.

Sincerely,
Clarence S. Borggaard

Health Planner Speaks About Delivery Of Nursing Services

Dr. Jeanette H. Forsyth Haase, Ph.D., director, technical operations division, Health Planning Council for Greater Boston, was principal speaker to the Winchester Visiting Nurse Association recently at the Unitarian Church. She was introduced by education chairman Mrs. John McClennan.

The Health Planning Council covers 64 cities and towns, Dr. Haase began her remarks by explaining Winchester is in an area group consisting of Lexington, Woburn, Arlington, Burlington and Wilmington. The Council goal, she said, is to develop a rational plan of health for each area. It is strictly a volunteer agency except for the main staff. Those on the Council work to determine equal ways to distribute services. The Council wants the area to have access to the best possible services at the least cost, she said.

Mrs. Haase emphasized "voluntary efforts are vital for the agency." She said the consumer must work with the Council to determine hospital changes and future nursing facilities in the community. She told her audience that the Commissioner of Health wants to cut back acute care hospital beds, and rely on more home nursing care especially for pediatric and obstetric cases.

The problems facing hospitals today, said Mrs. Haase, are "non-conforming rooms," which are too small or a great distance from the nursing station; excess beds, particularly in obstetrics and pediatrics; and lack of facilities for needed services such as dialysis.

An empty bed costs $35,000 a year and to break even all beds must be occupied 85 percent of the time. The Winchester Hospital has been occupied 89 percent, she said, pointing to this record "as excellent."

Regionalization of services is being discussed today, Mrs. Haase said. This calls for "one hospital for each service."

Mrs. Haase pointed to a new law which states that any health provider who wants to make a change in services or any change in delivery care has to send an "application of need" which is reviewed by both state and regional boards. On approval a hospital can change pediatric beds to facilities for psychiatric patients, in great demand at the present time.

In closing Mrs. Haase said nursing care is going through difficult times due to changes in administration, medical care and innovations in Massachusetts health laws.

M. Gloria Pearson, RN, director of Winchester Visiting Nurse Association announced that a new speech therapist is now available to the public. He is Robert H. Shapiro of Andover. Shapiro holds a master's degree in speech pathology from Northeastern University.

Julie Nixon Eisenhower accepts peace prize in behalf of her father, President Nixon, during event organized by Dr. William D. Barone of Winchester.

Dr. Barone Gives Julie Eisenhower Award For Father

At the 106th annual Lincoln Day Dinner held by the Middlesex Club in Boston recently the Lincoln Peace Award, conceived and created by Dr. William D. Barone of 1 School st., was presented to Julie Nixon Eisenhower on behalf of her father, President Richard Nixon, before more than 800 guests.

Frederick Purrington, Lt. Cmdr. USNR of North Dartmouth, a recently returned prisoner of war who had been shot down over North Vietnam on Oct. 20, 1966, was a guest who received a prolonged applause.

Present for the affair were Dr. and Mrs. William D. Barone, Vincent Celia, Mr. and Mrs. William H. Mitchell Jr., Mr. and Mrs. Richard A. Harlow, Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Godwin, Mr. and Mrs. David F. Choate Jr., Sherman W. Saltmarsh Sr., Sherman W. Saltmarsh Jr., Dr. and Mrs. Raymond Dillon and the Charles Raffi families of Winchester, Arlington and Lexington.

In presenting the award Dr. Barone, who was vice chairman of the dinner, said, "There is no more propitious time than this date, April 11, when peace was concluded in Europe exactly 28 years ago, that President Nixon should be cited for his outstanding achievement and leadership in the quest for peace."

In behalf of the Middlesex Club of Massachusetts, Barone saluted Nixon for his "sincere, tireless, persevering performance and continued efforts for the cause of peace in the world," for bringing boys home from Vietnam and for "acquiring freedom of prisoners of war."

The award given to the president is a gold-plated brass liberty bell cast at Whitechapel, England. The original was made in 1752 and broken soon after it was hung in Philadelphia.

Parish Players

'Cactus Flower' To Bloom For Two Weekends In May

By Catherine Fallon

On of the brightest blossoms to bloom this spring in Winchester will be "Cactus Flower," the Parish Players' spring production to be presented at the First Congregational Church on May 4, 5, 11 and 12 at 8:30.

The popular French farce, adapted by Abe Burrows to the American scene, will be directed by Renee Miller of Brookline, formerly of Winchester. Mrs. Miller was assistant director for last summer's "The Impossible Years." She directed "Crawling Arnold" in 1972 and the "Noon-In 2001" in 1971. She portrayed Mrs. Danvers in the Unitarian Players' production of "Rebecca."

Anne Guilderson of 90 Johnson rd. is production manager for "Cactus Flower." She has worked backstage on many community theater productions and made her stage debut this winter as Mrs. Peters in "Trifles."

Albert Leach of 210 Pond st. portrays the leading role of Dr. Julian Winston, a dentist with advanced degrees in bachelorhood who savors the spinsterish efficiency with which his nurse runs his office, but turns for after-hours amour to a young Village swinger.

Leach most recently appeared as Carlo in "The Burial of Esposito," and will appear in that role in a New England Theatre Conference competition of one act plays in May. He also appeared in the Winchester Summer Community Theatre production of "Auntie Mame."

Karen Detore of 25 Central st. plays the role of Stephanie Dickinson, starchy nurse whose opening of herself to romance parallels the blossoming of the cactus flower on her desk Mrs. Detore played the role of Elizabeth Proctor in "The Crucible" last fall She was a charter member of the Tufts Magic Circle Theatre and had five years' experience with the Boston Children's Theatre.

Suzanne Cotton of 15 Ridgefield rd., a senior at Winchester High School, plays Toni Simmons, lovelorn paramour of Dr. Winston. She appeared as Mary Warren in "The Crucible" and had roles in "Long Day's Journey into Night," "Mourning Becomes Electra," and "Zoo Story" at the High School.

John Hosmer of 9 Rangeley rd. plays Igor Sullivan, a writer who deals with the attempted suicide of his neighbor, Toni Simmons. Hosmer appeared this winter in "Red Carnations," a one act play, and has been active in high school and community theater groups for several years.

Serving in supporting roles are Gordon Sherburne of 23 Henry st., who plays Harvey Greenfield, Connie Dingwell of 50 Lorena rd., who portrays Mrs. Dixon Durant, Jack Guilderson of 90 Johnson rd, who appears as Senor Arturo Sanchez and Pam Boerner of 419 Highland ave., who plays Botticelli's Springtime.

Appearing in small roles are Jeanne Ives of 4 Goddu ave. as a waitress, and Paul Berberian of 333 Highland ave. and Arthur Stratis of Arlington as music lovers.

Advance ticket information is available from Mrs. Arthur Gast of 3 Ardley pl. Tickets will be available at the door

Abby Hamilton To Lead Studio Guild

The Studio Guild held its annual meeting on April 11. Gertrude McPeake, nominating chairman, read the new slate of officers for the coming year: President, Abby Hamilton; secretary, Sarah Votaw; treasurer, Sally Eddy; housekeeper, Eleanor Puffer, and studio keeper, Jan Baird.

Dorothy Howard brought six triptychs to the studio. Six artists painted scenic views on the boards which will go to missionaries around the world. They will be on exhibit at the Cathedral Church of St. Paul in Boston on May 1.

MSPCA Plans Pool Promenade

The Winchester Auxiliary MSPCA will hold its annual "Pool Promenade" on June 18 at the home of Mrs. Winthrop S. Knox Jr. of 1 Westgate rd.

The group recently visited the Tee Emm Kennels in Dracut, owned by Ted Meisner, known as Doggie Daddy. The Kennels, the largest on the east coast and located in a country setting, are equipped with sophisticated devices for the safety and comfort of the animals including an electric eye at the entrance to a burglar alarm, fire and smoke alarm, and inter-com system to alert the staff of any sign of an animal in trouble in any of the buildings. Roofs of corrugated fiber glass cover the runs allowing plenty of light to provide protection from the elements.

The kennels employ 13 young ladies on the premise that women have a more gentle and loving approach. MSPCA members noted evidence of the female touch in the attractive and colorful decor of the buildings and in flowers along ground paths. A small revolving barber pole with little poodles in place of stripes marks the entrance to the grooming shoppe.

The kennels has a training room where obedience classes are held. A Russian wolfhound, handled by staff member Peggy Brunner, showed what he had learned in two steps of his three-step training toward his "companion dog" degree.

A brief business meeting was held prior to the tour with president Mrs. Frederick Cardin officiating.

Abraham Curewitz has an extensive background in reupholstering, having been an apprentice in the trade at the age of 20 and establishing Homestead in 1920.

Homestead was first located in Dedham, then moved to Boston, Stoneham and finally Winchester, in 1966. Mr. Curewitz is past president of Allied Furniture Crafts, a statewide organization of upholsterers.

He has been a labor representative of Local 37 and representative of the Upholsterers International Union. He is the former secretary of the Winchester Business Association.

He was appointed by two governors to a state advisory board on furniture inspection. He was a charter member of the Lions Club and was a member of the Kiwanis Club in Stoneham. Mr. Curewitz lives in Waltham with his wife. He is the father of a married daughter.

His son, Larry, is a graduate of Boston English High School, attended Northeastern University and an accredited decorating school. A part owner in the business, Larry heads the home decorating service.

Larry has more than 15 years' experience in guiding and advising customers on home decorating. He takes a complete line of samples with him when he visits a customer's home. A telephone call to Homestead will set up an appointment with Mr. Curewitz.

He will aid in coordinating fabrics for the livingroom and in restyling and reupholstering furniture. Homestead specializes in making furniture to order.

"We have been very well received in Winchester and deeply appreciate the patronage of the town," Abraham Curewitz commented.

HOUSEBREAK

The Winchester Police Department was awarded two grants from the Massachusetts Committee on Law Enforcement totaling $39,000. Since October of 1970 study and implementation phases of the project, "Comprehensive Attacks on Burglary," have been progressing within the town. In connection with this heightened focus on burglary, the Department will present "Housebreak," a column suggesting ways in which Winchester residents may assist these efforts against crime, in weeks to come through The Star. Look for it.....follow it.....it's for you.

A hidden key is not hard for a burglar to find since he has something to gain by locating it. Don't try to outwit him. Don't leave a spare key outside of your house.

Engraving tools may be borrowed from the police department for approximately three days by those who wish to participate in the Homeowners Engraving Identification program. They operate much like an electric pencil.

Violinist Johnian, Cellist Brundage To Play Vivaldi's Violin Concerto

The Winchester Chamber Music Society will appear in concert Friday evening, April 27, at Crawford Memorial Methodist Church. The orchestra will join violinist Paul Johnian and cellist Margaret Brundage in the Concerto for Violin, Cello, Strings, and Harpsichord by Vivaldi.

The program will also include the Debussy Cello and Piano Sonata. Linda Reinfeld, a graduate from Eastman School of Music, will be the pianist. Mr. Johnian, Mrs. Brundage and Mrs. Reinfeld will collaborate in the performance of Mendelssohn's D Minor Trio.

In addition, Mr. Johnian will perform Mozart's Violin Concerto No. 5 with Martha Daschbach as the accompanist.

The Winchester Chamber Music Society has presented several concerts throughout the Boston area. The April concert will be the first of a series in which the orchestra will be involved.

"The orchestra has matured greatly since last September when it was organized, and with the continuing encouragement and enthusiasm of the town we will be deeply proud of our youth dedicated in the fine art of classical music," says Paul Johnian, founder and director of the ensemble.

Tickets for the 7 p.m. concert will be available at the door.

ATOMS Plan Flea Market, Seek Volunteers

The Mystic Valley ATOMS (Association To Overcome Multiple Sclerosis) will hold a flea market on May 20 at the Winchester High School cafeteria from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. Mrs Maureen Winn of 10 West Chardon rd. is Winchester coordinator.

Mrs. Winn says the flea market will feature a couple of booths having articles made and contributed by the Mystic Valley ATOMS, which has membership in many towns adjacent to Winchester.

Also featured will be antiques and white elephants or other items from groups who want to participate. Dealers and groups are invited to contact Bob DiPalma, 8 Metcalf st., Medford, if they want to have a booth at the sale.

Mrs. Winn points out that transportation continues to be a problem for her and other handicapped persons. The Mystic Valley ATOMS are in need of volunteers who are willing to provide transportation for ATOMS members. For more information on the flea market or to offer assistance, contact Mrs. Winn.

Library Lincoln-Lee Essay Contest Closes Wednesday

April 25 is the closing date for submission of entries in the Edgar J. Rich essay contest through the Winchester Public Library. Papers must be received at the library before 9 p.m. that date.

The library trustees offer three prizes of $75, $50, and $25 to carry out one clause in the late Edgar Rich's will: "Income may be used to provide for prizes for the best essays on Lincoln and Lee written by pupils of the Winchester High School."

The high school social studies department cooperates with the library by publicizing the contest and giving credit for papers submitted toward course work in American studies.

The library staff invites students to make use of the materials in the Rich Room in the preparation of their essays. They point to vacation week as offering opportunity for uninterrupted work and study in preparation for the contest.

Dr. Bradley Tells Community School About Self-Study

Dr. Richard Bradley, director of evaluation for the New England Association of Schools and Colleges, spoke on April 10 to the Winchester Community School Association. The monthly meeting was held at the home of the president, Mrs. Richard Freeman.

In describing the process of evaluation at the Winchester High School this year, Dr. Bradley discussed self-study going on in every department.

He told of the necessity for the self-study report to pinpoint existing problems as well as outlining strengths, and he stressed the importance of being able to tell the evaluation and accreditation committee in the fall just how Winchester High School is different from other high schools. The Committee will also make a determination on how well Winchester meets the needs of each of her students.

Dr. Bradley gave a brief history of evaluation and accreditation. He described the cooperative study of secondary school standards which produced "Evaluation Criteria." The 1969 edition of this manual contains 900 to 1,000 points of reference geared to secondary school standards and is the criteria for this year's self-study.

Dr. Gordon Bruno, principal of Darien High School in Connecticut, will be chairman of the Winchester Evaluation and Accreditation Committee as he was for Belmont High School recently. Serving with him will be 20 to 40 different specialists covering all the courses offered at the High School. They will visit Winchester High School for three or four days in the fall and will submit a report to the New England Association of Schools and Colleges containing commendations, criticisms, and recommendations for changes based on this year's self-study as well as their visit.

Raiders Edge Sachem Nine

By John Parrell

Monday was a beautiful day for baseball, and Coach Bill Colella took his team to Watertown for the opening game of the Middlesex League schedule.

It was also a beautiful baseball game, for the first nine and one-half innings. The teams were deadlocked at one all to open the tenth, and Winchester took a two run lead at 3-1. But the home team refused to play dead, and they rallied for three runs in their half to win the opener by 4-3.

The Raiders took a one-run lead in the first inning. The Sachems evened the count in the fourth, when co-captain Ned Keating tripled and scored moments later on a passed ball. In the meantime co-captain Steve Johnson and his Watertown adversary continued to mow down opposing batters, and the game went into extra innings.

In the Sachem half of the final frame, Mike Heffernan delivered the key blow when he tripled. This scored two runs and looked like a very solid lead. But, the roof fell in moments later when Watertown scored three runs to nail down the victory.

Rudy Fiore took the mound for Winchester, but it was not his day. A base on balls was followed by a double play ball, which was messed up, and both runners were safe. The next Raider bunted safely, and the bases were loaded. The next batter singled, and two runs came across to make the score 3-3.

Rudy had control trouble, and walked the next man, to again fill the bases. He worked hard and carefully, but when the fourth ball was called on the next batter, the Raiders had their fourth and winning run. So, although the day was springlike, and the game was hard fought, the ending was an unhappy one for the Sachems.

Llib Ssor Bowls High In A-Go-Go

Llib Ssor of Couples-A-Go-Go bowled high game of 218 and high series of 532 on April 14. Mimi Burtnett rolled a 154 for high woman's game.

There are three members in the group's "200 Club." They are Llib Ssor, 218; Marge Boesch, 214; and John Bradley, 209.

Improvement in averages, Saturday evening, went to Llib Ssor and Wimpy Burtnett, 5 pins each; Louise Hart, 3 pins; Walter Armstrong, 1 pin.

President Stan Hart held a short business meeting regarding the end of the year banquet.

After bowling hosts were Walter and Jane Armstrong.

Midfielder

Midfielder Stephen Swanson of Winchester is a member of the 1973 Ithaca College junior varsity lacrosse team which opened its season recently.

Swanson, a physical education junior at IC, is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Richard W. Swanson of 19 Johnson rd. He is a 1970 graduate of Winchester High School.

Eulalia All-Stars Top Reading 6-5

St. Eulalia's Pee Wee All-Stars came out on top 6-5 over the Big Red of Reading in a scrappy contest that was a bruiser until the final whistle. Stiff checking by the Homsi Brothers and four goals by Brian Cadagan, combined with fine team passing put the Lions on top in a hockey marathon that started at 7:15 and lasted until 9:05 at USA. Reading showed fine conditioning, scoring two goals in the last six minutes of the third 20-minute stop-time period.

Future all-star contests will be with Revere, Arlington, Melrose, Waltham, Somerville and Winthrop, all of which are scheduled at the USA in Winchester.

St. Eulalia's Pee Wee All-Stars came from behind to tie Medford 5-5. Medford broke on top one zip at 5:23 of the first period. Little time was wasted as John Allen put the Eulalian Lions on the board one minute and 16 seconds later to tie it up 1-1.

At the end of the first period Medford was leading 2-1. They continued to build up a lead in the second period as the Lions fell behind 4-1 as the buzzer sounded to finish the second period. Joe DeLisle assisted by Jeff Mulligan made it 4-2, then Rich Purcell on a breakaway 47 seconds later 4-3 to get the Lions back into the game early in the third period.

Medford pumped in one in the third period, at 12:11. The Lions kept skating hard resulting with a goal by Brian Cadagan assisted by Tom Mallard and with 4:20 left in the game Larry Barr tied it up in what was a well played hard fought hockey game.

BAYS Beacons Take Foxboro 3-1

The Winchester Beacons of the Boston Area Youth Soccer League competition defeated Foxboro in this season's first contest by a score of 3:1.

The Winchester team dominated the first half but could not rally for a score. The Foxboro defense withstood the pressure of Winchester forwards Dennis Collins, Jackie Driscoll and Tom Mitchell. A surprise goal by Foxboro gave the visitors a 1:0 halftime lead.

During the second period Winchester halfbacks, Tom Waite and George Casey increasingly began to dominate midfield, and within 15 minutes through Dennis Collins' hat trick the Beacons coasted to a comfortable 3:1 lead.

Rob Whitman and Jim Burns played excellent defense. Dennis Collins was sensational as a forward and both goalies, Carlos Lopez and Brain Tarbox put in a solid performance. As usual Tommy Waite was the master of the field.

This coming Saturday the Beacons will travel to Sudbury in their pursuit of repeating last year's championship performance.

Squirt Hockey

The Squirts swung back into action Thursday evening as the Redwings edged past the Blackhawks in the opening game of the final phase that will close the first annual St. Eulalia 40-week hockey program at USA May 31.

Butch Cutone opened the scoring at 4:26 of the first period to put the Wings on top. Scoring attempts were thwarted time after time by great goal tending until, with four minutes left, Steve DePaola slammed home the clincher.

The final goal was into an empty net by Mike Cutone assisted by his brother Butch.

The Redwings won their second game in three days as they skated past the Bruins 6-2. Mike Della Sala did all the scoring for the Bruins. Redwings goals were made by Brian McCarthy; Butch Cutone made two with one assist; Mark Deyab had one and one assist; one goal each came from Steve DePaola, Bob Ricciardelli and Chris McCarthy with 1 assist.

The North Stars and Blackhawks opened up the Squirt action Saturday night. This contest appeared destined to end in a scoreless tie with each team applying pressure throughout the game. However, Paul Chiara of the North Stars put it all together with a hard blast that broke through the goalie's pads for the goal with only 1:11 left in the game, to give the Stars their first win 1-0.

Managers Named

"The manager, more than any other single individual, holds the key to success or failure in Little League baseball," stated James R. Stewart Jr., president of Winchester Little League, Inc., recently.

"We have been very fortunate with managers in that over the years they have exerted a wonderful influence upon their players.

"Why is the manager such a key individual and what are some of the requisites one looks for in a manager?," Stewart continued.

"Having a knowledge of baseball or just because an individual is willing to give his time to manage is really not enough of a criterion upon which to base his selection, although they are important considerations.

"Integrity and sincerity are important attributes but probably the most important consideration in being a successful manager is being able to grasp the purposes of the program and how to evaluate progress towards attaining them. He must exemplify all the desirable things in Little League.

"Boys of Little League ages are strongly influenced by their peers. This is an age of hero worship. If the boy chooses as a model his manager who represents the highest ideals of gentlemanly behavior, the boy and his parents are fortunate.

"We must never judge the success of a manager by won and lost records," stated Stewart. "Standings are simply part of the mechanical structures of baseball. The purpose of Little League baseball is to help boys become good and decent citizens."

Also Jerry Dionne, Beavers; John Astell, Bobcats; Al Samoiloff, Bulldogs; Don Martin, Lions, Harold Beard, Jr., Ponies; Jack O'Brien, Rams; Rick Ericson, Tigers; Mike Kennedy, Badgers; Bob Grainger, Buffaloes.

Also, Tony DeVelis, Foxes; Charlie Deroo, Jaguars; Warren Gagen, Panthers; George McNamara, Whippets; Ed Conley, Wildcats; Dick Parker, Wolves.

For Little League

Stewart expressed his appreciation to the managers and to the officers of Little League, Women's Auxiliary and league umpires headed by umpires-in-chief Frank Langone, Bob McGoldrick and Innocent Noel.

Cap League Registration Deadline Apr. 27

All boys who will be 7 to 10 years old before Aug. 1, and want to play Cap League baseball should turn in their applications to the Winchester Sports Shop before 5 p.m., April 27, when early registration will close. The Sports Shop has application blanks.

Opening day for Cap League will be on April 29. Rain date is May 5. Boys registered early should report to their playing fields before 2 p.m.

Applications will be accepted on opening day at the Ginn Field refreshment stand, beginning at 2 p.m. These boys can expect some delay in getting to their fields.

Boys applying after opening day may be accepted by special individual consideration by the League Director. Acceptance cannot be promised.

There is a registration fee for each boy which must accompany the completed application blank.

As in previous years, every registered boy will be assigned to a team, and will play in every game he attends. Returning Cap Leaguers will be on the same teams they played for last season.

League games will be played every Saturday and Sunday afternoon beginning at 1 p.m., from May 5 until the schedule is completed about mid-June. No games will be played after the schools close.

Each player will be given a baseball cap in his team colors, and will be required to wear his cap on the playing fields.

In order to avoid delay and confusion on opening day, League officials recommend that applications be turned in by April 27.

Bridge Club Records Memorable Game

By Bridgette

On April 11 a memorable 76 percent game was added to the mere handful of over 75-percenters recorded in Duplicate Bridge Club history. Ed Sullivan and Darrell Root performed the feat. Incidentally, both are dedicated workers over the years for the game of bridge and its players. East-West in Section B Steve Butcher and Gerard Walwoth posted a fine 64 percent game of their own to win with ease.

Board 10 from Section B (all vulnerable, the board rotated for convenience, and South dealing) points a double moral—in a touchy contract a four-four suit has more flexibility than NT, and don't forget the lowly club suit.

Please take the South seat with the contract of 7C and plot your course. You have many more possibilities in clubs rather than in NT, n'est-ce pas?

It seems easier to figure from the North hand how to get rid of the losers. The Queen of Hearts from North, followed by the Ace and King of Hearts from South lets North discard a small spade. Now North can ruff South's Jack of Spades with his club four, North's nine and eight of Diamonds can be ruffed by South's Ace and Queen of Clubs, leaving North's King, Jack and ten of Clubs for the remaining three tricks, in short, taking 3 hearts, 2 spades, 2 diamonds, and 6 clubs.

Granted, 7C is not an easy contract for North-South to reach. Of the eleven pairs playing the hand, only one bid and made 7C, one bid 6C, making seven, and the other nine North-Souths chose NT, bidding from three to seven, five of them not managing to make six.

Winchester Tennis Devotees Observe Quincy Indoor Matches

By John Parrell

A strong representation of Winchester tennis devotees made the trek to the Boston Harbor Marina Tennis Club in Quincy for the women's indoor championship matches on the Virginia Slims' circuit recently.

The reigning queen, Mrs. Billie Jean King, was dethroned by Australian Mrs. Margaret Court. It was a straight set victory by 6-2, 6-4.

Mrs. King, named woman athlete of the year in 1972 and who banked better than $100,000 in each of the past two years, was a winner at Wimbledon. She has not been playing much this year, sidelined by an injury, and returned to action in the Quincy event.

In the meantime Mrs. Court has been steam rolling all opposition. She has won 81 out of 83 matches and 17 out of 19 tournaments in which she has played for a net increase of $73,850 in the family exchequer.

Behind almost perfect serving she drove hard and kept the defending champion at a disadvantage. Obviously not at the peak of her game, Billie Jean flashed at times, only to miss on shots which would usually be elementary for her. She is on her way back, but it would appear that it will be summer before she will be able to face Mrs. Court on even terms.

However, she took down the $3,000 second place money and split another $1,000 with her doubles partner Rosie Casals by winning the doubles title. They bested Betty Stove of the The Netherlands and Francoise Durr of France, 6-4 and 6-2.

Winchester BAYS Teams Win 2, Tie 3

The Boston Area Youth Soccer League kicked off its fifth year this past weekend. Three Winchester teams were off to a good season with two wins and a tie among the three teams.

The Astros, sponsored by St. Mary's CYO, outhustled Needham and with only three substitutes available nearly beat the favored Needham.

During the two 40-minute halves there was no let up in the pace after the opening kickoff. There were many exciting moments in the game. On two occasions a Winchester player with a breakaway was unable to get a shot off when he had over-dribbled the ball. An unusual sight in a soccer game was to see the Needham goalkeeper wearing a face mask to protect his mending fractured jaw.

The first goal came at the three minute mark when Needham scored. Then Winchester's Tom Merrow at left wing tallied at 15 minutes. Needham was credited with another score when, in attempting to clear the ball, a Winchester player deflected the ball into the his own net. The first half ended with Needham, 2, Winchester 1.

In the second half at 15 minutes Jimmy Palermo, at right wing for Winchester, tipped in a pass to tie the game. At the 20 mark Winchester was awarded a penalty kick when a Needham defender prevented a goal score by stopping the ball with his hands. Left halfback Paul Sullivan, in his fifth year in this league, scored on the penalty kick and Winchester led 3-2 until the 30 mark when Needham registered the tieing 3-3 goal.

Winchester's midfield was under control with great play by Paul Sullivan and Paul Austin. The forward line of Tom Merrow, Bernie Belcastro, Joe Amuzzini and Jim Palermo never let up. In the last five minutes, exhaustion overcame Jim Palermo who played a great game.

Winchester gave each of its two goalkeepers an opportunity to play. Both turned in good performances. Wayne McNeill, also in his fifth year, showed great performance with his throws and booming kicks. During the second half Richard Campa made several good saves.

The three Winchester teams are away next weekend. Their schedule will continue to alternate, home and away, through June 17. All games are played on Saturday and Sunday at MacDonald Field.

Bicycle Rodeos Designed To Promote Bike Safety

Fun for Winchester children in grades 1 through 6 will only be a by-product of the Ghost Rider Bicycle Rodeo to be held on two successive Sundays here. Improved bicycle safety and bike engraving against theft are the desired results of Rodeo sponsors.

The Rodeos will begin each day at 2 p.m. in the parking lot behind the Winchester police station. Members of Cap League may report at 3 p.m. On April 29 children from the east side schools, Washington, Lincoln, St. Mary's, Mystic and Muraco, are invited. West Side school children from Ambrose, Parkhurst, Vinson-Owen, Wyman and Noonan will take part on May 6.

The event will consist of three parts, bike engraving, inspection and a Rodeo test. The etching of name and phone number on the frame as a theft deterrent is optional. Bikes will be inspected for safety features.

The Rodeo test will judge the bicyclist's ability to stay off lines, stop at a stop sign, use hand signals, observe time limits, etc. At the conclusion of the afternoon awards will be given based on exceptional ability, skill and coordination in the test control areas.

Each child will receive a comic book, "Ghost Rider" supplied by the EnKa Society, a bicycle driver's license, and for his bike, a Ghost Rider sticker and if needed, a saf-T-glo sticker. Prizes donated by Winchester merchants will be given to first, second and third place winners in each of the age categories. The age groups are first and second grades, third and fourth grades and fifth and sixth grades. There will be no kindergarten section.

Pupils should present a scoresheet-permission sheet obtained at school and signed by their parent at the registration desk. If lost, extra copies will be available at this desk, and if unsigned, an adult friend or Safety Officer John W. McKinley may sign. If a child's bicycle is not operable, attempts will be made to borrow one for the test course.

Sponsors of the bicycle Rodeos are bracing themselves for a possible participation of 1,800-2,000 children. Coordinating the events is the Community Schools Association with the safety officer.

Besides EnKa and Winchester merchants and police, sponsors and volunteers include the town School, Highway, Auxiliary Fire and Engineering Departments and the Jaycees.

The paint and driven points are being applied to the parking lot in the hope that this year's success will promote a repeat in coming seasons.

Little League Opener April 25

The major league will officially open the Winchester Little League season next Wednesday evening at 6 p.m. with opening day ceremonies planned.

Games scheduled are Twins vs. Braves at West Side Field No. 1, Red Sox vs. Dodgers at West Side Field No. 3 and the Athletics vs. Cardinals at Ginn Field No. 1.

Throwing out the first ball at the above games will be Anthony Tambone, Ralph Bonnell Jr. and Charles Koch.

Tryouts were held last weekend for the senior league. Players will be selected by the managers and candidates will be notified this week as to which teams they are on.

The minor league will open on April 28 while The Senior league is scheduled to start May 5.

★ Meeting

The issue has brought about a new program of financial controls within the Water and Sewer Board. Town Comptroller Costello explained that the town government does not have integrated cost control as in private business. Records of expenditures within each department are made only upon receipt of payment records.

The tighter controls on spending, though thus far only taken in the Water and Sewer Department, are expected to prevent any repeat of such an incident and promote improved relationship among boards.

Comptroller Costello's closing remark, "What's wrong?" on the $1,446 appropriation, was met by a round of applause from TMMs.

The evening began with a tabling for the second time of budget item 6120, school lunch. The School Committee came before TMMs ready to reduce its original request for $150,000 by $10,000, but was met by the Finance Committee's recommendation that this could be lowered even more.

Amico suggested that the account be tabled for the next meeting so Finance could "digest" the situation.

Members granted articles 12 and 13 appropriating $12,425 for lighting at the Packer tennis courts and $24,000 for Ginn Field. The first proposal was presented by Geoffrey D. Wyler of the Winchester Tennis Association.

By charging players $2 per hour for use of each of the four courts, a "pay as you play plan," Wyler estimated that the cost to the town for the project would be "zero" in six to seven years. The request was composed of $10,993 for equipment (including a discount), a $500 installation fee and $960 for a year's cost of operation. The WTA is contributing $600. Court fees would be returned to the town's excess and deficiency fund.

Lights, luminaires in fluorescent strips, would be shut off by 10 p.m., Wyler stated, were designed against vandalism and would be reasonably easy to replace, being only 15 feet off the ground.

The Finance Committee's recommendation, though not unanimous, was favorable, as was the Board of Selectmen's. These bodies repeated their opinions on the Ginn Field project.

Peter Kennedy Tully of the Recreation Committee, which was proposing the lights, explained that six poles would be erected with underground wiring and controls located in the Little League concession box. Power would be drawn from Bacon street. Ginn Field was selected because of its location and residential conditions. The Park Department will maintain the field. The Recreation Committee will be in charge of the electric bills.

When it was pointed out that the Metropolitan District Commission actually owns the field, Tully announced that permission for the improvement had been attained, and that although "out-of-towners" could use the field, they could not use the lights.

Lights-out would be at 10:30 p.m. However, Precinct 6's TMM Michael D. Saraco was concerned that illuminating several areas of town at night might "spoil" Winchester, and suggested that a trial at the tennis courts be taken before the appropriation for Ginn Field was approved. He was worried over a "potential nusiance" and possible problems of maintenance. "Is this Winchester, or is this Revere Beach?" he asked.

A vote produced a 90 yes, 76 no count.

Under article 14 the Cemetery Commission was given authority to repurchase unused graves and lots from individual owners and the sum of $500 for initiation of a revolving account for this purpose. Repurchases would be made at the original sale prices only, including the charge of perpetual care on the property.

As Sherman R. Josephson, chairman of the commission, noted, These transactions will make money for the town. Prior to the article's approval, which will require a by-law change, the commission could not make such repurchases. Some graves and lots become undesired after buyers change their permanent residence from Winchester.

At this point, Costello informed TMMs, recepits from these sales are accumulated, generally a $6500-7,500 sum each year. Resale between individual sellers and buyers will be prohibited.

Winchester Friends

The spring meeting of the Friends of the Winchester Hospital will be held on April 26 at the home of Mrs. Gustav G. Kaufmann, 9 Wedgemere ave.

The meeting will begin with coffee at 9:15 a.m. followed by the guest speaker Michael D. Saraco, director of the board of health. He will speak on the role of the department of public health in a suburban community.

The Winchester Police Department will show a short film on "Burglarproofing Your Home."

apartments and questions the expenditure for a special town meeting considering the likelihood of failure to approve a by-law.

Asked if Winchester might benefit from some form of town administrator government, McCarron said he could not see how a town manager combined with a town meeting could be more effective than the present system.

"The town meeting would just veto anything the town manager did," he explained.

The major concern of the town meeting should be, in the McCarrons' view, "smaller taxes so we can continue to live here." Having no children, the McCarrons are especially conscious of rising school costs.

McCarron objected particularly to the School Committee holding land for future expansion well in advance of actual use. He said that he had opposed this in the case of the Washington School and had even tried with TMM Hewis to put a referendum before the voters.

"Don't ever try to get a referendum on the ballot," he said, citing the difficulties of getting each signer of the petition to sign exactly as he is registered as a voter. This requirement must be filled, he said, in order for the signature to qualify.

His final word as a long-time town meeting member was that Winchester is not as wealthy as it once used to be.

"I don't think Winchester should be compared to Wellesley, Newton and these other towns. We are not as wealthy. We should be compared to our neighbors, like Arlington and Stoneham."

As evidence he mentioned the conversion of two family homes from singles and the reduction in living style, chauffeurs, servants and the like of many of the larger homes in Winchester.

The town meeting can certainly be grateful to "Jerry" McCarron for if he did not fulfill his duty members would be wending their way home at all hours instead of 11 p.m.

Cardullo Is Named To Board

Frank N. Cardullo of Winchester is one of three new members of the board of directors of the Charlesbank Trust Company, Cambridge.

Cardullo, owner of the Wursthaus Restaurant and Cardullo's Gourmet Shop both of Cambridge, was appointed in 1968 by former Gov. John Volpe as a member of the state commission of convenience foods; and in 1970, a member of the Metropolitan area planning council by Gov. Francis Sargent.

Cardullo holds membership in the Governor's Club, the One Hundred Club and the Governor's Advisory Council. He is past president of the Cambridge Lions Club, a director of the Mass. Restaurant Assn. and head of its legislative committee.

11 Study Elderly Needs At Seminars

Eleven Winchester residents attended seven workshops on working with the elderly. They are Janet Blumberg, Jan Cross, Jeanne Dube, Beryl Hagan, Meg Harrigan, Hilda Hope, Arthur Pratt, Leonor Rich, Patricia Wells, Msgr. Joseph Lyons and Elizabeth Kenney.

The series of 10 workshops was designed to promote understanding of the needs of older people among those who work with elder citizens and was jointly sponsored by the Arlington Council on Aging, the state executive office of elder affairs, and the Mystic Valley Mental Health Center in Lexington. Middlesex Community College is giving course credit to the workshop participants who wish it.

The most recent session featured Dr. Carolyn Attneave, head of family intervention, Boston State Hospital, and Dr. Phyllis Silverman who, in 1967, initiated the Widow to Widow program in Boston which has since spread to many other parts of the nation.

Arlene Katz, psychologist at Mystic Valley Mental Health Center, acted as chairman of the program.

Elderly Interviewed

Dr. Richard Norberg, chairman of the committee conducting an extensive survey of Winchester's elder citizens, gave a brief progress report on the group's findings at the meeting of the Committee for a Winchester Council On Aging, recently at the Unitarian Church.

Dr. Norberg informed the meeting that seven percent of the town's population aged 62 and over have been interviewed personally. Of the remaining 2,300 older citizens receiving the same survey by mail, 800 have replied at this time.

School Building Equipment Taken

Two AM-FM radios, two projectors and five tape recorders were discovered missing from Washington School this Sunday.

Officers Daniel C. Pearson and William G. Wright noted beer bottles on a classroom floor and obscenities written on the blackboard. The method of entry was unknown at that time.

While checking doors shortly before 2 a.m. Sunday Officer David K. Richardson observed three males running from the rear of Brothers' Pizza, 883 Main st. There was damage to the rear door.

Jerry Nason In Hall Of Fame

Paul E. "Jerry" Nason of 27 Oneida rd., executive sports editor of The Boston Globe, was honored recently by induction into the road runners' hall of fame. He is the only non-marathoner to be so named.

Others chosen for the select group included two-time Boston Marathon winner, the stout hearted Indian "Tarzan Brown," Pete McArdle, 11 times national road running champion and Vic Dargell of New York. Given a posthumous place in the select group was Jimmy Henigan of Malden and Medford, who captured the big race in 1931.

Dr. Lele Researches Sound Waves

Research into ways of predicting safe dosage levels for high-frequency sound waves used in medical diagnosis and treatment has been described in papers prepared by Massachusetts Institute of Technology scientists in the laboratory of experimental medicine, department of mechanical engineering, and was presented by the research groups' leader Dr. Padmakar P. Lele of 21 Squire rd.

Dr Lele, who holds a doctor of medicine and Ph.D. explains ultrasound, or sound of frequencies of millions of cycles per second, has become a valuable diagnostic and thereapeutic tool in many medical specialities. It can penetrate deep into soft tissues and can give information about the tissues and organs that cannot be obtained by x-rays or other means.

At the intensity levels used in diagnosis, ultrasound is considered much safer than x-rays. For example, in the diagnosis of pregnancy, ultrasound yields information about the fetus that cannot be obtained otherwise and without subjecting the fetus to the hazards associated with the use of x-rays.

Similarly, it is possible to make reliable predictions about damage that occurs when ultrasound is focused, like light, to generate high intensities to destroy localized areas of tissue deep in the body. In this manner, ultrasound can be used for non-invasive surgery of deep structures, Dr. Lele explains.

However, many ultrasonic visualization techniques currently under development--such as the imaging of internal organs, holography and microscopy--require the use of ultrasound at intensity levels higher than those used in present diagnostic systems.

And because it is not known if these ultrasonic intensities may cause tissue destruction, attention has been focused recently on the so-called "threshold" levels of ultrasonic dosage. These are the lowest levels at which damage might occur for each of the various ways in which ultrasound can be delivered to different tissues of the body, Dr. Lele says.

Basically, the key to predicing these levels is to find out how ultrasound produces damage in the tissues. This knowledge is also essential for thereapeutic applications--to develop methods of predetermining accurate dosages for various situations.

Ultrasound, essentially, is vibrational energy that is converted into heat upon absorption in the tissues. Thus, damage can be caused directly or indirectly by the mechanical effects of vibration or by the heat generated by the absorbed energy, or both.

Dr. Lele and his group previously have found the threshold of damage to be highly dependent on the amount of heat and have developed a computer model that can predict quite closely the extent of damage to the tissue when subjected to nigh intensity "surgical" ultrasound.

The answer to these questions are now being sought by Dr. Lele, and two of his graduate students, William L. Hsu, of Potomac, Md., and Nagabhusan Senapati, of Orissa, India.

Dr. Lele has lived in Winchester since 1964. He left Massachusetts General Hospital in 1968 to join MIT where he is professor of experimental medicine and holds appointments in the department of mechanical engineering and department of nutrition and food sciences.

TROOPER John T. Riordan of Winchester was promoted to the rank of corporal in the uniformed branch of the Massachusetts state police recently. Having enlisted with the department in 1960, Riordan is assigned with Troop A, Concord. He is a veteran of the U.S. Marines and married with two children.

Niblock Is Recipient Of Bowdoin Award

W. Howard Niblock, a Bowdoin College alumnus who is director of pupil services for the Winchester Public Schools, has been chosen as the ninth recipient of the Distinguished Bowdoin Educator Award.

President of Bowdoin's Class of 1935 and a member of the College's Board of Overseers since 1958, he was principal of Maine Central Institute in Pittsfield from 1946 to 1956 when he became principal of Winchester High School. He was named to his present post in 1970.

Niblock has long been a leader in regional educational affairs and has served in recent years as president of the New England Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools, accreditation organization for the area's schools, colleges and universities.

The award, established by the Bowdoin Alumni Council, recognizes "outstanding achievement in the field of education." It includes a framed citation and a $500 prize. All Bowdoin alumni in any area of education are eligible, with the exception of those on the college's faculty. The 1973 award will be presented to Niblock at the annual commencement weekend alumni luncheon on the campus June 8. It will be the second major honor conferred on Mr. Niblock by his alma mater. In 1967 Bowdoin awarded him an honorary Doctor of Humane Letters degree.

Niblock, who also holds an honorary degree from Nasson College, is a native of Boston. He was graduated from Bowdoin cum laude, and was awarded his AM and EdM degrees at Harvard University.

He began his career in the field of secondary education at the Mount Hermon School, where he was director of guidance and instructor in history from 1936 to 1940 and from 1941 to 1946. In 1940-41 he was director of guidance and testing and instructor in history at the Beaver Country Day School in Brookline. He became principal and a psychology instructor at Maine Central Institute in 1946, remaining there until he accepted the Winchester principalship.

A former instructor in secondary school administration at the University of Maine and at Boston University, Niblock was also for many years a lecturer in secondary school curriculum and school administration at Tufts University.

He serves as president of the Massachusetts Council for the Humanities Inc., and as an elected member of the Headmasters' Association, a national organization which includes public and private school heads from throughout the nation.

A former member of the Bowdoin Alumni Council, Niblock has also been chairman of the policy committee of the New England Council of Secondary School Principals and a member of various educational advisory committees in Maine and Massachusetts.

As a Bowdoin undergraduate, he was president of the Student Council, president of the Bowdoin Christian Association, president of the Bowdoin chapter of Zeta Psi Fraternity and captain of the track team. His Bowdoin record for the 16-lb. shot put stood for many years.

Steam Locomotive On View At Mall

It isn't often you can go to the local shopping mall and see a real steam locomotive from the good old days of railroading -- right next to today's clothing bargains.

Such will be the case at the Burlington Mall during the Massachusetts Vacation Show, April 16-21.

On hand, thanks to George Bartholomew, president of the Edaville Railroad, will be Engine No. 5.

Nursery Owner Reaps Laurels In Flower Show

A Woburn nursery owner won nine awards at the recent New England Spring Garden and Flower Show, the largest number of awards given an individual.

Alexander I. Heimlich of Heimlich Nurseries received five prizes for his "Rock Garden in Acton," including the President's Bowl of the Massachusetts Horticultural Society, awarded the most meritorious exhibit.

He also won the Gold Medal of the Horticultural Society of New York, the trophy of the Massachusetts Department of Agriculture, the Horticultural Club of Boston Plate and the Garden Club of America Buckley Medal.

Heimlich's exhibit was a colorfully designed rock garden which had rushing waterfalls and hundreds of different kinds of changing plants.

The garden setting included dogwood trees and rhododendrons accenting masses of plants and miniature bulbs on a rock outcropping. He worked on the exhibit with his three sons, Sandy, Ray and Warren.

Heimlich did much of the forcing of plants for the show in his garden centers in Woburn and Derry, N. H.

AVOID FINANCIAL HEADACHES

Thinking about selling your home on your own? If so, you should commence a cram course in financing. How much money will you want down? How will you determine the prospect's credit history? Will you accept a second mortgage? Have you been in close contact with financial institutions, the FHA or VA? Can you advise a prospect where to get mortgage funds and who will pay what closing costs?

On the other hand, Realtors know that many sales are lost strictly for want of proper financing. They also know the intricate methods and sources of financing.

Honestly, the best way to market your home probably your most valuable asset - is the professional way. Just as you would go to a doctor for medical aid, you should go to a Realtor for assistance in selling your home. It must make financial sense. Over 75 percent of all home sales are handled by people in the profession.

If you have any questions on this subject or on any other aspect of Real Estate, please feel free to call or drop in at JAMES T. TREFREY, INC., REALTORS, 27 Waterfield Road, Winchester - Tel. 729-6100.

Expo '73 Will Benefit Israeli Medical Center

Representatives of the Rockport Artist's Association and the Boston Flea Market will join with dealers in leather craft, needlecraft, sculpture and fine antiques. Artists will be seen working at their crafts.

Halperin Named Sloan Fellow

Halperin, who is a graduate of Rutgers University, is director of Northeastern Radiological Health Laboratory, Department of Health, Education and Welfare. In 1962 he was associated with the Johns Hopkins University.

Clothing Fires Are Possibility

A little girls' dress caught fire while she played too close to an electric heater, and she was critically burned. An elderly woman suffered severe burns when a long, loose sleeve on her robe ignited as it brushed a burner on the kitchen range. A little boy playing with his friends was fatally burned when fell or was accidentally pushed into a bonfire where his shirt immediately caught fire.

These are typical cases from the files of the National Fire Protection Association.

And they are reminders, points out Fire Chief I. Francis Amico, that all articles of clothing -- everything worn by everybody every day -- can burn. Clothing fires are a major cause of fire deaths, as well as of thousands of painful, sometimes disfiguring injuries.

Most frequent victims of clothing fires are children and the elderly.

The Chief suggests that this Spring Clean-Up season is an especially good time to act on the clothing fire hazard, since the lighter-weight clothing worn during the warmer months is likely to ignite more readily than winter-weight apparel.

First, make sure the children understand how dangerous it is to play with matches; to play too close to a lighted candle, fireplace, bonfire or heater; and to get too close to any other source of flame or intense heat.

Dress the youngsters, when possible, in sturdy playclothes of relatively heavy materials like denim. Particularly with little girls' clothing, avoid flounces and full skirts, long looses sleeves, and light-weight, filmy materials. For addded nighttime protection, use only sleepwear treated to make it flame retardant.

Then, for all the family, remind everyone that their clothing CAN burn -- that loose sleeves, flared skirts, shirttails are invitations to fire -- that any act or activity which brings them close to flame or other ignition source needs careful attention at all times.

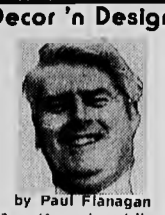
Decor 'n Design



by Paul Flanagan

Even if you do not live or eat in the kitchen, you spend a good many hours there ... You want it to have some charm ... Color can work wonders in making your kitchen a joy to look at ... But why choose hard, bright colors ... They may be gay -- but unrestful ... Try more subtle colors ... Pick them up from your dishes, perhaps: soft Delft blue cabinets, for example, with door panels painted a flat white, and interiors the brick red of casseroles; or very pale Nile green for a base color, with primrose yellow for contrast, and touches of terra cotta or burnt orange ... Wood colors, beiges and browns, are also easy to live with and make a good background for many different kinds of chinaware.

Budget minded? No need to replace your carpeting — try Steamatic, the remarkable process of carpet cleaning that injects a super-heated hot water solution deep into your carpet then extracts it with a vacuum system. The controlled heat at point of impact and quick removal of excess moisture helps restore pile; thorough cleaning retards rotting and deterioration and deep cleaning keeps the carpet cleaner longer. Steamatic cleaning done only in New England by ENVIRONMENTAL CLEANING SERVICES, INC. For free estimate and brochure call Paul at 391-2123, Medford, Mass.

Red Cross Offers 2 Scholarships

Two scholarships to the Red Cross National Aquatic School will be awarded by the Winchester Red Cross Chapter. Written requests must be submitted to the Winchester Chapter, 39 Church street, by May 7 and must include reasons for desiring the scholarship. Additional information regarding locations and dates and application may be obtained from John J. Waite Jr., chairman of the Winchester Chapter, American Red Cross.

In an effort to help meet the need for qualified water safety instructors, the Red Cross conducts national aquatic and small craft schools at strategic locations around the country. Beginning in June the schools give enrollees an opportunity to take training before starting summer activities, Waite explains.

The training is available for men and women 17 years and older who are better than average swimmers and are medically approved as physically fit. A faculty of experts, mainly volunteers, train the students who will later teach others how to be safe in, on, and around the water.

Theatre May Be Sold

The Winchester Theater at 661 Main st. may be sold to a Newton developer who says he has no present plan on what he would do with the brick structure built in 1937.

Howard Poorvu said: "I am interested in buying it." What would he do with it? "I don't know."

Does he have any plans to build a McDonald's Hamburger stand or a mini-shopping center? "I am investigating to see different possibilities. I don't mean to be evasive but I have no definite plans."

When will he decide whether to buy or not. "In a couple of months." Does he have an option on the property? "I have discussed that possibility with the owner."

Owner E. M. Loew said that if Poorvu "comes up with a good price" he would consider selling the movie house, Winchester's only movie theater.

Loew said the theater has been losing money due to the competition of shopping center movie complexes. "They're raising hell with us," he said.

Loew was asked what he will do with the theater if present negotiations to sell fail. Will you close it down? "We are losing money continually. Anything is possible.

"I hate to spend a lot of money on a theater like that."

Poorvu is a developer of commercial properties and apartments in Greater Boston.

County Threatens Town

The Board of Selectmen's executive secretary said at a recent meeting that officials of Middlesex County have informed the town that Winchester's failure to pay its hospital assessment may result in "a police officer being sent to get the money."

There were these other recent developments on the matter:

—The selectmen voted to seek an injunction in Superior Court enjoining the county from collecting the town's $40,000 assessment;

—The county has turned the matter over to the Massachusetts attorney general for possible action;

—Winchester, meanwhile, accrues a 12 percent per year interest debt on its non-payment. That amounts to $4,800.

The selectmen discussed the town's assessment at a recent meeting and decided they won't pay the bill until they can receive some assurance "expenses of the hospital are abating."

The move to enjoin the county from collecting the town's share of operating costs of Middlesex County Hospital in Waltham came after the lawyer on the board, Chairman Paul F. Amico, asked Selectmen John J. Sullivan:

"Do you feel there is some basis the assessment is illegal?"

"Probably not in a legal interpretation, no; but in the spirit of the (assessment) legislation, yes," Sullivan said.

Sullivan blamed "county structure" for the town's continuing rising assessment rather than the new county commissioners. He said he didn't know how the new commissioners feel about operation of the hospital.

Twice before the board refused to pay its assessment because of unexplained increase. Faced with legal action, the board paid on one occasion. On the other, the assessment was lowered.

Selectman Sullivan urged the board this year not to give in. The vote to continue withholding payment was unanimous by the four selectmen present. Selectman William G. Chapman Jr. was absent.

In other matters, the board interviewed four persons for appointment as associate Board of Appeals members, discussed increasing the power of Main street lights, and set May 1 as the date when they will act on renewal of taxi licenses.

Interviewed were Dr. Allan Fooks, Richard Kazanjian, William H. McCarter and Esther Sefarian. There are two seats open for associate Board of Appeals members, one for an attorney and the other general citizen. Associate members sit in the absence of the regular members.

The board indicated its intention to increase the power of Main street lights from Swanton street to the Woburn line. Complaints have been received recently of congregating youths in that area. A letter will be sent to Main street abutters there to see if they object. If so, a public hearing will be held.

Complaints about taxis parking under the bridge at Winchester Center will be investigated. "Congestion and accessibility" were cited. Taxis parking at Winchester Station, across from the Post Office, where there are no signs authorizing their parking will also be investigated.

The board re-appointed dog officer Dominic Molea for a month. He received praise from the police chief. He is now trying to sell his cleaning business.

Because town meeting eliminated funds for holiday pay for the police and fire chiefs, the selectmen have told the chiefs they will not have to work holidays.

The board received notification from the Recreation Committee of the appointment of Thomas Mullaney as chairman. Two new members of the committee have not yet taken office because town meeting is still in session. (They will sit when it concludes.)

The board went on record as favoring closer communication with Recreation. "The Recreation Committee's proposals were presented to every board prior to town meeting except the Board of Selectmen," said Selectman Vito A. Giarrizzo.

Bonnell Rezoning Could Come At Session Tonight

Background

The most volatile of town meeting issues this year—rezoning Cambridge street land for an auto agency—is due to be taken up tonight unless there are delays in articles acted on at today's session.

The meeting is being asked to rezone six acres of residentially zoned land between the Woburn line and Pond street (on the Elks side of Cambridge street) to allow Bonnell Motors of Winchester Center to build a new agency.

The land, at 339-353 Cambridge st., has been the subject of wide discussion in town since Ralph Bonnell, owner of the Winchester Bonnell Ford, announced his desire to merge with Bruce Bonnell of Bonnell's of Woburn.

Proponents of the relocation argue that Bonnell's is a longtime respected Winchester business that will be forced to move out of town if the rezoning fails. They point out that the agency contributes significantly to the town's tax base and will do so even more under the enlarged agency.

Opponents say Cambridge street is becoming too commercialized, that one more parcel of woodland in that area will fall to the bulldozer and the property, which is near Winter Pond, is wetland and a major source of water for the pond.

At issue will be whether the town meeting should "spot zone"—that is, take a piece of land and give it a special zoning classification out of context with its surrounding area.

Recommendations from official town bodies have been sketchy. The Board of Selectmen has taken no position. The Finance Committee has opposed but only because it feels a townwide zoning plan should first be adopted.

The Planning Board voted 3-2 in favor of the rezoning. Its vote, as with Selectmen and Finance, is advisory for town meeting. The votes of official boards on unimportant matters can carry considerable weight at town meeting.

On an issue such as rezoning, however, the town meeting will use its own judgment. With 230 town meeting members, a prediction on outcome is difficult to make, especially since there has been a number of absences in recent sessions.

A two-third affirmative vote is required on all zoning changes.

Another expected fiery issue will be a proposal to turn the School Committee-controlled house next to McCall Junior High School over to the Board of Selectmen for use by the Recreation Committee for a center for elderly affairs.

The committee wants to tear McManus house down for parking and a kindergarten lot for the new elementary school going into McCall. Some of the town's elderly have campaigned to save the structure for their use.

The committee maintains the house is in such poor structural condition that it is too expensive to renovate. The elderly contend such is not the case, that the building can be put into use for a minimal amount of money. Tonight will see which side has been more convincing to town meeting members.

Town Meeting Votes Important Articles

Leash Extension Out

Winchester town meeting Monday voted against extending the dog leash law and allowing the town to pay a greater share of employees' health insurance and in favor of forming committees to coordinate building expenses and study creation of an architectural review commission.

The dog leash proposal—to extend the present 7 a.m.-7 p.m. control to 24 hours—generated surprisingly little debate after town meeting member (TMM) Vincent Carroll, the father of the present law, made a presentation in which he said the intent of the original proposal was 24 hour control.

TMM Robert P. Joyce said the 7-to-7 law hasn't had a chance yet to prove itself and a 24-hour law is premature since a kennel hasn't been built and a van for transporting dogs hasn't been purchased.

The meeting later went on to appropriate $23,000 for the dog officer's budget, which includes money for a kennel. (A previous session approved a van.) In the debate against extending the leash law, speakers said dogs suffer from confinement and are not a nuisance at night.

The move defeating extension came on a motion of indefinite postponement by Joyce, who later said this parliamentary maneuver prevents the issue from being the subject of a referendum. TMM Arthur J. Hewis Jr. disagrees, however, and says a referendum is legal.

Firefighter Michael Connolly attempted to persuade the meeting to pass legislations allowing the town to increase its share of health insurance premiums for town employees. He said the state and some communities "have established a pattern of picking up a greater share." He said there would be no cost to the town this year because collective bargaining has been completed.

The town now pays 50 percent. Connolly said the police, fire and Town Employees Association have been talking about asking the town to pay 75 percent next year.

Finance Chairman Lawrence T. Smith argued against the proposal, saying the present share ratio "compares to industry" and if the meeting passed the measure "it would be extremely difficult to reject" during collective bargaining.

The proposal would have allowed the Board of Selectmen to increase the town's share. The meeting overwhelmingly rejected it.

The meeting created two new committees-- a capital improvement program committee and a committee to study creation of a design and architectural review commission.

Planning Board chairman Otto E. Schaefer urged approval of the committees. He said a capital improvement committee—to coordinate building expenses for the next six years— would require town departments to get together to discuss anything which increases the value of the town's physical assets by $50,000.

Such a committee would eliminate duplication, he said.

There was little opposition, except from TMM Hewis, who called the proposal an effort by the Finance Committee "to control town meeting."

Schaefer said a design and architectural review commission would be "an effort to see what the town might do to help facelift old properties and see that new properties are harmonious."

He called it a significant step in "controlling what people can do and can not do on their properties." The commission would primarily be concerned with buildings in Winchester Center, he said.

"Here we go again," said Hewis, "establishing another committee and we've only been here half an hour. There is no reason in the world the center is not properly developed—except one. The Planning Board is not doing its job."

He added that whether a person "Is going to have two shades of purple on his house, or its going to be yellow brick or red brick is his own damn business."

The article spurred discussion by members on the conditions in Winchester Center. TMM Andrew D. Morrison, in favor of the proposal, said the center is "becoming a discount shopping center." TMM William R. Zettler, against the measure, said only businessmen can revitalize the center.

The proposal passed on a voice vote.

In a final matter, the meeting voted to take by eminent domain 1,500 feet of the Cullen property at the end of River street (which is off Cross street). The town is going to install a culvert under the land for water drainage.

The meeting appropriated $800 for the owners, James and Helen Cullen, both of whom spoke against the measure. Cullen said the culvert, which cannot be built on, will divide his Aberjona waterfront land and prevent him from developing the property.

Asked for a solution to the problem—the present open drainage was called a health hazard—Cullen said leave the ditch where it is. Selectman Arthur E. Dunbar defended the proposal and said a road could be built over the culvert, providing Cullen with an access to his land.

He also said the eminent domain price was arrived at after the selectmen had the land

Commission Supported

Town meeting showed its support for creation of a charter commission to study restructuring the town government by voting funds at Wednesday's session for continuation of the Town Government Study Committee.

The highly charged issue was debated for 90 minutes. Those favoring a charter commission said its creation wouldn't necessarily mean the end of Winchester government as it is now structured.

Those opposed said the elected commissioners would be untrained in solving the town's problems, could revamp the entire government structure, including making Winchester a city, and any change in structure should be done through town meeting.

The meeting on a voice vote approved $1,000 for the committee to continue its work.

Committee chairman Robert J. Grenzeback opened debate: "There is a lot of room for improvement in the way we manage our affairs." He said the town's structure has existed with little change for 150 to 200 years.

As outlined by committee members, a citizens' group will be formed next month to begin the referendum process to get the issue on the ballot next year. Nine commissioners would be elected at the same time.

Selectmen chairman Paul F. Amico asked if the committee's real purpose wasn't another attempt to create a public works department, a move the town meeting passed last year but was killed in a referendum.

Committee member Robert C. Ericson had earlier given a lengthy account of why the committee failed in its attempt to create a public works department. Gist of his argument was insufficient voter knowledge.

He said the committee will have 10 months "to organize voter education" on the charter commission issue. He added that if the citizens' group meeting in May has insufficient support to create a commission "the Town Government Study Committee would elect to become inactive." This would mean the end of the charter revision matter.

Rep. Harrison Chadwick spoke strongly in favor of a commission, arguing: "Government is constantly moving on. It has to renew itself and face examination and reorganization" As an example of "how government can become ineffective by neglect" he cited Massachusetts counties.

Selectman John J. Sullivan offered the strongest opposition, calling creation of a charter commission "dangerous" because of the great changes the commission could recommend to the voters. He added that the establishment of a commission should come directly from the citizens, rather than from the Town Government Study Committee.

The Finance Committee supported the move. "Believe me, ladies and gentlemen," said chairman Lawrence T. Smith, "improvement is needed--and now!--in view of rising taxes."

—Appropriated $1,000 for a drug education program conducted by Concern;

—Established a council on the aging to coordinate and design programs for the elderly, $3,200 voted;

—Voted $2,500 for the Town History Committee to publish a history of the town;

—Approved $1,800 for the Permanent Building Committee and heard a report from the committee on leaks at the new high school. Attempts are being made to correct 50 roof leaks and leaking windows.

At the same meeting, School Committeeman Stephen R. Parkhurst said the meeting will be asked tonight to reduce the school budget to reflect the continuation of St. Mary's School.

Pupils from St. Mary's would have been added to the public schools and money had been appropriated for this.

Industries To Hold Clean-Up Day Saturday

Swift Edible Oil Company, J. H. Winn Co. and Winchester Carton personnel have enlisted the aid of about 150 CYO members and boy scouts in the town of Winchester to carry on a "Keep America Beautiful Day" this Saturday.

The clean-up will begin at 9 a.m. and continue until 3-3:30 p.m. and cover Cross st., part of Washington st., the Leonard pool and park area, and Davidson park.

According to Carl Woolsey, controller of the Swift Company who is acting as coordinator for the environmental effort, the purpose of the clean-up is to demonstrate to residents that the "ecology battle is of concern to the town's industries." He said it is hoped "we will be able to continue similar programs on a quarterly basis."

Others who have been working on the program have been Nick Carter of J. H. Winn Co., Maxwell Myers of Winchester Carton, and Jim Bolger, plant manager, Bob McGinnis, technical director, and John Pietrantonio, shift foreman, all employees of Swift.

Town Runs Out Of Gas This July

The town has received no bids on gasoline and will run out of supplies for all town vehicles, including police and fire, July 1 unless a supplier is found.

This word came Monday at the Board of Selectmen's meeting from Highway Superintendent Robert G. O'Brien, whose department handles the town's gasoline supply.

O'Brien said four major gasoline firms, including the present supplier, Gulf Oil Co., were asked to bid for the 95,000 gallons most of the town departments will use over the next 18 months.

"We are not alone," he told the board. A lot of communities have not received bids." One company, Texaco, even refused to return a telephone bid request from the town, he said. The others said they would not bid.

"We're not really pressed at this immediate time," O'Brien said. The nationwide gasoline shortage, which has resulted in the closing of one gasoline station in Winchester, is the cause of the lack of bids.

"We can't let the police and fire vehicles go without gasoline," O'Brien said, adding that gasoline is also vital to snow-fighting equipment in the winter.

He said Stoneham has managed to find an outfit to find a supplier for its police department. "We'll have to pay their (suppliers') price," O'Brien said when asked what happens if no bid is received after July 1.

In other matters, the board voted to have O'Brien assign a man to clean up the litter in Winchester Center "as soon as possible." A complaint had been received from the Winchester Business Association about the "trashy" look in the center.

"At the moment there is litter everywhere," WBA president Nancy Dressler wrote, "and I urge you to correct the problem

Rehearse Plans For Fire Escape

Everybody takes a new lease on life when spring rolls around. And that lease on life -- for a person and his family -- will be more certain if he has planned and practiced a family fire drill.

"This is another kind of spring clean-up action -- cleaning up any misunderstandings about what to do if fire should strike your home," says Fire Chief I. Francis Amico. "National Fire Protection Association records indicate that the majority of lives taken by home fires might have been saved if people had planned and rehearsed ways to escape.

"So plan and practice today -- for a safer tomorrow," says the chief.

Here are pointers to help one plan:

1. Carefully figure out at least two routes to the outside from every room in the house, especially bedrooms. Allow for blocking of stairways or halls by fire.

2. Particularly for nightime fires, remember that closed bedroom doors will hold back flame and smoke, allowing extra time for escape or rescue.

3. For upper floor escape, use any available porch and garage roofs and ladders as ways down to safety. Be sure exit windows work easily, and that they are low and large enough to get through.

4. Pick an outside assembly point where the family will met for a "roll-call," AND BE SURE EVERYONE KNOWS THE RULE, "once out, stay out!"

5. Know how to call the Fire Department, by street box or neighbor's telephone, and do this as quickly as the house is clear of people.

6. Plan who will look out for infants and the infirm, and how.

Once plans are made, urges Chief Amico, it's important for all the family -- including the children -- to rehearse carefully and regularly.

on a regular and continuing basis so that we better reach some of our other mutual long-range goals."

The board agreed with O'Briens recommendation that a man be assigned the task on a daily basis. Reduction in overtime money and the sickness of the regular clean-up man, Richard Goddard, were cited by O'Brien.

The Winchester Housing Authority asked the board for notification when a special town meeting will be held. The authority is interested in acquiring the Lincoln School property for elderly housing and will insert an article in the special meeting warrant.

The selectmen expressed interest in receiving the names of candidates for associate members of the Board of Appeals. There are two appointments to be made and only four candidates have come forward.

The selectmen are particularly interested in hearing from lawyers. One of the two back-up appeals slots is for an attorney.

The board referred to town counsel for possible action by town meeting on a proposal to ban drinking in public in Winchester.

There is a bill pending in the legislature to allow towns to ban public drinking. "I would favor enactment of such a by-law," Police Chief Edward F. Bowler said.

Town meeting member Robert P. Joyce notified the board of his desire for appointment to the Recreation Committee. The selectmen sent his letter to Recreation with the comment they will interview the candidates for the two openings this year.

In a final matter, the board voted to extend all existing taxi cab licenses in Winchester for 30 days. Several taxi companies in town have become embroiled in a controversy over licenses and the board wants to set a policy on the number of licenses each company should have.

"Every time they have a complaint they use us as a sounding board," said Selectman John J. Sullivan. "It's ridiculous."

Mrs. Winn Gives Testimony To FTC

Mrs. Maureen Winn of 10 West Chardon rd. was one of two area handicapped persons called to Boston Monday to give testimony before a Federal Trade Commission attorney who flew in from Washington to meet with Mrs. Winn and others in the office of the executive secretary of the Consumer Council, a private organization dedicated to the best interests of consumers.

They discussed the purchase and quality of medical appliances such as wheelchairs, costs, and monoplies of about four suppliers across the nation. As a result the Federal Trade Commission representative has promised, to look into the matter in greater detail with the possibility of getting anti-trust action in the medical appliance field, Mrs. Winn said.

Borggaard To Lead Tour Of Old Canal

A group of the faculty of Medford High School, under the leadership of TMM John Bradley, have asked Clarence Borggaard to show them Old Middlesex Canal. Weather permitting they will congregate at Borggaard's home on 22 Franklin rd., off Pierrepont rd., Saturday at 9 a.m. sharp.

Several local people have indicated an interest in joining the tour. All are welcome. If interested bring along your car and your camera. For more information contact John Bradley, 4 Highland View rd.

Town meeting meets Mondays and Thursdays at 7:45 p.m. in the new high school. Public may attend.

Registration Opens Monday For Summer School Program

Parents scheduling summer activities may now fill out their agenda with summer school plans. This year's six week session, running from July 2 through August 10, will feature credit and non-credit courses at the secondary level and remedial and developmental reading, basic studies, laboratory and kindergarten readiness programs for elementary level students.

According to Frederick J. Murray, summer school director, about 25 percent of the total school population has been recommended for specific programs. Summer school brochures have been mailed to these persons. Recommendations have not yet been made at the secondary level since fourth quarter grades are needed.

Brochures are available at all schools for all programs. Registration and handling of fees will begin this Monday. Parents may fill out the correct forms for the chosen programs, blue for Winchester courses, yellow for Winchester-Lesley College classes.

Enrollments will be accepted up to June 28. As courses become filled, however, acceptance will be on a first come, first served basis with preference given to residents. Actual scheduling of courses listed in the brochures is dependent upon sufficient registration in a course.

Lesley College has withdrawn its participation in the learning disabilities program this summer, making that program a completely Winchester-run offering.

Lesley had requested more funds for the learning disabilities program, saying specifically that more instructors were necessary. The Winchester School Committee did not grant the extra funds for this program which Murray said will be "pretty much the same" as last year.

Additional funds were also asked for by Lesley for its enrichment program. Although this request was also denied, the college will continue to sponsor this summer offering. Vinson-Owen will house a laboratory school for elementary students presently completing grades K-5 and a kindergarten readiness program for children who will be entering kindergarten in September, 1973, from the Ambrose, Parkhurst, Vinson-Owen and Wyman Schools.

These two programs will also be held at Muraco School for children at the Lincoln, Muraco, Mystic, Noonan and Washington Schools. All sessions will be held from 8:30 to 11:45 a.m.

Fees under the family discount plan for both schools will be residents: $25, first child; $15, second; $10, third, and $5, all others; and non-residents: $35, first; $25, second, $15, third, and $10, all others.

Remedial reading, developmental reading, basic primary studies for grade three and basic intermediate studies for grade 6 will be held at Muraco School. Basic studies, "courses designed to reshore basic weaknesses in skill development," are also scheduled at Vinson-Owen for Ambrose, Parkhurst, Vinson-Owen and Wyman School students. Recommendations for basic studies have been mailed.

Learning disabilities for pupils presently in grades one to six will take place between 8:30 and 11:45 a.m. at Vinson-Owen. The shift from Muraco, where this program was held last summer, is expected to relieve overcrowding experienced last year. Fees for this program only are residents: $50, first child; $15, second; $10, third; and $5, all others; and non-residents: $60, first; $25, second; $15, third, and $10, all others.

The secondary level program consisting of academic and general interest courses will be housed in Winchester High School. Courses for credit are offered for purposes of make-up, upgrading and advance credit. Students enrolled in credit courses may not miss more than four classes if credit is to be extended. Review, preview and general interest are focused upon in non-credit situations.

Offerings under English are English review for pupils presently in grades seven and eight, English I, II, III and IV for grades nine, 10, 11 and 12, creative writing workshop for grades eight to 11 and remedial developmental reading for grades seven to nine and 10 to 12.

Mathematics courses include review arithmetic for grades seven through nine, preview of algebra, grades eight and nine, elementary algebra, plane geometry (prerequisite elementary algebra) and intermediate algebra (prerequisite plane geometry).

Foreign languages programmed for summer school are French I and II and Spanish I and II. General interest courses will be personal typing and driver training.

Fees for the remedial and developmental reading, basic studies and secondary level programs are residents: $25, first child; $15, second; $10, third; and $5, all others; and non-residents: $35, first; $25, second; $15, third, and $10, all others. One student taking two courses at the secondary level will be allowed a $10 discount on the second course, driver training excluded. Driver training is $47 per student with no family discount plan. Terminal date for tuition refunds is July 11.

More detailed information is available in the brochures or from Fred Murray at the high school.

State Police To Play Legislators In Hockey Benefit

The second annual hockey game between the state police and Massachusetts legislators will be played tomorrow at 8 p.m. at the Joyce Arena in Woburn. Proceeds from the benefit game will go to the Handicapped Young Adult Club of Massachusetts (HYA).

The state police team has been practicing diligently since last fall for this encounter to avenge last year's loss.

The legislator's team has been undefeated over the past several years. Among their stalwart performers are Sen. Ron MacKenzie, Burlington; Sen. Steve McGrail, Wakefield; Rep. Jack Cusack, Arlington; and former Bruins stars Fernie Flaman and Don McKenney.

While benefitting the Handicapped Youth, viewers will also see an excellent hockey game. Members of HYA come from Burlington, Arlington, Lexington, Melrose, Wakefield, Winchester, Stoneham, and Woburn.

Tickets may be purchased at the door or by calling any of the above legislators. For further information contact Sen. Ronald C. MacKenzie at the State House, Boston or in Burlington.

appraised. Cullen refused to state what a fair price would be. But the town meeting member said he wasn't asking $50,000.

Planning Board chairman Schaefer said the town meeting over the years "has wasted hundreds of thousands of dollars because it won't take land by eminent domain. The town has a right to take the land and Cullen has a right to go to court." Cullen is a former selectman.

The meeting voted 130 to 42 in favor of taking the land. Last year's town meeting voted 77-60 in favor but it failed then because a two-thirds vote is required for land takings.

Accidentally Overheard

In Greek mythology, the sphinx was a composite monster having the head of a woman, the body of a lion, and the wings of a bird. According to legend, she proposed a riddle to the Thebans slaying all who were unable to guess it. The riddle was, "What is it which has four feet in the morning, two at noon and three at night?" When Oedipus solved the question with his answer, "Man," the sphinx threw herself over a cliff and perished.

HS Club Raises Money To Assist Viet Children

EDITOR OF THE STAR:

A new club was formed in the senior high at the beginning of this school year. It was organized with the help of some members of the debate club and a teacher, Ms. Lise Kenworthy. The club's aim was to involve its members in social action programs and start some projects of its own. Action '72 was chosen for its name.

In September, October, and November the members split into two groups; one worked to aid the Republican campaign, the other helped the Democrats. Before the election the students had raised money and canvassed for the two parties. They also discussed and debated the issues involved in that campaign. Representativies from both parties came to the senior high, talked with the students, and helped them organize. Action '72 members learned about the electoral process. They think the club is a worthwhile educational experience.

After a less active winter and a change of name to Action '73, the club plans a busy spring. Althought the members had disagreements about the war, they all believe that raising money to aid Vietnamese children is an important and urgent project that will be supported by the town.

Last month they began selling lollipops during lunchtime in the cafeteria. They raised money, $125 so far, and educated other students about the need for aid to these children, too. Now they plan to canvass the town to raise additional funds to be sent to Vietnamese children. They hope the residents of Winchester will greet them with as much enthusiasm as the students have for this project.

Nice Ice

EDITOR OF THE STAR:

As a skater I would like to thank the Universal Sports Arena for building such a nice rink in our town. I have found that USA has about the best ice around, and I consider myself fortunate to finally have such nice ice close to my home. It is a lot easier to skate in my own town rather than having to travel to get to a rink.

Also my brother Kevin and I have skated at USA since it opened, and at neither hockey or figure skating has there ever been a lack of parking spaces.

I would like to thank everyone who was responsible in getting this rink.

One-Session Day

EDITOR OF THE STAR:

Within the next 10 days a questionnaire regarding the school lunch program will be distributed to all Winchester elementary school parents. The point of the questionnaire is to see if there is, in fact, majority support for a townwide one session elementary school day from September through June.

"One session" incorporates a shortened classroom lunch period (usually 30 minutes) and earlier afternoon dismissal. The advantage of one session is in winter when it alleviates the hazards of walking or riding in the snowy and icy weather.

The early dismissal permits the children to walk home in the afternoon before it starts getting dark. However, one session has distinct disadvantages in the good weather spring and fall—not the least of which often is a complete breakdown of discipline during the lunch hour confinement, particularly when outdoor temperatures climb over 65, 75, and even 85 degrees.

I am writing this to alert parents to one alternative that will meet the new state requirement for an in-school lunch program and incorporate the best of Winchester's traditional two-session day with the advantages of the one session. Why not a two session day (1½ hour lunch recess) in fall and spring and a one session day (30 minute in-school lunch period) from after Thanksgiving to spring vacation?

There is nothing dramatic, new or unworkable about this scheduling; adjoining communities, Arlington and Medford, have done this for years. The only new aspect would be a small additional number of students added to the present bus children staying at school in spring and fall and one additional lunchroom supervisor to watch over them in some schools.

The legislature's mandatory in-school lunch provision is not meant to destroy the advantages of the suburban neighborhood school. This is not a ghetto; our streets are not unsafe for walking at noon. This is not a primarily working mother community where in-school lunches would complement day care centers in meeting childcare needs.

Nor is it Lincoln, Weston, or Concord where two and three acre house lots create prohibitive walking distances. All communities must now provide for the children of those mothers, working or away from home during the day who prefer to have their children eat in school even in their primary years, and so we will. But let us also provide for the vast numbers who want their children to have an unstructured hour, to have the home contact, the purposeful exercise, and return refreshed and invigorated for an afternoon's learning.

Let us allow our children to walk back and forth at noon in the fall and spring, have a grilled cheese sandwich, share their morning's complaints and pleasures at home with mother, sister and brother. In place of this, one session offers eight weeks (Apr.-June) of minimum 4½ hour old tunafish salad sandwiches (unrefrigerated) with an untrained lunchroom supervisor hired ostensibly to keep 50 children corraled for a stated period. (Al Vinson-Owen both teachers and principal attest one session afternoons are much less productive for learning than were the two session afternoons. The children are "cranky, keyed up and tired" despite the earlier dismissal.)

Our new School Department budget includes for the first time a $39,000 plus figure for elementary school lunchroom supervisors and $130,000 plus for elementary school contracted lunches (assuming 95 percent participation). Since the experimental program began last January, there has been a drop to 9 percent participation of children purchasing lunch.

I believe with a real alternative to staying in school for lunch in the fall and spring, the percentage of children opting to stay would likewise plummet. We're losing a great deal more than our considerable tax dollars when we turn another aspect of the care and responsibility for our children over to the state through the schools.

The schools are doing their job teaching our children. That's job enough. They are not meant to babysit for them. Mothers, the few hours of freedom are small return for what we and our children will lose.

Library Queries Finance Committee On Its Priorities

EDITOR OF THE STAR:

I recently sent the following letter to Lawrence Smith, chairman of the Finance Committee. Since I believe the matter involves general town priorities, I am submitting it to you for publication:

"Dear Larry:

I really believe the finance committee and the town meeting owe one to the library. In the next session following defeat of air conditioning of the main reading room of the library, almost as much money as we requested was appropriated instead to light tennis courts and playgrounds, without one word being said concerning the problems of the 18-month budget or alternative priorities among various town departments.

In recommending unfavorable action on our project, you stated that this was not the year to engage in non-essential expenditures, and you also suggested that our project was, in any event, in your opinion a low priority item.

At the very least, I believe the library, and the town in general, is entitled to an explanation as to why you believe the lighting of playgrounds is sufficiently essential to be done this year and why you believe that is a higher priority project than improving the library. To put it in the mildest possible way, I believe the library has been given short shrift.

I will be most interested in a public explanation as to why the lighting of a playground to permit evening softball games is a higher priority than providing a measure of comfort to users of our otherwise excellent library facility. It is a considerable disappointment to me to think that evening softball is a higher priority item in the Town of Winchester than quality library service.

I hope that when my successor resubmits our project next time, the library will be treated with more consideration."

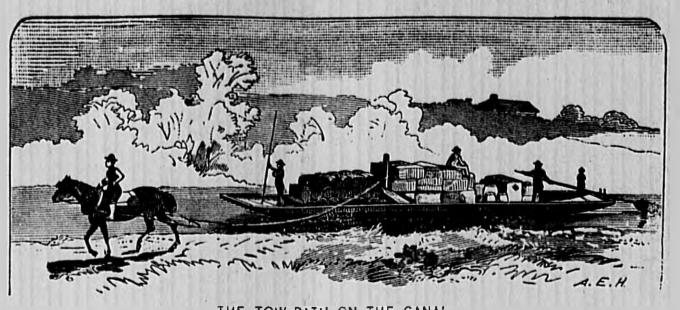
THE MIDDLESEX CANAL



THE TOW-PATH ON THE CANAL

No Coincidence Canal St. Intersects Middlesex Street

By Clarence Borggaard

This is the conclusion of an article on the Middlesex Canal begun in last week's Star.

Just beyond the bridge on the Mystic Valley Parkway over the Aberjona River, there is a beautifully preserved yellow mansion on the left.

This is the old Bacon House, named for the man who operated the long-gone Bacon Felt Works across the railroad at this point. Bacon street was named for him.

Near the end of Everett avenue (named for Gov. Edward Everett) is Sheffield road on the right. Acorss the avenue is the little roadway known as Edgewater place.

At the loop, or turn-around, which forms the end of this way, we should be able to see between the houses a mound of grass-covered earth with trees growing on it located at the edge of the Aberjona River. This is a vestige, purposely left standing, of the northern anchor of the old causeway, or aqueduct, which crossed the river here. The mound is quite probably a short section of the actual tow-path. Here the canal crossed the Aberjona, of "Symmes Brook" as it was known in those days.

Edgewater place was laid out only a decade or so ago and follows almost exactly the bed of the old canal. When certain foundation work was being performed on the house being built at the northwest corner of the place, a number of large granite slabs, or pillars, were exposed. These must have been remnants of the old aqueduct or may be part of the lock operated there.

The oak timbers embedded in the brickwork of the house across the street at the corner of Sheffield road, may have been taken from the ruins of the aqueduct.

Leaving Edgewater place on its way north, the canal passed under the new house at the Cambridge street side of the intersection of Edgewater place and Everett avenue (not in existence then) and went across under the garage of the house across the street, the last house on Everett avenue on the right going toward Cambridge street.

Here the canal curved right and headed northeast, between Sheffield road and Glen road. A short distance north from Everett avenue, somewhere near the present Gardner place (off Cambridge street) was Gardner Tavern.

Here, also were the Gardner "double locks" and storage reservoir, or marshalling area, between Sheffield West and Gardner place. Here also, of course, was the northern end of the aqueduct which was 127 feet long and crossed the Aberjona River. The locks equalized the level of the waters between the Stone Locks at Canal and Middlesex streets and the Middlesex Canal as it ran along the present Mystic Lakes. The adjusted level was maintained until the canal crossed the Mystic River at West Medford.

Between the double row of trees roughly midway between the Sheffields and Glen road, in the general direction of the juncture of present day Bacon and Church streets, there is a paved roadway in the bed of the old canal. It serves as a means of access to barns and garages built by residents of the two streets between which the roadway runs. The abutters seem to claim only the outside of the row of trees, leaving the site of the old canal common properly.

But further down toward Gardner place, the abutters have erected a sort of party fence, about halfway between the rows of trees; and this arrangement seems to prevail in this area, with a few exceptions.

Some have claimed the whole canal and have erected a fence at the row of trees on their neighbor's side.

Opposite Oxford street, on Church street, was "Huffmaster's Bridge." The canal was crossed by what is now Church street, the only place, incidentally, where the canal was crossed in Winchester. Just beyond the Woburn line, at the present Lake avenue, there seems to have been another bridge.

Northerly from Church street, the canal cut across the lawn of the big house that stands on the northwest corner of the intersection of Church and Fletcher streets and turned east and then north again to cut across what is now Fletcher street and continued parallel to Fletcher street to the intersection with Wildwood street.

The route of the old canal can still be followed behind the row of houses on the right of Fletcher street, heading toward Wildwood street. In fact, the back fence of the Wyman School yard is built exactly on the boundary line of the canal. The drop-off beyond the fence is the ancient cut through the gravel of that area.

The canal crossed over Wildwood street to run along the base of the high gravel hillside behind the fence of Wildwood Cemetry, bringing the route near Palmer street. Palmer street at the Wildwood street end may lie in the bed of the canal. But at a point just about opposite the roadway leading down to the Wedge Pond bathing area, and turning left and going through the gateway of the lower cemetery where the tool sheds now are, the canal avoided the high ground on Palmer street and cut left, at grade, through the lower corner of the cemetery.

The canal emerged from the cemetery area close to the first house on the left as one turns north on Middlesex street and continued along Middlesex street to where it now crosses Horn Pond Brook. Please note that a street called "Middlesex" and a street called "Canal" street intersect here. Surely this is no coincidence. We may reasonably assume that a canal called the Middlesex must have passed somewhere close by.

At the crossing of Horn Pond Brook there was a set of locks called the Great Stone Locks. They stood here until about 1921 and were torn down for construction of houses. Much of the granite block material from the locks was saved by the Brooks, from the Brooks Estate, off Grove street, and can be seen lying in the grass and bushes at the town forest off Chardon street, near Symmes Corner.

At the Great Stone Locks was where water for the operation of the canal, in addition to the major quantity from the high point at the crossing of the Concord River in Billerica, was taken on to help carry the traffic to Boston.

The primary purpose of the lock here, however, was not to add water to the canal, but to raise or lower the water level to correspond to the lower, major set of locks a few miles up the canal, where Arlington road, Woburn (in the bed of the old canal), was forced to climb up out of the Boston Basin area to the height of the land above Woburn and beyond.

From Boston to Horn Pond the water level of the canal had slowly been raised, lock after lock, to about 40 or 50 feet. Here at Horn Pond it rose, by three sets of double locks (or six locks), one behind the other, to a height of 100 feet or more; after which the water level varied only slightly the rest of the way. It was, in fact, only seven feet higher at its highest point, where it crossed the Concord and took on all its water.

Shocked

EDITOR OF THE STAR:

I usually listen to a talk show at night on radio and was shocked at hearing an educated woman making fun of our President's facial features. How mean can you get? Who can help our bodies or our facial features?

I am surprised at so many of our so-called Christians and nice people who do this. I always say they should look in the mirror and take a good look. I am sure they have flaws in their faces.

I am not for Mr. Nixon as he vetoes everything good for our low paid man or woman.

So many people look at a pretty or handsome person and think they are okay.

Our prisons are full of these beautiful people.

Radical Changes By Commission Unlikely; Women's Lib Wins A Round At TM

The vehement opposition to a charter commission expressed by the Board of Selectmen (or at least by two members of the board) is surprising since the nine commissioners would be elected and thus could include the selectmen and other members of the ruling Winchester political establishment.

In fact, in all likelihood many of the commissioners would be drawn from the ranks of present and past office holders since these names are the most familiar to voters.

The selectmen fear a commission will radically change the town's governmental structure, including possible elimination of the Board of Selectmen and town meeting.

Such is very remote. The town's voters apparently are well satisfied with the way things are since only 33 percent of them bothered to vote in the last town election. Maybe one would argue: But the electorate wasn't given a chance to vote for anyone really different; all the candidates were the same.

All the candidates weren't the same. The major problem was in finding where they differed. There is a limited public forum in Winchester for bringing out differences.

In any case, all of the commission's recommendations (if a commission is approved by the voters) would be either accepted or rejected by the electorate.

Sound the gong for women's lib. A silent protest of sorts has been going on at this year's town meeting over the failure of the moderator to appoint women members as tellers. (Tellers count the votes in each section of seats when there is a standing vote.)

Several of the women town meeting members in recent sessions have been sitting in aisle seats, grimly waiting for Moderator Raymond J. Kenney Jr. to appoint them. They never said anything until last Wednesday. When the word reached the moderator of the protest he said he would name woman as tellers and Monday night he did--Catherine Fallon and Mary Meader.

As far as anyone knows, women tellers are a first for Winchester. A chorus of surprised cries was heard when Kenney announced Fallon's and Meader's appointments. (We'll go along with women's lib and drop the Mrs.) Kenney said it had never occured to him to appoint women.

Kenney, incidentally, does a remarkable job as moderator, keeping the names of 230 town meeting members straight, maintaining decorum and observing proper parliamentary procedure, often an arduous task with amendments, motions to defer, indefinitely postpone and substitute: He does it all with unhurried aplomb and respect for the members' wishes.

One of the oddest requests this year came from TMM Mary Pronski, who asked that whoever is speaking when the 8:30 train goes by hold off until it passes.

A Winchester housewife who shops by the bulk—every four months—really has noticed the radical increase in food prices. For four months' supply of food, ending in mid-December, she paid $422; for the four months ending mid-April, $578.

The housewife had ordered more but subtracted that from her calculation, which came out with the phenomenal increase of $131.

The housewife had these figures at hand. A full loin in December cost her $108, vs. $143 in April; ground hamburg, $1.09 lb. vs. $1.29; and rump and round beef, 96 cents vs. $1.21.

Let's figure out what the total cost of rump and round for the housewife came to. Based on the number of pounds she bought, her bill came to $62.40 vs. $73.85 this month. Thank you, Mr. Nixon.

May 1 is the tentative date set for firefighter Joseph Riga's hearing before the Civil Service Commission. The State House hearing was requested by Riga following his seven-day suspension by Fire Chief I. Francis Amico, who accused Riga of Refusing to work overtime when requested to do so.

Riga hopes the hearing will settle who works overtime when an officer fails to report for work. Riga maintains another officer should fill in. His lawyer maintains that a hearing before Chief Amico on Riga's failure to work was illegal since the Board of Selectmen are the appointing authority for firefighters.

Not so, says selectmen executive secretary Edward Donnelly, who told the board this week the Civil Service Commission has twice ruled in favor of similar hearings.

ERRATA: Last week's Star showed a picture of a concrete truck that tipped over on White street (a crane later pulled the truck out). The story accompanying the picture said the truck had been pouring cement.

A caller to The Star pointed out that cement and concrete are far from being the same. Cement comes in little bags, the retired contractor said, and is liquid. Concrete, however, is a gravelly substance. Not only that, concrete is not poured, he said. It is "placed."

Last week's Star got two pictures mixed up. On page 12 longtime town meeting member Jeremiah McCarron's photo was placed in wrong by the printer and put where a picture of Frank N. Cardullo should have gone. Cardullo's visage went where McCarron's should have gone. This week we re-run the pictures and hope nothing goes wrong. (Printer, please observe.)

No one has claimed the errant dollar bill that floated down Church street last Wednesday and was retrieved by Officer Jasper R. Asaro. So The Star will donate it to a worthy charity.

And The Star thanks Officer Asaro for chasing the bill after it was called to his attention. It was all in the line of duty.

According to Lt. Andrew Crawford, the Internal Revenue Service also put a levy of $1,062 of the cash and checks seized by Winchester police in the raid. Bruce W. Swim of 20 Fells rd. paid the fine.

That Saturday morning a large quantity of substances believed to be drugs, some drug implements and more than $3,000 in cash and $300 in checks were taken into custody. The house had been under surveillance since Dec. 1 of last year by Winchester inspectors.

Consumer Advocate, Gregory Arabian, Is Lions Speaker

Tom Joslin of Winchester, a volunteer fireman for the Winchester Auxiliary Fire Department, was host to consumer advocate Gregory H. Arabian, a Boston attorney and local resident who was recently honored by the Lions Club of Burlington at their Patriots' Day Luncheon.

Attorney Arabian pointed to changes brought about by mass media advertising saying they had turned today's markets into a "hawker's dream." He said they pay little heed to consumer safety and protection.

As a result, Arabian stated, an increasing flow of products, which are in themselves dangerous, find their way to the counters and supermarkets without being pre-market tested, analyzed and inspected. Often they contain little or no instructions as to their proper usage. Warning to possible hazards are not given usually or are disguised in the form of an advertising gimmick.

He cited examples: automobile products which malfunction in ordinary operation; lawn and garden equipment; children's clothes which catch fire easily but which are difficult to extinguish; sports and camping equipment, including paraffin-impregnated cotton tents.

Inherently dangerous articles singled out by Arabian were, escape-proof tents with sewn-in floors, kerosene or gas powered camping lanterns and stoves, lawn mowers and edging power tools with inadequately shielded blades and whirring at very high speeds.

"The list is endless," Arabian stated, "and perhaps the only solution to the entire problem is to exercise doubt and skepticism at all times; this way you think twice before paying good money for a product; and you encourage manufacturers to stay in business.

Conversely, your decision not to buy a product which is dangerous, inadequately labeled as to instructions for usage or description of its possible danger, is a vote condemning that manufacturer and that particular product," he said.

28th Fund Drive

Profile Of Tom Page, Last Year's Scholarship Winner

The Winchester Scholarship Foundation is conducting its 28th fund-raising campaign this month.

Last year the Foundation offered for the first time a scholarship to a Winchester High School student desiring to make a career in music. This scholarship was made possible through the Winchester Music Club which arranged several community concerts, the proceeds of which went to provide basic funding for the scholarship.

Thomas Page, son of Mr. and Mrs. Stuart F. Page, 84 Woodside rd., was the first recipient of this scholarship.

Tom Page began his musical career in second grade when his dad played in an Army band and gave him his first clarinet. From then on he pursued music with his academic education until his graduation in 1972.

He played with the school band in fourth grade under Fred Murray; participated in the all-star band in fifth and sixth grades; was in the junior high school orchestra under John Woodworth; and finally spent three years with the high school orchestra under Wendell Withington.

During his last two years in high school he was a clarinetist with the Greater Boston Youth Symphony orchestra and during the summer of 1972 had an opportunity to tour Great Britain and Wales with this group.

Tom Page credits John Woodworth of the Winchester Music Department as being the person responsible for helping him decide to make the clarinet a lifetime career.

When his private teacher, Bill Street of Woburn, retired, Woodworth suggested that Tom begin lessons with Attillio Poto at the Boston Conservatory of Music. "From then on, I knew the clarinet was my lifetime career," Tom recalls. Woodworth also gave Page an opportunity to play publicly at school and faculty recitals in Winchester.

A high point in his experience was a concert in the ninth grade when he played along with Woodworth and three other professional musicians at a community concert. They played Mozart Clarinet Quartet in A Major.

Tom successfully auditioned for acceptance as a bachelor degree candidate at the Boston Conservatory of Music. He is studying English and Western Civilization along with harmony, theory and extensive performance in woodwind and orchestra groups. There are between 450 and 500 students at the Boston Conservatory, majoring in drama and dance as well as music, with the majority of students coming from outside the Boston area. The Winchester Scholarship Foundation helped with that important first year's tuition.

Tom had a word of advice for young music students. "Don't be discouraged. If you find you don't like one instrument, try another. Or change from piano to winds or the other way around. Somewhere you may discover you love music enough to make it a career."

Tom's long-term goal is to occupy a chair in the clarinet section of the Boston Symphony Orchestra.

Mrs. John B. Diamond

Melanie Rooney, John Diamond Are Wed In St. Mary's Church

A 3 o'clock Mass was held in St. Mary's Church on Sunday, Apr. 15, for Melanie Marie Rooney, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Francis X. Rooney of 247 Highland ave., and John Bernard Diamond, son of Mr. and Mrs. John H. Diamond Jr. of Winthrop.

The Rev. John H. O'Donnell officiated at the ceremony. A reception followed at the Towne Lyne House in Lynnfield.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a white peau de soie gown overlaid on the bodice by Alencon lace. A wedding band neckline, long sleeves accented by a flared cuff at the elbow, A-line skirt and watteau train with appliques of Alencon lace were featured. Her long mantilla veil was held in place by a contour fitted headpiece appliqued with pearl embroidered Alencon lace. She carried a cascade of white roses and baby's breath.

Maid of honor was Rachel Rooney of Winchester. Bridesmaids were Deborah Diamond of Winthrop, Mrs. Claire Rooney of West Medford, Mrs. Ann Dayton of Revere, Mrs. Yvonne Salvaggio of West Peabody and Mrs. Deborah Ulm of Center Harbor, N.H.

The bride's attendants chose pink voile gowns with an empire waistline and A-line, swingback skirt. A white sailor collar and white cuffs on the bishop sleeves completed the design. They held white satin baskets filled with pink sweetheart roses and white daisies.

Having the honor of best man was William Briggs of Winthrop. Joseph Zambella, Richard Goll and Edward Lally, all of Winthrop, and Ronald Ulm of Center Harbor seated guests.

Mrs. Rooney selected a beige and white gown, while the mother of the bridegroom attended in a gown of blue chiffon.

The bride is a stewardess for Delta Airlines.

Mr. Diamond is presently a student at Boston State College. He is a member of the Cottage Park Yacht Club of Winthrop.

The couple traveled to Caracas, Venezuela for their wedding trip.

Garden Club Sees Movies Of Scouts In Clean-Up Action

The Winchester Home and Garden Club heard about the Boy Scout Aberjona Clean-up Project at their recent meeting at Crawford Memorial United Methodist Church.

John Saylor, assistant senior patrol leader of Troop 507, Boy Scouts of America, showed movies of boy scouts in the Winchester, Stoneham, Woburn area for the past four years cleaning up a four-mile course from Salem st., Woburn to the Mystic Lakes in Winchester. This past year the boys recovered 33 truckloads of debris, he said.

During the business meeting Mrs. James Grassi, vice president, informed the membership, which had adopted girl scout troop 468 while they were earning the "green thumb badge," that the girls were bagging and distributing pine seedlings to Winchester schools' fourth grades for Arbor Day.

During refreshment time members and their guests viewed floral arrangements, paintings, collections and handicrafts artistically displayed by the club as a part of the members' participation program.

Mrs. Richard Carr, program director, introduced John Saylor.

"Cactus Flower" In Final Rehearsals, Opens May 4

By Catherine Fallon

"Cactus Flower," a comedy by Abe Burrows, is now in its final weeks of rehearsal prior to opening night, May 4, with additional performances May 5, 11 and 12 at 8:30.

Under the leadership of production manager Anne Guilderson, the production staff is busily engaged in solving problems involved in staging any theatrical show.

This production has a number of unique technical difficulties: The action of the play takes place in no fewer than 15 scenes scattered around uptown and downtown Manhattan, from an apartment, to a dentist's office, to a record shop, to a nightclub. Faced with the necessity of quick scene changes, set designers Roger Foskett and Art Stratis have come up with some creative multi-purpose units, which have been constructed under the leadership of Carl Boerner, with the help of Don Chipman, Jack Guilderson and Art Stratis.

Jean Fitzgerald is lending artistic talents to set decor, assisted by Mary Lou Leach. The lighting design was done by Fred Bush, Melrose, while the lighting crew consists of Carl Galante, chairman, with help from Steve Funk and Jo Hill.

Sound technicians Caryl and Dick Boyden must provide a wide range of musical effects from Bach to Rock. Jo Ricciardelli as property mistress is aided by Kathy DeBourke, Clare Dingwell and Debbie Ponti in keeping track of hand props for each of the 15 scenes. Ann Foskett and Paulett Taggart are co-chairmen of make-up.

Jean Berberian designed the "Cactus Flower" logo, and Donna Funk has served as photography coordinator, utilizing students from the Boston University School of Communications as her photographers.

Publicity has been handled by the writer and the program is being assembled by Cynthia Cooper.

Refreshments for the cast have been arranged by Mary Lou Leach, while Jeanne Ives has served as prompter.

Chosen as appropriate and beguiling fare for spring, this Parisian farce is filled with verbal and visual gags where fantasy replaces logic in a fun-filled frolic of subterfuge, deceit and pretence.

Advance ticket information is available from ticket chairman Mary Merritt, 55 Pond st., after 4 p.m. or from Georgia Gast, 3 Ardley pl. Tickets will be available at the door.

First Bike Rodeo Is This Sunday

The first of two bicycle rodeos for children in grades one to six will be held this Sunday in the parking lot behind the Winchester Police Station. Bike inspection and engraving and a rodeo test are featured.

Children should report at 2 p.m. each Sunday. Those in Cap League may come at 3 p.m. East side schools, Washington, Lincoln, St. Mary's, Mystic and Muraco, will be represented this Sunday. Students from west side schools — Ambrose, Parkhurst, Vinson-Owen, Wyman and Noonan — may participate on May 6.

First, second and third prizes will be awarded in each of the three age groups, grades one and two, grades three and four and grades five and six, for the rodeo test. Every child will receive a Ghost Rider comic book, ghost rider sticker, and if needed, a fluorescent sticker, and a bicycle drivers license.

Pupils should have a scoresheet-permission sheet, but will be admitted when an adult friend or the safety officer signs such a sheet. If a child can not be there on the day his school is assigned, he may go on the other day.

The events, under the guidance of Community Schools Association and Police Safety Officer John W. McKinley, are sponsored by the local merchants, Jaycees, Enka Society and the town's school highway and auxiliary fire departments.

Tomorrow At 5 Deadline For Cap League

Tomorrow at 5 p.m. is the deadline for early registration for boys who are interested in playing Cap League baseball. Application blanks may be obtained at the Winchester Sport Shop. There is a fee.

Final registrations will be accepted on opening day, Sunday, at the Ginn Field refreshment stand beginning at 2 p.m. After that, applications may be made only by direct appeal to the league director with acceptance not guaranteed.

All Winchester boys who will be seven years of age and will not have reached 11 before Aug. 1, 1973, are eligible. All who are registered before the deadline will be accepted if they are not playing for another organized baseball team.

A schedule of seven league and 3 bye games is planned for each team, to be played at Ginn, West Side, and Manchester Fields on Saturday and Sunday afternoons starting on May 5. Each Cap Leaguer will receive a numbered baseball cap, and will play in every game he attends.

In order to avoid delay, parents are urged to submit their son's application immediately, before early registration closes to assure playing on opening day.

S.S. Rep. Moves, Hours Unchanged

John E. Lonergan Jr., district manager of the Cambridge Social Security Office, announces the Social Security representative has moved his office from the Woburn Public Library to the Woburn City Hall. He will be there to assist area residents in filing applications or to answer questions regarding Social Security. There will be no change in hours which are Tuesday from 9 a.m. to 1 p.m.

Duplicate Bridge To Host Men's Pairs Championships

By Bridgette

On May 2, the Duplicate Bridge Club will host its double-header, the Mens' Pairs Championship. Members will compete for Chitel's Challenge Bowl, and the Womens' Pairs Championship, the Challenge Bowl donated by Anderson's Jewelers, continuing in business under the name of Andrews Jewelers.

Section A on April 18 featured a 73 percent game by Helen Mahoney and Ruth Jackson playing East-West; in the North-South direction Guy Mingolelli and Steve Haseltine were the winners.

Helen Mahoney and Ruth Jackson, 161½

In Section B Nancy Atkinson and Paul Sanderson won North-South, while in the top spot East-West were Bunny and Bill Frey, new members whose steady play usually puts them somewhere in the winners' column.

At one table, with East the dealer and East-West passing throughout, South makes the normal opening bid of 1D, North responding with 1H. What would you say next with the South hand?

The temptation is to bid 1NT, promising stoppers in the other suits; 2C, however, better describes the hand.

Then, after a 3C bid by North, South again has a choice, swinging for 3NT or passing, and with a minimum hand, no fit in partner's hearts, and especially since North had a chance to bid 2NT over South's 2C bid if he'd had a spade stopper, pulling in his horns and passing seems the best bet.

Looking at all four hands, South can make 4C via various routes: NT, however, is a disaster, as five Souths discovered, all being set. In fact, of the eight Souths getting the contract, just two made a positive score, - in the partial club bid. The other South was in 5C, down one.

Luxury hotels, palatial homes, miles of shoreline, and white sand beaches -- these characterize sophisticated Jamaica. Jamaica is now an independent nation in the British Commonwealth, but its customs are still very British. There's polo, and dressing for dinner, and afternoon tea. But there's another Jamaica as well; a fine, warm land with swimming, diving, water skiing, and all the fine warm weather sports. And with all the pirates and buccaneers in Jamaican history -- who knows, you might even find some buried treasure!

Winchester Mites Win Over Woburn 6-5 In Opener

Co-captain Chris Parker and Tommy Sullivan led the Mites of Winchester Youth Hockey to a 6-to-5 sudden death overtime win over Woburn in the opening round of the Middlesex Youth Hockey League Mites playoffs recently.

This was a big win for the high flying Mites, who after losing to Woburn a month ago came from three goals down with five minutes to go to gain a tie in regulation.

Mike Gorrasi started things off early in the first period when he blew down the right side with a Danny Sullivan feed and popped it in the upper corner. Tommy Sullivan got number two. Taking an Allen McCarthy pass, he pulled the trigger in the right slot and caught the short side. Tommy Sullivan kept the pressure on when he put it home from out in front. Tony Celli assisted.

Chris Parker took over from here and ran the next three. With two minutes to go, he caught a Mike Gorrasi feed and popped the strings on a downed goalie for the Mites' fourth goal. With 27 seconds left, Tommy Sullivan broke a jammed puck loose and passed to Chris Parker. Chris fired it home for a tie in regulation.

In sudden death overtime, Winchester kept the pressure on and at the three minute mark that going combination of Tommy Sullivan and Chris Parker went to work again. Tommy found Chris at the left corner and Chris caught the goalie going the wrong way -- bang! The big 6 to 5 win.

Skating well were "Penalty Killers" Brian Cohen and Scotty Stillman along with Center Eric Paskerian and Wings' Mike Surabian and Jimmy Coppins, who helped out on defense.

The third line was flying with Mike McCarthy and Bobby DiVincenzo in wing while the defense was bolstered by Ned White and Tom Mahoney. Pat Falla made a number of good saves in goal. Billy Eaton was missed at wing.

Winchester lost to Lexington in the second round 7 to 4. Co-captain Chris Parker led the scorers with two goals while single pops came from co-captain Tony Celli and Tommy Sullivan. These goals came off two assists by Tommy Sullivan with the others coming from Allen McCarthy, Tony Celli and Chris Parker.

Belmont, Burlington Lose To Sachem 9

By John F. Parrell

Coach Bill Colella's baseball team rebounded from its heartbreaking opening day loss to the Watertown Raiders by downing Belmont 4-2 at Manchester Field recently.

As a result of the first two rounds of action, eight of the 10 Middlesex League teams have even records with one win and one loss. The Stoneham Spartans have won two; newcomer Burlington has lost a pair.

Rudy Fiore, who came on in the tenth inning of the Watertown game and lost it due to shaky support and some wildness on his own part, was master of the Marauders throughout. He allowed only two hits. But some questionable baseball cost him his shutout.

The first run came across on a wild throw by an infielder. The second was a result of the Sachem team leaving the field with only two outs, and the Belmont runner trotted home.

Besides limiting the visitors to two hits, Fiore fanned four, and issued only two walks. It was a fine comeback performance by the veteran left hander. Tom Brennan and Gary Beard each had two hits for Winchester. The final Sachem run came when Mike Heffernan belted a homerun in the sixth inning.

The summary of the Belmont game.

Blackhawks Upset Red Wings 4-3

St. Eulalia's Bantam Blackhawks upset the previously undefeated Redwings 4-3. The Hawks broke out on top 2-1 in first period action as Jack Cadagan and John Arekelian each had a goal and an assist. Joe Buckley tallied for the Wings with an assist to Mark Souza.

Second period action showed close checking. Jack Cadagan picked up his second goal of the night on a pass from John Arakelian. Bob Quine also chipped in to give the Hawks a temporary 4-1 lead. Then Mike O'Riordan closed the count to 4-2 at 6:28 of the second period followed by Joe Buckley's second goal less than two minutes later to finish the scoring at 4-3.

Bruins In Squirt Hockey Action Tie

Saturday evening St. Eulalia Squirt action saw the North Stars come from behind 3-1 to tie the Bruins at 3-all, after playing a scoreless first period.

The North Stars broke on top 1-0 as Paul Chiara lit the lamp just 14 seconds into the second period, and 1:46 later Steve Moros tied it up.

Later with goals by Mike DellaSala and Greg Diffley, the Bruins appeared to have this one wrapped up by ending the second period, on top 3-1.

Third period action saw both teams playing even, until 1:40 remaining in in the game, Mark Frongillo found the range to make it 3-2. With 48 seconds left to play, Steve Tucci whacked the tying goal to keep the North Stars undefeated before an enthusiastic crowd at USA Rink.

Sachem Speedsters Trounce Belmont

By John F. Parrell

Winchester High School's outdoor track forces, coached by Manny Marshall, opened their season recently with an impressive victory over the Marauders of Belmont with a score of 95-45.

The local team carried off an even dozen of the 15 first places and won the relay. It was by far the best all around performance in several years, due in no small measure to the unusually large number of boys out for track this spring.

There were several noteworthy performances for an opening meet: fine sprinting by Paul Tonello, excellent broad jumping by Peter Tilden, and some top notch middle distance running by Tony Guarente and Charlie Tatarian.

Rick Mullaney cleared the high jump bar at 6 feet 1 inch for another well deserved first place. Tilden's total of 44 feet 7 inches in the triple jump set a new school record in this latest event to be added to the program.

The summary:

Broad jump: Tilden (W), Tonello (W), Kelly (B)—distance 20 ft.¾ in.;

Discus: Macdonald (W), Salvucci (B), Lee (W)—distance 120 ft. 9 in.;

Javelin: O'Neil (B), Coulees (B), Nash (W) — distance 149 ft. 6 in.;

High jump: Mullaney (W), Franko (B), Turco (B) — height 6 ft. 1 in.;

Two mile: Faulkner (B), DeMars (W), Trefon (W) — time 10 min. 27 sec.;

High hurdles: Kelly (B), Friborg (W), Mullaney (W) — time 16.2 sec.;

Shot put: Macdonald (W), Lee (W), Miniter (B) — distance 44 ft. 10½ in.;

Low hurdles: Friborg (W), Kelly (B), Meahl (W) — time: 14.2 sec.;

100-yard-dash: Tonello (W), Hatabian (B), Leonard (W) — time 10.7 sec.;

220-yard-dash: Tonello (W), Hatabian (B), Labedz (W) — time 23.1 sec.

440-yard-run: Guarente (W), Samoiloff (W), Riggs (B) — time: 52.5 sec.;

880-yard run: Tatarian (W), Lanigan (W), Felsch (B) — time 2 min., .1 sec.;

Mile run: Burns (W), dead heat McPhail (W) and Leone (B) — time 4 min. 55.1 sec.;

Pole vault: Joyce (W), Ladd (W), O'Brien (B) — height: 10 ft. 6 in.;

Triple jump: Tilden (W), Fang (B), Franco (B) — distance: 44 ft. 7 in.;

Relay: Won by Winchester — Guarente, Tatarian, Labedz and Meahl — time 1 min. 37.2 sec.

Lacrosse Stickmen Lose One, Win One

The Sachem lacrosse team opened its high school league with a very close 7-6 win over Framingham South, but had a difficult opening day with a 9-3 loss to St. Mark's School of Southboro earlier.

In the Framingham meet Winchester jumped out to a quick 3-1 lead in the first period on goals by Mike Sandford, Peter Sandford and Al Sampson. It looked like the Sachems had the game in control, but during the second period a series of penalties and some sloppy play allowed Framingham to come back.

A quick goal on the opening face-off of the second period tied the game at 3-3. Mike Sanford put Winchester ahead 4-3 only to see Framingham come back and take the lead 5-4 in the last period. Bill Doe tied the game at 5-5 and Framingham fell behind on Mike Sandford's third goal.

Framingham tied the game at 6-6 with only four minutes left but Winchester scored at three minutes to go on an extra man play by Mike Sandford. Bill Doe won the face-off and Sachem attackmen Al Sampson and John Cayo stalled out the last 2½ minutes with a good display of passing and running behind the Sachem goal to preserve the 7-6 victory.

The Winchester defense looked better with Bill Dexter, Chip Roche, Larry D'Onofrio and co-captain Paul Adams playing an improved game, especially on clearing the ball.

In the game opposite St. Mark's of Southboro, looking very tight Winchester had great difficulty picking up ground balls and controlling the ball on offense.

The Sachems had 70 candidates for lacrosse this spring. The team is inexperienced with only three starters returning from last year. Winchester inexperience is greatest in the goal where high school all-American Rick Murphy is being severely missed.

Attackmen Mike Sandford and Peter Sandford each scored a goal on assists from John Carzo and Bill Doe. Winchester's third goal was scored by midfielder David Bower unassisted.

The Sachems still lack the power they need in the midfield to score on offense and at times they are losing their men on defense.

Bouley feels the team will improve greatly with experience since none of the midfielders were starters last season. At present Bill Doe, Rich Lougee, Mike McLaughlin, Fred Labedz, David Bower and Paul Miller are holding down the midfield assignments.

Astros Soccer Team Wins At Lexington

The Winchester Astros soccer team won 2-1 at Lexington Sunday. During the first half the Winchester forwards had trouble putting together an attack on the Lexington goal. It was a scoreless first half.

At five minutes in the second half Bernie Belcastro at inside left scored for Winchester. At 12 minutes Lexington tied the game when Winchester's defenders were unsuccessful in clearing the ball from their area. But at the 33-minute mark, Bernie Belcastro got his second goal on a pass from Paul Austin at right wing and the Astros held on to win 2-1.

The Astros host Woburn next Sunday 1:30 at MacDonald Field.

Beacons Win 3-0 Over Sudbury Team

The Winchester Beacons of the Boston Area Youth Soccer League rallied for their second consecutive win of the season in their game with Sudbury.

The fast striking offense of the Beacons dominated the entire first half of the game won by the Winchester boys with a score of 3-0. Norm Alpert, playing left-wing, scored the first goal after a dazzling offensive play. Midway into the first half the ever-dangerous Dennis Collins scored for his fourth goal of the season.

Norm Alpert's second goal of the game during the waning moments of the first half set the actual final score.

During the second half, the Beacons pressed hard but could not score any further goals. Actually, during the better part of the game, the Beacons used their reserve players who gained valuable playing experience. Among the reserves George Vago, Richard Champoux and Bill Schramm excelled.

After two rounds of the championship tournament of the "B" division (ages 13-15), only the Winchester and Needham teams remain undefeated. They will oppose each other this coming Saturday at Loring Field. The season consists of five home and five away games.

Arpad von Lazar, Sean O'Riordan and Brian Flanagan are the coaches of the Beacons.

North Stars Win 2-1 Over Bruins

St. Eulalia's Pee Wee Hockey had the Bruins and North Stars fighting for first place with both teams sporting identical records.

Bob Staples wasted little time in putting the Bruins on top at 3:36 in the first period. Rich Purcell tied it up for the North Stars 2 minutes later, to finish the scoring in the opening period.

Rich Purcell also finished off a great pass from Paul Derba in the second period and finished the scoring in a tight checking contest with the North Stars coming out on top 2-1 to take over first place with one big game remaining with the Blackhawks who are flying and are undefeated in their last four starts.

Beckley Named

Lawrence E. Beckley of 5 Marshall rd., administrative officer of the Center for Space Research at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, has been appointed to the newly created post of assistant director of the center.

In the new post, Beckley, whose career at MIT spans nearly 31 years, will be responsible for all administrative matters within the center.

After receiving the S.B. degree from MIT in aeronautical engineering in 1942, Beckley joined the research staff of the aeroelastic laboratory. Following military leave with the US Navy from 1943 to 1946, he returned to the institute as project manager and then manager of the aeroelastic and structures research laboratory.

In 1961 the newly organized aerospace research division in the department of aeronautics and astronautics appointed Beckley executive officer.

He is an associate fellow of the Institute of Aerospace Sciences and a member of Sigma Xi.

Real Estate Today

TIME VERSUS MILES

Looking for a new home for your family? Just moved to a new job in a new location? Then commuting distance is an important consideration.

There was a time when the simple method of locating a home was to draw a circle on the map around your place of employment and look for a house in that geographic area. No longer is this the case.

With today's super highways, you might commute to a job 20 miles away in less time than it would take from an inner-city location of only five miles.

Today, you should draw you circle in terms of minutes rather than miles.

You may be passing up some wonderful home-buying opportunities, lower taxes, and better schools in distant suburban locations - only because you THOUGHT they would be too far away. Don't talk miles ... talk minutes and you may just find your right house at the right price. Makes sense doesn't it?

If you have any questions on this subject or on any other aspect of Real Estate, please feel free to call or drop in at JAMES T. TREFREY, INC., REALTORS, 27 Waterfield Road, Winchester - Tel. 729-6100.

Celtics Open With Pair Of Victories

The Winchester Celtics opened the 1973 drive for the "C" Division championship (12-year-olds) with two fine victories.

The Celts easily bested the Wellesley II eleven with a nearly flawless exhibition of defensive play. This fine defense, coupled with a first-half goal scored by Skiff Sizemore, was too much for Wellesley and they were able to muster only two shots on goal during the entire game.

Last Saturday the Celts played away at Franklin. John Waite and the McQuillan brothers—Brian and Barry—combined for three goals to rout the opposition. The defensive play again dominated the field totally blocking Franklin's thrust and notching the second shutout for the Celtics.

The next scheduled game is against the strong Needham team at MacDonald Field on Saturday.

Greek Orthodox Observes Easter

Hundreds of Greek Orthodox Christians in the Greater Woburn area will throng the Annunciation of the Virgin Mary Greek Orthodox Church, Woburn, tomorrow night for the resurrection service climaxing Holy Week.

The resurrection service at midnight will be followed by the Divine Liturgy of St. John Chrysostom which will end at 1:15 a.m. Preceding the midnight service will be the outdoor resurrection service.

Officiating will be the Rev. Fr. George D. Tsoukalas, pastor of the Annunciation on Montvale ave., Woburn. This evening, the Church will be filled with parishioners for the Service of the Lamentation, sung by the choir followed by a procession around the Church on Montvale ave. and Second and Union sts. with the Epitaphion, symbolizing the burial of Jesus Christ.

The flower decorated Epitaphion (Tomb) will be carried solemnly by members of the Parish Council. At the conclusion of these services, the flowers which decorated His Tomb will be distributed to the faithful attending the service.

The resurrection service is probably the most impressive in the Greek Orthodox religion. At midnight, the church is darkened and the priest comes forth with the Pascal Candle from which the new light is passed to the parishioners. The priest along with the choir and parishioners will sing the "Christos Anesti" (Christ is Risen!).

Easter Sunday morning will hold the Service of "Agape," the Feast of Love whereby the Gospel is read in various languages. Father George will distribute red colored Easter eggs to all those attending the Resurrection Service as well as the Agape Service.

Easter Sunday will be a day of rejoicing, reunions and feasting. Many families will probably barbecue whole lambs outside and give red-dyed Easter eggs to visitors calling at their homes.

The greeting of the day and for the entire 50 days after Easter is "Christos Anesti" (Christ is Risen) and the response is "Allthos Anesti" (He is truly risen).

Dr. Storer Will Preach This Sunday

And from "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures", by Mary Baker Eddy, "The material senses originate and support all that is material, untrue, selfish, or debased ... Decor 'n Design

by Paul Flanagan

When arranging accessories, always keep the idea of grouping in mind; otherwise you will have a lot of spotty, unrelated objects ... Hang pictures and mirrors in relation to furniture -- not too high, or they will seem to float off into space ... A large picture, or a group of smaller pictures goes well over a large sofa or a long cabinet, a small one alone over a chest or side table ... With paneled walls, first try to arrange the furniture so that the panels make a symmetrical pattern behind each piece ... If this does not work (and often it doesn't), then forget the paneling ... It is more important to relate pictures to furniture than to background lines ...

According to State Committee members Cynthia Barone and William Barnstead, who represent this district, the May 3 hearing will be the fifth in a series of 40 meetings to be initiated by the state GOP.

Four senatorial districts in the state have already hosted similar hearings in Wayland, Pittsfield, Dedham and Brockton

The issues committee will write the 1974 GOP platform. Chairman if State Committeeman Edward F. King of West Roxbury. King, 33 years old, may be remembered for his leadership in a campaign to defeat the graduated income tax last fall. He served for several years as deputy chairman for youth and as advisor to Massachusetts Young Republican organizations.

Mrs. Barone stated, "The opinions of former and present Republican candidates, local civic leaders and law enforcement officials have been of special interest in previous hearings. Their concerns together with those of the various townspeople should be the planks included in the Republican party's platform next year."

The meeting was set up through state committee members, with Mrs. F. Robert Johnson, vice chairman of the Winchester Republican Town Committee in charge of arrangements.

Representing the Republican Town Committees of the District will be chairman George Littell Jr. of Winchester, chairman Amato Lepore and vice chairman Marion Phillips of Medford, and Chairman William Barmstead and vice chairman Drita Eaton of Arlington, Mrs. Barone has served as coordinator for the Issues Committee and will make the introductions at the May meeting

Sorentino Will Appear In Series

The Middlesex Community College celebrity series will present Joseph Sorentino, award-winning author, lecturer, attorney and professor of law, on May 4 at 8 p.m. in Building 8, located on the Veterans Administration Hospital grounds in Bedford.

Sorentino has served with the justice department and has known both sides of American society. In spite of his strong criticisms of American institutions—the judicial, penal and educational—Sorentino believes his story says something unique about America. "With all its faults, shames and deficits, this is still a land of unique opportunity.

Sorentino's main theme is about the individual. "Social scientists," he says, "cannot measure human potential. Environment cannot measure human aspirations."

The public is invited to attend Mr. Sorentino's lecture. A donation will be required. Free parking is available.
